EDITED BY

W. BOYD RAYWARD

ASHGATE

INFORMATION BEYOND BORDERS

International Cultural and Intellectual Exchange in the Belle Époque

Information Beyond Borders

International Cultural and Intellectual Exchange in the Belle Époque

Edited by

W. BOYD RAYWARD

University of New South Wales, Sydney, Australia and
University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, USA

常州大学山书馆
藏书章

ASHGATE

© W. Boyd Rayward 2014

All rights reserved. No part of this publication may be reproduced, stored in a retrieval system or transmitted in any form or by any means, electronic, mechanical, photocopying, recording or otherwise without the prior permission of the publisher.

W. Boyd Rayward has asserted his right under the Copyright, Designs and Patents Act, 1988, to be identified as the editor of this work.

Published by Ashgate Publishing Limited
Wey Court East
Union Road
Farnham
Surrey, GU9 7PT
England

Ashgate Publishing Company
110 Cherry Street
Suite 3-1
Burlington, VT 05401-3818
USA

www.ashgate.com

British Library Cataloguing in Publication Data
A catalogue record for this book is available from the British Library

The Library of Congress has cataloged the printed edition as follows:
Information beyond borders : international cultural and intellectual exchange in the Belle Époque / [edited] by W. Boyd Rayward.
pages cm
Includes bibliographical references and index.
ISBN 978-1-4094-4225-7 (hardback) – ISBN 978-1-4094-4226-4 (ebook) – ISBN 978-1-4724-0212-7 (epub) 1. Information services–History–19th century. 2. Information services–History–20th century. 3. Documentation–History. 4. Information society–History. 5. Intellectual cooperation–History. 6. International cooperation–History. 7. Communication–Technological innovations–History. 8. Globalization–History. 9. Culture and globalization–History. 10. Language, Universal–History. I. Rayward, W. Boyd, 1939-

ZA3157.I53 2013
001.09'034–dc23

2013020327

ISBN 9781409442257 (hbk)
ISBN 9781409442264 (ebk – PDF)
ISBN 9781472402127 (ebk – ePUB)

MIX
Paper from responsible sources
FSC® C013985
www.fsc.org

Printed in the United Kingdom by Henry Ling Limited, at the Dorset Press, Dorchester, DT1 1HD

INFORMATION BEYOND BORDERS

Notes on Contributors

Alistair Black is a Professor in the Graduate School of Library and Information Science, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, USA. He received a BA in Modern History and MA in Social and Economic History from the University of London and a Postgraduate Diploma in Information Studies and his PhD from the Polytechnic of North London (now London Metropolitan University). After working in public and academic libraries, in 1990 he became a lecturer at Leeds Metropolitan University where he was appointed professor in 2001. He was Chair of the Library History Group of the Library Association, 1992–9, and of the International Federation of Library Associations (IFLA) Section on Library History, 2003–7. He was editor of Library History, 2004–8 and North American editor of Library and Information History, 2009–13. He is co-editor of the journal Library Trends. He is author of A New History of the English Public Library (Leicester University Press 1996) and The Public Library in Britain 1914–2000 (the British Library 2000). He is co-author with Dave Muddiman of Understanding Community Librarianship: The Public Library in Post-Modern Britain (Ashgate 1997); and with Dave Muddiman and Helen Plant of The Early Information Society in Britain, 1900–1960 (Ashgate 2007); and with Simon Pepper of Books, Buildings and Social Engineering: Early Public Libraries in Britain from Past to Present (Ashgate 2009). He is co-editor of Volume 3 (covering 1850–2000) of the Cambridge History of Libraries in Britain and Ireland (2006). His recent research is on the history of corporate libraries and staff magazines, and the design of public libraries in the 1960s.

