I am very grateful to Roger Kanet who worked tirelessly and with great patience to help develop this book and to bring it successfully to the Palgrave Macmillan Studies in Central and Eastern Europe Series. Robert Jenkins (Director of the Center on Slavic, East European and Eurasian Studies at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill) helped frame the book and offered insightful comments on the chapters. Jennifer Pyclik was immensely helpful in carrying out careful and thorough copy-editing of the original manuscripts. I am particularly indebted to Dennis Arnold, Annelies Goger, Christian Sellar and Tim Stallmann. They stepped in at very short notice to help with the review and correcting of the proofs.

Review and editing on State and Society in Post-Socialist Economies was carried out from spring through winter 2006, and final editing was completed over the winter break 2006–7. My wife, son, and parents were again kind enough to put up with John ‘doing’ another book in the precious summer and winter holidays which could otherwise have been put to different uses. I am reminded of this ‘otherness’ of our lives, particularly on the day that I print the final manuscript for the publisher, because today I learned of the passing of Allan Pred. For over four decades Allan was one of the world’s leading geographers, a constant voice for social justice, an inveterate writer of wonderful books dealing with the ambiguities of Swedish social democracy, and a friend. He and Michael Watts first introduced me to the complex dialectics of Walter Benjamin, illuminating new possibilities for thinking about European socialisms and post-socialisms. I dedicate this book to his memory.
