

WORKERS OF ALL COUNTRIES, UNITE!

И. Сталин.

J. STALIN

PROBLEMS OF LENINISM

FOREIGN LANGUAGES PUBLISHING HOUSE

MOSCOW 1953

PUBLISHER'S NOTE

This translation of J. V. Stalin's Problems of Leninism has been made from the latest, eleventh, Russian edition (Gospolitizdat, Moscow 1952).

CONTENTS

	Page
THE FOUNDATIONS OF LENINISM. Lectures Delivered at the Sverdlov University.	15
I. The Historical Roots of Leninism	17
II. Method.	23
III. Theory.	30
IV. The Dictatorship of the Proletariat.	46
V. The Peasant Problem.	58
VI. The National Problem.	70
VII. Strategy and Tactics.	80
VIII. The Party	96
IX. Style in Work	110
THE OCTOBER REVOLUTION AND THE TACTICS OF THE RUSSIAN COMMUNISTS.	113
I. The Internal and External Setting for the October Revolution.	113
II. Two Peculiar Features of the October Revolution—or October and Trotsky's Theory of "Permanent" Revolution	116
III. Certain Peculiar Features of the Tactics of the Bolsheviks During the Period of Preparation for October	131
IV. The October Revolution as the Beginning of and the Ground-work for the World Revolution.	144
ON THE PROBLEMS OF LENINISM.	149
I. Definition of Leninism	149
II. The Fundamental Thing in Leninism	151
III. The Question of "Permanent" Revolution.	153
IV. The Proletarian Revolution and the Dictatorship of the Proletariat	155
V. The Party and the Working Class in the System of the Dictatorship of the Proletariat	164
VI. The Question of the Victory of Socialism in One Country	188
VII. The Fight for the Victory of Socialist Construction	200

CONTENTS

THE PARTY'S THREE FUNDAMENTAL SLOGANS ON THE PEASANT PROBLEM. Reply to Yan—sky	213
THE SLOGAN OF THE DICTATORSHIP OF THE PROLETARIAT AND THE POOR PEASANTRY IN THE PERIOD OF PREPA- RATION FOR OCTOBER. Reply to S. Pokrofsky	226
THE INTERNATIONAL CHARACTER OF THE OCTOBER REV- OLUTION. On the Occasion of the Tenth Anniversary of the Octo- ber Revolution.	237
ON THE GRAIN FRONT. Excerpt From a Talk to Students of the In- stitute of Red Professors, the Communist Academy and the Sverdlov University on May 28, 1928	247
LENIN AND THE QUESTION OF ALLIANCE WITH THE MID- DLE PEASANT. Reply to Comrade S.	260
THE RIGHT DANGER IN THE C.P.S.U.(B.). Speech Delivered at the Plenum of the Moscow Committee and the Moscow Control Commission of the C.P.S.U.(B.), October 19, 1928	273
THE RIGHT DEVIATION IN THE C.P.S.U.(B.). Speech Delivered at the Plenum of the Central Committee and the Central Con- trol Commission of the C.P.S.U.(B.), April 1929 (Stenographic Record)	287
I. One or Two Lines?	288
II. Class Changes and Our Differences	294
III. Differences on Comintern Questions	302
IV. Differences on Internal Policy	308
a) The Class Struggle	309
b) The Intensification of the Class Struggle	314
c) The Peasantry	318
d) NEP and Market Relations	321
e) The So-Called "Tribute"	326
f) The Rate of Development of Industry and the New Forms of the Bond	332
g) Bukharin as a Theoretician.	341
h) A Five-Year Plan or a Two-Year Plan	350
i) The Question of the Crop Area	353
j) The Grain-Purchasing Campaign	355
k) Foreign Currency Reserve and Imports of Grain	361

V. Problems of Party Leadership	364
a) The Factionalism of Bukharin's Group	364
b) Loyalty and Collective Leadership	366
c) The Fight Against the Right Deviation.	370
VI. Conclusions	372
A YEAR OF GREAT CHANGE. On the Occasion of the Twelfth Anniversary of the October Revolution.	374
I. In the Sphere of Productivity of Labour.	375
II. In the Sphere of Industrial Construction	376
III. In the Sphere of Agricultural Construction	379
Conclusions.	388
PROBLEMS OF AGRARIAN POLICY IN THE U.S.S.R. Speech Delivered at the Conference of Marxist Students of the Agrarian Question, December 27, 1929.	389
I. The Theory of "Equilibrium"	391
II. The Theory of "Spontaneity" in Socialist Construction	393
III. The Theory of the "Stability" of Small-Peasant Farming	395
IV. Town and Country	401
V. The Nature of Collective Farms.	404
VI. The Class Changes and the Turn in the Party's Policy	408
VII. Conclusions	412
THE POLICY OF ELIMINATING THE KULAKS AS A CLASS.	414
DIZZY WITH SUCCESS. Problems of the Collective-Farm Movement	419
REPLY TO COLLECTIVE-FARM COMRADES	426
THE TASKS OF BUSINESS EXECUTIVES. Speech Delivered at the First All-Union Conference of Managers of Socialist Industry, February 4, 1931.	448
NEW CONDITIONS — NEW TASKS IN ECONOMIC CONSTRUCTION. Speech Delivered at a Conference of Business Executives, June 23, 1931.	459
I. Labour Power	460
II. Wages	462
III. The Organization of Work	466
IV. A Working-Class Industrial and Technical Intelligentsia	470
V. Symptoms of a Change of Attitude Among the Old Industrial and Technical Intelligentsia	473
VI. Business Accounting	476
VII. New Methods of Work, New Methods of Management.	479