Volker Barth is Assistant Professor of Modern History at the University of Cologne. He was educated in Germany and France. In 2004 he received a co-tutelle PhD from the Ludwig-Maximilians-University (LMU), Munich, and the École des Hautes Études en Sciences Sociales (EHESS), Paris. His teaching and research positions include the Université Paris VII–Denis Diderot, the German Academic Exchange Service (DAAD) and the Bureau International des Expositions (BIE), Paris. His current research project is on the cooperation of globally operating news agencies between the mid-nineteenth century and the interwar period, in particular on the emergence and establishment of a world information order that determined the global flow of news items in that period. His publications include: Mensch versus Welt. Die Pariser Weltausstellung von 1867 (Wissenschaftliche Buchgesellschaft 2007); "The Micro-history of a world event: Intention, perception and imagination at the Exposition universelle de 1867," Museum & Society 6 (2008); "Medien, Transnationalität und Globalisierung, 1830–1960: Neuerscheinungen und Desiderata," Archiv für Sozialgeschichte 51 (2011); "Making the Wire Speak: Transnational Techniques of Journalism, 1860–1930," in Global Communication Electric. Actors of a Globalizing World edited by Michaela Hampf and Simone Müller-Pohl (forthcoming).

此为试读,需要完整PDF请访问: www.ertongbook.com

Julie Carlier is the research coordinator of the interdisciplinary Ghent Centre for Global Studies (Ghent University, Belgium, 2013). She obtained a Masters degree in History at Ghent University (2003) and in European Studies at the Institut d'Études Politiques de Paris (Sciences-Po), 2005. Her PhD dissertation from Ghent University in 2010 was entitled, "Moving beyond boundaries. An entangled history of feminism in Belgium, 1890–1914." Her main research interests include gender, transnational history and the history of masculinities. Recent publications include, "An entangled history of ideas and ideals. Feminism, social and educational reform in children's libraries and children's literature in Belgium before the First World War" with co-author Christophe Verbruggen in Paedagogica Historica, 45 (2009); "Forgotten transnational connections and national contexts. An entangled history of the political transfers that shaped Belgian feminism, 1890–1914," Women's History Review, 19 (2010); "Réseaux transnationaux et la construction d'une identité féministe collective: transferts oubliés, connexions et conflits dans le cas de la Belgique (vers 1890–1918)", in Au-delà et en deçà de l'État. Le genre entre dynamiques transnationales et multi-niveaux edited by Bérengère Marquez-Perreira, Petra Meier and David Paternotte (Louvain-la-Neuve: Academia-Bruylant, 2010).

Mary Carroll is Associate Course Director for the School of Information Studies Charles Sturt University, Australia. She was educated in Australia and her PhD is from the Charles Sturt University. She was an Early Career Research Fellow at RMIT University, Melbourne, and a teacher and lecturer at Victoria University, Melbourne. Much of her research has focused on the history of libraries and of information organisation and on the history of education for the information professions internationally. In 2012/2013 she undertook the Public Spaces – Private Places: Private RTOs and Information Infrastructure research project funded by the National Centre for Vocational Education Research. This research explores the relationship between public libraries and private training providers in Australia. As well as publications on aspects of professional education, her recent publications include Defining Difference: The 'noble and less noble' traditions of education and training in Australia (Advances in Librarianship 2011*)* and with Sue Reynolds as co-author "'Disaffection in the library': Shaping a living centre of learning," History of Education Review (2012).

Heather Gaunt is Curator of Academic Programs (Research) at the Ian Potter Museum of Art, the University of Melbourne. She received her BMus, BA, and Graduate Diploma of Art Curatorial Studies from the University of Melbourne, Australia, and her PhD from the University of Tasmania, Australia. She has worked in a variety of areas in the museum sector in Australia during the past two decades. Her research in book and library history examines the historical development of Australiana collections in Australia's major "State" public libraries from the mid-nineteenth century to the mid-twentieth century in the contexts of nationalism and the development of historical consciousness in specific communities. Recent research and publications have explored the use of art museum environments and collections to teach visual observation and empathy skills in medical and dental students. Among her recent publications are: "'A native instinct of patriotism': nationalism in the Australian public library from Federation to the 1930s", Library History (2008); "Social memory in the public historical sphere: Henry Savery's 'The Hermit in Van Diemen's Land' and the Tasmanian Public Library", Library and Information History (2009); and "'How to encourage our literature': Australian fiction in the Australian Public Library before the Second World War", Australian Literary Studies (2012).

