AUDIO-VISUAL COVERAGE OF COURTS

Researched over a period of fifteen years and written by an author who has participated in each country's debate, Audio-Visual Coverage of Courts is the first book to undertake a comprehensive comparative study of televised court proceedings in Great Britain, the United States, Canada, Australia and New Zealand.

Exhaustive in his identification and analysis of relevant law and key developments, Daniel Stepniak also relies on hitherto largely unpublished primary sources to provide unprecedented coverage of the experiences of courts. Through analysis of common law courts' regulation of audio-visual reporting Daniel Stepniak proposes a theoretical framework and proven action plan for the attainment of the potential benefits of audio-visual coverage, and argues that technological advances, the entrenchment of rights and, above all, the recognition by courts of their vested interests in facilitating greater public access and understanding of judicial proceedings have all led to audio-visual coverage becoming increasingly perceived as desirable.

DANIEL STEPNIAK teaches law at the University of Western Australia.
