The Authors

Robert Clark is an emeritus professor of law within the School of Law, University College Dublin. His research interests are in the area of commercial law, particularly contract law, copyright and designs and information technology law. Major publications include Contract Law in Ireland (Thomson Reuters), now in its 7th edition, and Irish Copyright and Designs Law (Bloomsbury), published in 2001 with twice-annual updates. Professor Clark is the co-author of Intellectual Property Law in Ireland, with Shane Smyth (third edition 2010).

Robert Clark has been the editor of Irish Current Law Statutes Annotated since 1987, and he is a member of the editorial board of the European Review of Private Law. During 1990 to 2005, he was the Irish national expert on the Copyright Expert Group (DG III/Market), and before that he was a member of the DG XIII Legal Advisory Board on Information Technology Law. At national level, he has been a member of a number of governmental bodies including the Internet Advisory Board and the legal issues group of the Information Society Commission, the Patent Office Users Council and the Data Protection Review Group. Professor Clark was appointed to chair the Sales Law Review Group (Department of Enterprise, Trade and Employment). A barrister-at-law, Robert Clark is a consultant to the Technology and Innovation practice group of Arthur Cox, Dublin and London.

Máire Ní Shúilleabháin is a college lecturer at the School of Law, University College Dublin, where she teaches intellectual property law, commercial law and the conflict of laws. Her primary research interests are in the areas of trademark law and the family aspects of the conflict of laws. She has recently completed a PhD thesis at the University of Nottingham on the impact of European harmonization on aspects of jurisdiction and judgment-recognition law. She is qualified as a barrister (King's Inns, Dublin, 1997) and is also a graduate of University College Dublin (BCL, 1995; LL.M., 1998), Universität