Frank Hartmann is Professor in the Faculty of Art & Design, Bauhaus-University Weimar, Germany. He was educated in Austria and his doctorate in philosophy is from the University of Vienna where he received his postdoctoral qualification (Habilitation) in the new interdisciplinary field of media philosophy. He has taught at several European Universities. Among international appointments is a guest professorship at the Universidade de São Paulo, Brasil. Among a number of books, textbooks, book chapters and articles on media history, theory, and philosophy are: Bildersprache: Otto Neurath Visualisierungen (2006); Globale Medienkultur: Technik, Geschichte, Theorien (2006); Multimedia (2008); and he edited Vom Buch zur Datenbank: Paul Otlets Utopie der Wissensvisualisierung (2012).

Charles van den Heuvel is Head of Research for the History of Science and Scholarship at the Huygens Institute for the History of the Netherlands of the Royal Netherlands Academy of Arts and Sciences. He holds the chair, Digital Methods and Historical Disciplines, in the University of Amsterdam. He studied Art History and Archaeology at the University of Groningen (PhD 1991). Together with Wijnand Mijnhardt (Utrecht University) he currently leads the project: Circulation of Knowledge and Learned Practices in the 17th Century Dutch Republic: a Web-based Humanities Collaboratory on Correspondence. His research has dealt with the history of architecture, fortification and town planning, history of cartography, and digital humanities. In this connection see especially his 'De Huysbou', A reconstruction of an unfinished treatise on architecture, town planning and civil engineering by Simon Stevin (Royal Dutch Academy of Sciences 2005). More recently aspects of his research deals with the history of information science. Recent publications include studies on Paul Otlet, Frits Donker Duyvis, the universe of knowledge metaphor (with Richard P. Smiraglia) and on visualizations of knowledge. His article "Facing Interfaces: Paul Otlet's Visualizations of Data Integration" with co-author W. Boyd Rayward appeared in the Journal of the American Society for Information Science and Technology (JASIS&T 2011).

Fabian de Kloe is a teaching assistant and member of the Graduate School of the Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences of Maastricht University, the Netherlands. His research examines internationalist claims and initiatives by scientists in the twentieth century. He explores their ideological functions and their relationship with the broader cultural and political contexts in which they were articulated. His PhD dissertation investigates early twentieth century attempts by scientists from France, Germany and the US to create and promote a scientific international language that was meant to facilitate the transfer of scientific knowledge across national boundaries. He is author of "Arenas of truth making: the HIV/AIDS correlation as a case of contested facticity in science, politics and journalism," Krisis: Journal for Journal for Contemporary Philosophy (2012).

Markus Krajewski is Associate Professor of Media History in the Faculty of Media at Bauhaus University Weimar. During the academic year 2008/09 he was a fellow at the Humanities Center at Harvard University and Visiting Professor in the History of Science Department. He is author of Paper Machines: About Cards & Catalogs, 1548–1929 (The MIT Press 2011); Der Diener: Mediengeschichte einer Figur zwischen König und Klient (2010) [forthcoming as The Servant. Media History of a Figure between King and Client, Yale University Press]; and of Restlosigkeit: Weltprojekte um 1900 (2006) [forthcoming as For the Rest: World Projects and Notions of Globality around 1900, University of Minnesota Press, 2014]. He is editor of Projectors. Knowledge Production in the Pre-form of Failure (in German, Kulturverlag Kadmos, 2005). His current research projects include the media and cultural history of servants, epistemology of the peripheral, and the history of exactitude in scholarly and scientific contexts. He has also developed and maintains the bibliographical software synapsen–a hypertextual card index (www.verzetteln.de/synapsen.).