SOME QUESTIONS CONCERNING THE HISTORY OF BOLSHEVISM. Letter to the Editorial Board of Proletarskaya Revolutsia	483
---	-----

THE RESULTS OF THE FIRST FIVE-YEAR PLAN.

Report Delivered at the Joint Plenum of the Central Committee and the Central Control Commission of the C.P.S.U.(B.), January 7, 1933.	498
---	-----

I. The International Significance of the Five-Year Plan	498
II. The Fundamental Task of the Five-Year Plan and the Path of Its Fulfilment.	507
III. The Results of the Five-Year Plan in Four Years in the Sphere of Industry.	512
IV. The Results of the Five-Year Plan in Four Years in the Sphere of Agriculture	520
V. The Results of the Five-Year Plan in Four Years as Regards the Improvement of the Material Conditions of the Workers and Peasants	526
VI. The Results of the Five-Year Plan in Four Years as Regards Trade Turnover Between Town and Country	531
VII. The Results of the Five-Year Plan in Four Years in the Sphere of the Struggle Against the Remnants of the Hostile Classes	535
VIII. General Conclusions	540

WORK IN THE RURAL DISTRICTS. Speech Delivered at the Joint Plenum of the Central Committee and the Central Control Commission of the C.P.S.U.(B.), January 11, 1933.	543
---	-----

SPEECH DELIVERED AT THE FIRST ALL-UNION CONGRESS OF COLLECTIVE-FARM SHOCK WORKERS, February 19, 1933.	559
--	-----

I. The Collective-Farm Path Is the Only Right Path	559
II. Our Immediate Task—to Make All the Collective Farmers Prosperous.	566
III. A Few Remarks	570

REPORT TO THE SEVENTEENTH CONGRESS OF THE C.P.S.U.(B.) ON THE WORK OF THE CENTRAL COMMITTEE, January 26, 1934.	576
---	-----

I. The Continuing Crisis of World Capitalism and the Position of the Soviet Union in International Affairs.	576
1. The Course of the Economic Crisis in the Capitalist Countries.	577

2. The Growing Tension in the Political Situation in the Capitalist Countries.	583
3. The Relations Between the U.S.S.R. and the Capitalist States.	590
II. The Continued Progress of the National Economy and the Internal Situation in the U.S.S.R.	595
1. Progress of Industry.	598
2. Progress of Agriculture.	604
3. The Rise in the Material and Cultural Standard of the Working People.	617
4. Progress in Trade Turnover and the Transport Services.	623
III. The Party	628
1. Problems of Ideological-Political Leadership	629
2. Problems of Organizational Leadership	643
IN LIEU OF CONCLUDING REMARKS, January 31, 1934.	656
ADDRESS DELIVERED IN THE KREMLIN PALACE TO THE GRADUATES FROM THE RED ARMY ACADEMIES, May 4, 1935.	657
SPEECH AT THE FIRST ALL-UNION CONFERENCE OF STAKHANOVITES, November 17, 1935.	663
1. The Significance of the Stakhanov Movement	663
2. The Roots of the Stakhanov Movement.	668
3. New People—New Technical Standards.	672
4. Immediate Tasks.	675
5. A Few More Words	678
ON THE DRAFT CONSTITUTION OF THE U.S.S.R. Report Delivered at the Extraordinary Eighth Congress of Soviets of the U.S.S.R., November 25, 1936.	679
I. Formation of the Constitution Commission and Its Tasks	679
II. Changes in the Life of the U.S.S.R. in the Period from 1924 to 1936	680
III. The Principal Specific Features of the Draft Constitution	688
IV. Bourgeois Criticism of the Draft Constitution	693
V. Amendments and Addenda to the Draft Constitution	700
VI. The Significance of the New Constitution of the U.S.S.R.	711
DIALECTICAL AND HISTORICAL MATERIALISM (September 1938)	713

REPORT TO THE EIGHTEENTH CONGRESS OF THE C.P.S.U.(B.)
ON THE WORK OF THE CENTRAL COMMITTEE, March 10,
1939.	746
I. The Soviet Union and International Affairs.	746
1. New Economic Crisis in the Capitalist Countries. Intensification of the Struggle for Markets and Sources of Raw Material, and for a New Redivision of the World	747
2. Increasing Acuteness of the International Political Situation. Collapse of the Postwar System of Peace
Treaties. Beginning of a New Imperialist War	751
3. The Soviet Union and the Capitalist Countries	756
II. Internal Affairs of the Soviet Union	759
1. Further Progress of Industry and Agriculture.	760
2. Further Rise in the Material and Cultural Standard of the People	773
3. Further Consolidation of the Soviet System.	777
III. Further Strengthening of the C.P.S.U.(B.)	780
1. Measures to Improve the Composition of the Party.
Division of Organizations, Closer Contact Between the Leading Party Bodies and the Work of the Lower
Bodies	781
2. Selection, Promotion and Allocation of Cadres	784
3. Party Propaganda. Marxist-Leninist Training of Party
Members and Party Cadres	787
4. Some Questions of Theory	790

