The Authors

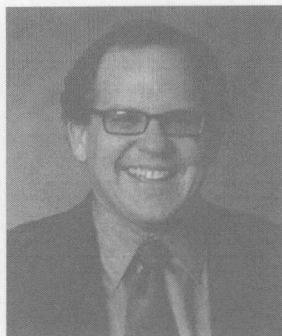

Alvin Goldman received his AB from Columbia University in 1959 and his LL.B. from New York University in 1962. After practicing law in New York City, specializing in labor relations, he began full-time teaching at the University of Kentucky in 1965 and took emeritus status in 2008.

Prof. Goldman served as Professor in Residence to National Labor Relations Board Member Sam Zagoria during the 1967-68 academic year, was a visiting scholar at the Institute for Labor Law, Catholic University, Leuven, Belgium, in 1973, and was Visiting Professor at the School of Law, University of California-Davis, in the 1976-1977 academic year. In addition to teaching, he is a labor arbitrator.

Professor Goldman is a member and former Chair of the Labor Law Group Trust for which he prepared Processes for Conflict Resolution (BNA 1972) and co-authored Legislation Protecting the Individual Employee (BNA 1982 with R. Covington), and Legal Protection for the Individual Employee (West 1989, 1996, 2002 with M. Finkin, C. Summers and K. Dau-Schmidt). He also authored Settling for More: Mastering Negotiating Strategies and Techniques (BNA 1991) and The Supreme Court and Labor-Management Relations Law (D.C. Heath 1976), co-authored Negotiation: Theory and Practice (Kluwer Law International, 2003 with J. Rojot), and has written chapters for several books including Comparative Labour Law and Industrial Relations in Industrialized Market Economies (Kluwer), and is US co-reporter for International Labour Law Reports (Martinus Nijhoff). Alvin Goldman is past Chair of the US Branch, International Society for Labor Law and Social Security.

The Authors

Roberto L. Corrada is Professor of Law at the University of Denver College of Law, where he teaches employment and labor law, contracts, administrative law, and race and the law. He is author of articles in the field of labor, civil rights, and employment discrimination law, particularly in the areas of religious discrimination and employment arbitration. Professor Corrada has published articles in numerous law reviews, including the University of Houston, Denver, and Miami Law Review, the La Raza Law Review, the Villanova Law Review, and the Berkeley Journal of Employment and Labor Law. He is a member of the Labor Law Group and has casebooks in Employment Discrimination Law and forthcoming in Labor Law, in addition to a casebook in Administrative Law.

Prior to joining the law faculty, Professor Corrada was a labor attorney with the Washington, DC office of Akin, Gump, Strauss, Hauer & Feld where he worked on matters involving Continental Air Lines, Burlington & Northern Railroad, Purolator Courier, GTE, and Albertson's, among others. Professor Corrada has served in a variety of administrative roles, including as Associate Dean of the University of Denver College of Law (2005), chair of the board of the ACLU of Colorado (1998) and chair of the Association of American Law Schools' Section on Labor and Employment Law (2002).

Professor Corrada has won various honors and awards, including the University of Denver Distinguished Teaching Award (2006), the University of Denver Donald & Susan Sturm Professorship for Excellence in Teaching (2003–2005), the Edward Sherman Award (presented by the American Civil Liberties Union of Colorado to the Outstanding Cooperating Attorney of the Year, in 1997), the Colorado Hispanic Bar Association Community Service Award (1997), and the University of Denver College of Law Hughes Research Professorship (1996). Professor Corrada graduated from the Catholic University of America Columbus School of Law in 1985, where he served as editor-in-chief of the law review.