Daniel Laqua is Senior Lecturer in European History at Northumbria University in Newcastle upon Tyne. He previously worked at University College London, where he also presented his doctoral thesis. His research deals with transnational activism in nineteenth- and twentieth-century Europe. He is particularly concerned with different forms of internationalism ranging from cultural exchange to political varieties (for instance socialist and pacifist movements). He is the author of The Age of Internationalism and Belgium, 1880–1930: Peace, Progress and Prestige (Manchester University Press, 2013) and the editor of Internationalism Reconfigured: Transnational Ideas and Movements Between the World Wars (I.B. Tauris, 2011). He is co-editor with Christophe Verbruggen and Gita Deneckere of an issue of Revue belge de philologie et d'histoire/Belgisch tijdschrift voor filologie en geschiedenis (2012) entitled "Beyond Belgium: Encounters, Exchanges and Entanglements, 1900–1925." His research has appeared in periodicals such as Labour History Review, Critique Internationale, the Journal of Global History and The International History Review.

Dave Muddiman retired in 2008 as Principal Lecturer in the School of Information Management, Leeds Metropolitan University. He was educated at Leicester University, UK and gained postgraduate degrees from the Polytechnic of North London and the UK Open University, subsequently working in public libraries until 1988. His early academic career and related research and publications focused on the sociology and recent history of the public library service. In 2000 he led a major UK government funded research project entitled Open to All? The Public Library and Social Exclusion. In the late 1990s his research turned to the history of the information society, in particular in the period 1870–1945. Recent publications have dealt with H.G. Wells, J.D. Bernal, the early history of ASLIB and the Imperial Institute among other topics. He is co-author with Alistair Black and Helen Plant of The Early Information Society: Information Management in Britain before the Computer (2007 Ashgate). In addition to part-time teaching and research, he is currently Book Reviews Editor of the Journal of Librarianship and Information Science and a contributor to the latest edition of the Encyclopaedia of Library and Information Sciences (Taylor and Francis).

W. Boyd Rayward is Emeritus Professor in the Graduate School of Library and Information Science of the University of Illinois and in the School of Information Systems, Technology and Management of the University of New South Wales. He was educated in Australia and the US. His PhD is from the University of Chicago. He has held professorial and decanal positions in the University of Chicago and the University of New South Wales. He is the recipient of the Research in Information Science Award of the American Society for Information Science and Technology. His recent research examines the history of the international organization of knowledge with studies of Paul Otlet's ideas in relation to hypertext, the internet, the World Wide Web and the beginnings of modern information science, of a number of utopian schemes of knowledge organization including H.G. Wells's idea of a world brain, and of the implications of digitisation and networking for libraries and museums. Among his publications are: The Universe of Information: The Work of Paul Otlet for Documentation and International Organization (VINITI 1975) translated into Russian and Spanish; International Organisation and Dissemination of Knowledge: Selected Essays of Paul Otlet (Elsevier 1990). He edited European Modernism and the Information Society (Ashgate 2008) and contributed chapters to Paul Otlet (1868–1944) Fondateur du Mundaneum: Architect du savoir, Artisan de paix, edited by Jacques Gillen (Les Impressions Nouvelles 2008) and, Mundaneum: Archives of Knowledge (University of Illinois 1910). "Mondothèque: A multimedia desk in a global Internet" (with Charles van den Heuvel) was issued in 2011 in the series "Science Maps as Visual Interfaces to Digital Libraries."

