EDITOR'S NOTE

This edition takes account of all changes in staff and sittings of courts which have been notified up to 1st July 1983, including the reorganisation of certain Magistrates' Courts in Buckinghamshire and Cambridgeshire.

The Appendix containing the postal address and telephone numbers of Prison Department Establishments has been brought up to date, involving extensive amendment as a result of the abolition of Borstal Institutions and the introduction of Youth Custody Centres.

The entries in the Magistrates' Courts section are arranged alphabetically within counties, which are themselves arranged alphabetically within England and Wales. For the most part the court code numbers follow numerically within this arrangement, but where these do not coincide exactly, suitable cross references have been included; this is particularly so in the case of the London Courts which have not yet been renumbered. The entries relating to courts which have been amalgamated or abolished have been retained as these may be required for the identification of particulars of endorseable convictions recorded before the reorganisation took place. Only the adult court number has been included, as the juvenile court number will always be 4000 higher than that of the adult court. Court code numbers for the Courts in Scotland have now been included; there are no code numbers for the Courts in Northern Ireland.

The alphabetical index to Courts of Summary Jurisdiction also refers to the court code numbers so that it will be possible to find the name of any court where the code number only is known, or vice versa.

In the case of the Crown Courts the Court code numbers are being amended with effect from the 1st January 1984, and the new number is shown against each court, with the old number in brackets. Both old and new numbers are given in the Alphabetical Index on page 23, and Numerical Indices for both the old and the new numbers are set out on pages 21 and 22 respectively.

The District Registries of the High Court are indicated against the appropriate entries of the County Court Offices in Part II which are arranged in alphabetical order.

Although every effort has been made to obtain complete accuracy, some errors will undoubtedly appear, and Court Officers are asked to advise the Publishers of these, and of any changes which may occur in the future, in order that these may be incorporated in the next edition.
