Acknowledgments

THE EDITORS WOULD LIKE TO EXTEND THEIR THANKS TO SEVERAL individuals who assisted at different stages and in different ways with the completion of this anthology. First, we would like to thank Chris Barker of Prentice Hall for encouraging us to make the initial proposal for the book. Literature Editor Carrie Brandon of Prentice Hall took us through the process of publication with patience and good humor. Diane Garvey Nesin proofread the manuscript meticulously and thoughtfully, and Production Editor, Shelly Kupperman, kept everyone on track and in good spirits. Gary Harrison of the University of New Mexico offered advice early on and generously thereafter. Several student research assistants have provided invaluable help. At Creighton University, John Stevens has worked on the project nearly since its inception and has proven himself the picture of calm, dependable efficiency. Amanda Gailey and Christopher Lantz also contributed their talents. At University of Maryland, Baltimore County, Kelly Rose worked diligently in preparing materials for the manuscript. Finally, Kirk McKusick and Eric Allman of Berkeley, California, offered their home and hospitality, fostering the collaborative effort.

Bridget Keegan wishes to thank foremost the students in English 381, Literature and the Environment, in the spring term of 1998. Without them and their inspiration, this anthology would never have been created. Brent Spencer of Creighton University and Nora Spencer offered unflagging friendship and emotional and practical support. Greg Zacharias, former chair of the Department of English at Creighton, was lavish with encouragement and advice, drawn from his considerable editorial expertise. Dean of the Graduate School, Barbara Braden, and former dean of the Creighton College of Arts and Sciences, Michael Proterra, S. J., generously supported travel and research that contributed to the work represented by this collection. Finally, Jeffrey L. Day recommended artwork and served as a reminder of how important it is to go "off the trail," as Gary Snyder says.

James McKusick wishes to express gratitude to the Graduate School of the University of Maryland, Baltimore County for funds in support of research travel to the British Library. He also wishes to thank Paige McKusick for support, both tangible and intangible.