Sue Reynolds is a Senior Lecturer and Program Director for the Master of Information Management program in the School of Business IT and Logistics at RMIT University in Melbourne Australia. She was educated in Australia and the US. Her PhD is from Charles Sturt University in New South Wales. Her doctoral thesis won the American Library Association Phyllis Dain Library History Dissertation Award in 2011. Among her previous positions were appointments in Victoria University, Melbourne and San Jose State University, California. Her current research in library and information history is a project with Mary Carroll on the similarity of relationships between libraries and communities as they were in the nineteenth century and are developing in the twenty-first century, particularly with regard to the organization of resources. Among her publications are: "A Nineteenth Century Library and its Librarian: Factotum, Bookman or Professional" The Australian Library Journal, 56 (2007); "Cultural Record Keepers: The Library of the Supreme Court of the Colony of Victoria, Australia" in Libraries & the Cultural Record 45 (2010); "The Library of the Supreme court of the Colony of Victoria: 'Continuities ... Discontinuities ..., and ... Original Contributions'" in Ireland and the Irish Antipodes: One World or Worlds Apart? Papers delivered at the 16th Australasian Irish Studies Conference, Massey University, Wellington, New Zealand, edited by Brad and Kathryn Patterson (Anchor Books, 2010); with Mary Carroll, "Collaborators or Competitors? The Roles of School Libraries, Classroom Libraries, Teachers and Teacher librarians in Literacy Development" in Synergy 10 (2012); and Books for the Profession: The Library of the Supreme Court of Victoria (Australian Scholastic 2012).

Paul A. Servais is Professor in the Department of History of the Catholic University of Louvain where he took his PhD in 1979. He has held professorial and decanal positions in the Catholic University of Louvain, the École des Hautes Études en Sciences Socials (EHESS, Paris), the École Nationale des Chartes (Paris), and the University of Laval (Québec). His research examines the history of the network of international Orientalists and how knowledge and representations about the East in the Western countries were constructed between the 18th and 20th centuries. Among his publications relevant to this book are, as editor, *De l'Orient à l'Occident et retour. Perceptions et représentations de l'Autre dans la littérature et les guides de voyage (*Série Rencontres Orient-Occident 9, Louvain-la-Neuve, 2006) and Christianisme et Orient, 17e–21e siècles (Série Rencontres Orient-Occident 12; Louvain-la-Neuve, 2010). Other publications include "Sylvain Lévi, Louis de la Vallée Poussin et Etienne Lamotte, une généalogie orientaliste?," in Sylvain Lévi (1863–1935): Etudes indiennes, histoire sociale (Turnhout 2007); "Images de Chine: Le Père Léon Dieu à l'ombre de la Grande Muraille," in Images et paysages mentaux des 19e et 20e siècles de la Wallonie à l'Outre-mer ..." edited by L. Courtois, J.P. Delville et al. (Editions Academia 2007); and "Une Chine de papier: Charles de Harlez de Deulin: des études éraniennes aux études chinoises," in Chine – Europe – Amérique. Rencontres et échanges de Marco Polo à nos jours, edited by Shenwen Li (Presses de l'Université Laval 2009).

Geert J. Somsen teaches history of science in the History Department and the Science and Technology Studies Program of Maastricht University, the Netherlands. He was educated in the Netherlands and the US. His PhD is from the Utrecht University. He has been a visiting scholar at the universities of Uppsala, Harvard and Cambridge, UK. His research deals with scientific planning in the Netherlands and the UK, the propagandist role of science journalists, the uses of neutrality by scientists from small countries, and the campaigns for a scientific World State by H.G. Wells. Current work focuses on A.D. White's ideas of science and arbitration and George Sarton's internationalist history of science. Among his publications are: Neutrality in Twentieth-Century Europe: Intersections of Science, Culture, and Politics after the First World War, edited with Rebecka Lettevall and Sven Widmalm (Routledge 2012); "A History of Universalism: Conceptions of the Internationality of Science, 1750–1950," Minerva (2008); and "De Politiek van de Wetenschapsjournalistiek. De Socialistische Agenda van de Britse 'Scientific Journalists'", (The Politics of Science Journalism. British Scientific Journalists' Socialist Agenda) in Leonardo voor het Publiek. Een Geschiedenis van Wetenschaps- en Techniekcommunicatie edited by Frans J. Meijman, Stephen Snelders and Onno de Wit (Amsterdam: VU University Press).