PUBLISHER'S NOTE TO THE RUSSIAN EDITION

The present, eleventh, edition of Problems of Leninism differs from the tenth edition in that it includes a number of more recent works which are, relatively, of greater importance at the present moment, namely:

1) Address to the Graduates from the Red Army Academies (delivered in the Kremlin, May 4, 1935).

2) Speech at the First All-Union Conference of Stakhanovites (November 17, 1935).

3) On the Draft Constitution of the U.S.S.R. (Report delivered at the Extraordinary Eighth Congress of Soviets of the U.S.S.R., November 25, 1936).

4) Dialectical and Historical Materialism (written by Comrade Stalin for the History of the C.P.S.U.(B.)—Short Course in September 1938).

5) Report to the Eighteenth Congress of the C.P.S.U.(B.) on the work of the Central Committee (delivered March 10, 1939).

In order not to unduly increase the size of the book, the present edition omits the "Interview with the First American Labour Delegation," the "Report of the Central Committee to the Sixteenth Congress of the C.P.S.U.(B.)," and the "Interview with the English Author H. G. Wells," which appeared in the tenth edition.

These changes were made with the consent of the author.

State Publishing House of Political Literature

PROBLEMS OF LENINISM

THE FOUNDATIONS OF LENINISM

Lectures Delivered at the Sverdlov University

DEDICATED TO THE RECRUITS
OF THE LENIN ENROLMENT

J. STALIN

The foundations of Leninism is a big subject. To exhaust it a whole volume would be required. Indeed, a number of volumes would be required. Naturally, therefore, my lectures cannot pretend to be an exhaustive exposition of Leninism; at best they can offer but a concise synopsis of the foundations of Leninism. Nevertheless, I consider it useful to give this synopsis, in order to lay down some basic points of departure necessary for the successful study of Leninism.

Expounding the foundations of Leninism does not yet mean expounding the basis of Lenin's world outlook. Lenin's world outlook and the foundations of Leninism are not conterminous. Lenin was a Marxist, and Marxism is, of course, the basis of his world outlook. But from this it does not at all follow that an exposition of Leninism ought to begin with an exposition of the foundations of Marxism. To expound Leninism means to expound the distinctive and new in the works of Lenin that Lenin contributed to the general treasury of Marxism and that is naturally connected with his name. Only in this sense will I speak in my lectures of the foundations of Leninism.

And so, what is Leninism?

Some say that Leninism is the application of Marxism to the conditions that are peculiar to the situation in Russia. This definition contains a particle of truth, but not the whole truth by any means. Lenin, indeed, applied Marxism to Russian conditions, and applied it in a masterly way. But if Leninism were only the application of Marxism to the conditions that are peculiar to Russia it would be a purely national and only a national, a purely Russian and only a Russian, phenomenon. We know, however, that Leninism is not merely a Russian, but an international phenomenon rooted in the whole of international development. That is why I think this definition suffers from one-sidedness.

Others say that Leninism is the revival of the revolutionary elements of Marxism of the forties of the nineteenth century, as distinct from the Marxism of subsequent years, when, it is alleged, it became moderate, nonrevolutionary. If we disregard this foolish and vulgar division of the teachings of Marx into two parts, revolutionary and moderate, we must admit that even this totally inadequate and unsatisfactory definition contains a particle of truth. That particle of truth is that Lenin did indeed restore the revolutionary content of Marxism, which had been immured by the opportunists of the Second International. Still, that is but a particle of the truth. The whole truth about Leninism is that Leninism not only restored Marxism, but also took a step forward, developing Marxism further under the new conditions of capitalism and of the class struggle of the proletariat.

What, then, in the last analysis, is Leninism?

Leninism is Marxism of the era of imperialism and of the proletarian revolution. To be more exact, Leninism is the theory and tactics of the proletarian revolution in general, the theory and tactics of the dictatorship of the proletariat in particular. Marx and Engels pursued their activities in the prerevolutionary period (we have the proletarian revolution in mind), when developed imperialism did not yet exist, in the period of the proletarians' preparation for revolution, in the period when the proletarian revolution was not yet an immediate practical inevitability. But Lenin, the disciple of Marx and Engels, pursued his activities in the period of developed imperialism, in the period of the unfolding proletarian revolution, when the proletarian revolution had already triumphed in one country, had smashed bourgeois democracy and had ushered in the era of proletarian democracy, the era of the Soviets.

That is why Leninism is the further development of Marxism.

It is usual to point to the exceptionally militant and exceptionally revolutionary character of Leninism. This is quite cor-