NOTICE

Extraordinary efforts have been made by the authors, the editors, and the publisher of this book to insure that dosage recommendations are precise and in agreement with standards officially accepted at the time of publication.

It does happen, however, that dosage schedules are changed from time to time in the light of accumulating clinical experience and continuing laboratory studies. This is most likely to occur in the case of recently introduced products.

It is urged, therefore, that you check the manufacturer's recommendations for dosage, especially if the drug to be administered or prescribed is one that you use only infrequently or have not used for some time.

Preface

This, the twenty-fourth edition of Current Therapy, continues the original purpose of these annual editions to bring concise and current authoritative information on therapy to the practicing physician. The therapeutic advances continue at a steady pace, and the physician is confronted with a deluge of information from which he must extract the information needed in his particular type of practice. This can become a tedious, time-consuming task to which the busy physician can ill afford to expend the necessary time and effort to ensure his therapeutic practice is truly current. It is the aim of this volume to present a distillation of past and recent information that is to the point, well ordered, and representative of current accepted practice.

The term "method of" preceding the name of the author-clinician refers to the regimen in current use by the named author; it does not imply that the author was the originator of the method described. Present-day treatment is by and large a summation of the work of many clinicians over the years, and no attempt has been made to confine coverage to recent advances only.

Each new edition may best be considered a new book rather than a revision of the old. Methods by authors new to the book appear in this edition for most topics, and substantial revision of articles published in past editions has been made. Additions or deletions have been made to enable the book to keep abreast of the changing importance of certain diseases or other factors influencing therapy.

The Editor wishes to express his most sincere and heartfelt appreciation to Drs. M. Edward Davis, Vincent J. Derbes, Garfield G. Duncan, Hugh J. Jewett, H. Houston Merritt, Walter L. Palmer, Hobart A. Reimann, and Robert H. Williams for their wise guidance as Consultants. It is to their credit that the high standard of these volumes has been maintained over the years.

The Editor welcomes to the Board of Consultants Drs. Thomas B. Barnett, James L. A. Roth, Grace A. Goldsmith, Frederic A. Bartter, Willard E. Goodwin, Thomas E. Van Metre, Fred Plum, Walter A. Bonney, Lawrence C. Kolb, and Daniel J. McCarty.

The effectiveness and success of Current Therapy have been due in greatest measure to the Contributors and Consultants, to whom the Editor is deeply grateful. A book of this type would not be possible without their wholehearted cooperation. The Editor also wishes to thank the staff of the W. B. Saunders Company for their wise guidance and unstinted assistance.