Jan Surman received his PhD in History from the University of Vienna in 2012. His dissertation was on "Habsburg University 1848–1918: Biography of a Space." He was associated with the PhD program, The Sciences in Historical Context, at the University of Vienna and was visiting scholar at the Max Planck Institute for History of Science (Berlin), the Center for Austrian Studies at the University of Minnesota, the Institute for the History of Science of the Polish Academy of Sciences (Warsaw), and the Centre for the History of Sciences and Humanities (Prague). His publications include Dwa życia Ludwika Gumplowicza. Wybór tekstów co-edited with Gerald Mozetič (Oficyna Naukowa 2010) and The Nationalization of Scientific Knowledge in the Habsburg Empire, 1848–1918 coedited with Mitchell Ash (Macmillan 2012). He is currently a Leibniz–DAAD Research Fellow at the Herder Institute in Marburg, Germany.

Wouter Van Acker since 2013 is lecturer in Contemporary and Australian Architecture at the Griffith School of Environment (Architecture), Griffith University, Queensland, Australia. He obtained his Masters and PhD degrees in Architecture at Ghent University and was a post-doctoral Researh Fellow in the Department of Architecture and Urban Planning in Ghent University. His research explores the interdisciplinary relations between architecture, knowledge, the city, and art in the late 19th and early 20th century. Among his publications are: "Internationalist utopias of visual education: the graphic and scenographic transformation of the Universal Encyclopaedia in the work of Paul Otlet, Patrick Geddes and Otto Neurath" Perspectives on Science (2011); Universalism as Utopia. A Historical Study of the Schemes and Schemas of Paul Otlet (1868–1944) Doctoral Dissertation (2011); "Information and Space. Analogies and Metaphors," a special issue of Library

此为试读,需要完整PDF请访问: www.ertongbook.com

Trends co-edited with Pieter Uyttenhove (2012); "A Tale of Two World Capitals – the Internationalisms of Pieter Eijkman and Paul Otlet," co-authored with Geert Somsen Revue Belge de Philologie et d'Histoire/Belgisch Tijdschrift voor Filologie en Geschiedenis (2012)); and Gent 1913: Op het breukvlak van de Moderniteit co-edited with Christophe Verbruggen (Snoeck 2013).

Christophe Verbruggen is Professor in the research unit for Social History since 1750 in Ghent University, where he obtained his PhD. He has held fellowships at the Centre de Sociologie Européenne in Paris (2008) and the Institute for Historical Studies, Texas University at Austin (2009). His field of research is the social history of intellectuals and cultural institutions and he is currently studying transnational dynamics and relationships between intellectuals (1880–1930) and the development of Virtual Research Environments for the study of transnational history. Among his publications are a book on literary sociability (Schrijverschap tijdens de Belgische belle époque. Een sociaal-culturele geschiedenis, 2009) and articles in Paedagogica Historica, History of Science and with Lewis Pyenson as co-author in Isis. He is co-editor with Daniel Laqua and Gita Deneckere of Beyond Belgium. Encounters, Exchanges and Entanglements, 1900–1925 (a 2012 special issue of Revue Belge de Philologie et d'Histoire – Belgisch Tijdschrift voor Filologie en Geschiedenis).

Nader Vossoughian is an Associate Professor of Architecture at the New York Institute of Technology. He studied philosophy, cultural studies, and German literature at Berkeley, Swarthmore, the Albert-Ludwigs-Universitaet (Freiburg), and the Humboldt University (Berlin) before receiving his MPhil and PhD in the History and Theory of Architecture from Columbia University. From 2008–2010, he was a Researcher at the Jan van Eyck Academie in Maastricht. In 2012, he was a Visiting Scholar at the Canadian Centre for Architecture. He has curated exhibitions at Stroom den Haag, the MAK Center for Art and Architecture at the Schindler House in Los Angeles, the AIA Center for Architecture in New York, and the Museum of Applied Arts in Vienna. His research centers on the relationship between architecture, politics, and knowledge in 20th century modernism. He is author of Otto Neurath: The Language of the Global Polis (2008, paperback edition 2011). He has contributed to European Modernism and the Information Society; edited by W. Boyd Rayward (Ashgate 2010); Otto Neurath's Economics in Context edited by Elisabeth Nemeth, et al. (Vienna Circle: Springer 2007); and Josef Frank 1885–1967 – Eine Moderne der Unordnung, edited by Iris Meder (Pustet Anton 2008). His most recent publications include "On Ernst Neufert's Architects' Data: Architecture, Standardization, and the Language of Total War," which is forthcoming in the journal Grey Room.

Acknowledgements

These chapters represent a selection from the papers that were initially presented at a Colloquium, "Transcending Boundaries in the Period of the Belle Époque: organising knowledge, mobilising networks and effecting social change." This took place in the Mundaneum in Mons, Belgium, in May 2010. Special recognition should be accorded to the staff of the Mundaneum in setting up and managing the colloquium so successfully, especially the Director, Mme Charlotte Dubray for her support of the idea and the chief of the Archives Service, Stéphanie Manfroid and the archivist, Jacques Gillen for their never-failing help.

The papers chosen for publication here have been further developed, revised and reviewed.

The Colloquium, Transcending Boundaries is the fourth in a series that began in 2002:

Architecture of Knowledge: The Mundaneum and European Antecedents of the World Wide Web, Mundaneum, Mons, Belgium, 24–25 May 2002. An account of the discussions and papers is given in, Charles Van den Heuvel, W. Boyd Rayward, and Pieter Uyttenhove, "L'Architecture du savoir: une recherche sur le Mundaneum et les précurseurs européen de l'Internet," Transnational Associations / Associations transnationales, Issue 1–2, June 2003, pp. 16–28.

European Modernism and the Information Society: Informing the Present, Understanding the Past, a colloquium organised by Professor W. Boyd Rayward at the University of Illinois, Urbana, Illinois, USA, 6–8 May 2005. A selection of the papers was revised and published as European Modernism and the Information Society. Edited by W. Boyd Rayward. Aldershot, Hants: Ashgate, 2008.

Analogous Spaces: Architecture and the Space of Information, Intellect, Action, a colloquium organised by Pieter Uyttenhove and Wouter van Acker at the University of Ghent, Belgium, 1 May, 2008. A selection of papers from this colloquium were published as Wouter Van Acker and Pieter Uyttenhove (eds), "Information and Space: Analogies and Metaphors," Library Trends, 61(2): Fall 2012.

Contents

List of Figures vii
Notes on Contributors ix
Acknowledgements xvii

Introduction: International Exhibitions, Paul Otlet, Henri La Fontaine and the Paradox of the Belle Époque 1
W. Boyd Rayward

1 Of Artifacts and Organs: World Telegraph Cables and Ernst Kapp's Philosophy of Technology 23
Frank Hartmann

2 The Formation of Global News Agencies, 1859–1914 35
Volker Barth

3 "In the Pursuit of Colonial Intelligence": The Archive and Identity in the Australian Colonies in the Nineteenth Century 49
Heather Gaunt

4 Divided Space—Divided Science? Closing and Transcending Scientific Boundaries in Central Europe between 1860 and 1900 69
Jan Surman

5 Scholarly Networks and International Congresses: The Orientalists before the First World War 85
Paul Servais

6 Organizing a Global Idiom: Esperanto, Ido and the World Auxiliary Language Movement before the First World War 97
Markus Krajewski

7 Beyond Babel: Esperanto, Ido and Louis Couturat's Pursuit of an International Scientific Language 109
Fabian de Kloe

8 Laboratories of Social Thought: The Transnational Advocacy Network of the Institut International pour la Diffusion des Expériences Sociales and its Documents du Progrès (1907–1916) 123
Christophe Verbruggen and Julie Carlier

9 Sociology in Brussels, Organicism and the Idea of a World Society in the Period before the First World War 143
Wouter Van Acker

10 Collecting Paper: Die Brücke, the Bourgeois Interior, and the Architecture of Knowledge 169
Nader Vossoughian

11 Alfred H. Fried and the Challenges for "Scientific Pacifism" in the Belle Époque 181
Daniel Laqua

12 Global Government through Science: Pieter Eijkman's Plans for a World Capital 201
Geert J. Somsen

13 Dynamics of Networks and of Decimal Classification Systems, 1905–35 221
Charles van den Heuvel

14 The Great Classification Battle of 1910: A Tale of "Blunders and Bizzareries" at the Melbourne Public Library 243
Mary Carroll and Sue Reynolds

15 From Display to Data: the Commercial Museum and the Beginnings of Business Information, 1870–1914 259
Dave Muddiman

16 An Information Management Tool for Dismantling Barriers in Early Multinational Corporations: The Staff Magazine in Britain Before World War I 283
Alistair Black

Index 303

List of Figures

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| 1.1 | 1880: Anglo-American Telegraph Company North Atlantic map | 26 |
| 1.2 | Submarine telegraph cable section | 30 |
| 1.3 | Cross section of a nerve fiber | 30 |
| 1.4 | The American axe and the human arm | 31 |
| 6.1 | Esperanto at a glance | 103 |
| 8.1 | Journals related formally to the IIDES and patron institutions | 126 |
| 8.2 | Membership by country of the IIDES | 130 |
| 8.3 | Society members of IIDES | 131 |
| 9.1 | Schema of "Economic and Social Statics," based on Hector Denis's Systèmes économiques © Reproduced with permission of the Mundaneum, Mons | 156 |
| 9.2 | Paul Otlet, progressive extension of social structures © Reproduced with permission of the Mundaneum, Mons | 157 |
| 9.3 | Paul Otlet, relations between a world centre and international, national, regional, and local organisms with different categories of functions © Reproduced with permission of the Mundaneum, Mons | 160 |
| 9.4 | Paul Otlet, the evolution of the world's organization © Reproduced with permission of the Mundaneum, Mons | 161 |
| 9.5 | Paul Otlet, war compared to general paralysis © Reproduced with permission of the Mundaneum, Mons | 162 |
| 10.1 | Freud's study, 1938 © Edmund Engelman | 174 |
| 10.2 | Emil Pirchan, "Writing Table with World Format Boxes" | 175 |
| 10.3 | Emil Pirchan, "Travel Office" | 176 |
| 10.4 | Emil Pirchan, "Large Library" | 177 |
| 12.1 | Eijkman's world capital designed by Karel de Bazel | 202 |
| 12.2 | Eijkman's clinic Natura Sanat (left) and house (right) in the opulent Van Stolkpark | 203 |
| 12.3 | Sketch of part of the projected world capital with Eijkman's residence | 213 |

13.1 Portrait of Walter Théodore Glineur, © Reproduced with permission of the Mundaneum, Mons 234
13.2 Transition from the universal classification of science (i.e., U.D.C.) to the universal classification of conscience and the eye of clairvoyance © Reproduced with permission of the Mundaneum, Mons 238

16.1 An advertisement for Ford in Australia, reflecting the corporation's global presence in 1910. Reproduced with permission of the Benson-Ford Research Center, The Henry Ford, Dearborn, Detroit. 289
16.2 Lever Brothers foreign and colonial department. Reproduced with permission of Unilever, PLC 295

此为试读,需要完整PDF请访问: www.ertongbook.com