

Social Studies for Elementary School Children

Developing Young Citizens

Second Edition

Peter H. Martorella

Social Studies for Elementary School Children

Developing Young Citizens

Second Edition

Peter H. Martorella

North Carolina State University

Merrill,
an imprint of Prentice Hall
Upper Saddle River, New Jersey      Columbus, Ohio

Library of Congress Cataloging-in-Publication Data

Martorella, Peter H.

Social studies for elementary school children : developing young citizens / Peter H.

Martorella.—2nd ed.

p. cm.

Includes bibliographical references and index.

ISBN 0-13-496506-X

1. Social sciences—Study and teaching (Elementary)—United States. 2. Education, Elementary—Activity programs—United States. I. Title.

LB1584.M346 1998

372.83'0973—dc21

97-18758

CIP

Editor: Bradley J. Potthoff

Production Editor: Mary Harlan

Design Coordinator: Karrie M. Converse

Text Designer: STELLARVISIONS

Cover Designer: Brian Deep

Cover photo: Mike Agliolo, International Stock

Production Manager: Deidra M. Schwartz

Electronic Text Management: Marilyn Wilson Phelps, Matthew Williams, Karen L. Bretz, Tracey B. Ward

Photo Researcher: Anthony Magnacca

Illustrations: Tracey B. Ward

Director of Marketing: Kevin Flanagan

Marketing Manager: Suzanne Stanton

Advertising/Marketing Coordinator: Julie Shough

This book was set in Carmina by Prentice Hall and was printed and bound by R.R. Donnelley & Sons Company. The cover was printed by Phoenix Color Corp.

© 1998 by Prentice-Hall, Inc.

Upper Saddle River, New Jersey 07458

All rights reserved. No part of this book may be reproduced, in any form or by any means, without permission in writing from the publisher.

Earlier edition © 1994 by Macmillan Publishing Company.

Photo credits: All photos copyrighted by the individuals or companies listed. Jim Cronk/Photographic Illustrations: p. 339; Scott Cunningham/Merrill: pp. 13, 80, 87, 114, 116, 137, 217, 252, 295, 314, 332, 369; Brad Feinkopf/Merrill: p. 346; Anthony Magnacca: pp. 5, 333; Anthony Magnacca/Merrill: pp. 46, 108, 193, 232, 356; Barbara Schwartz/Merrill: p. 177; Anne Vega/Merrill: facing p. 1, pp. 50, 58, 162, 186, 224, 260, 284, 349, 380; Todd Yarrington/Merrill: pp. 18, 33, 38, 128, 152, 277, 387.

Printed in the United States of America

10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3

ISBN: 0-13-496506-X

Prentice-Hall International (UK) Limited, London

Prentice-Hall of Australia Pty. Limited, Sydney

Prentice-Hall of Canada, Inc., Toronto

Prentice-Hall Hispanoamericana, S. A., Mexico

Prentice-Hall of India Private Limited, New Delhi

Prentice-Hall of Japan, Inc., Tokyo

Prentice-Hall Asia Pte. Ltd., Singapore

Editora Prentice-Hall do Brasil, Ltda., Rio de Janeiro

Preface

In constructing this text, my intent was to tap three bountiful wellsprings of information: teacher craft wisdom, research findings relative to instruction, and well grounded theories. Each of these streams affords both neophytes and experienced teachers abundant insights into how effective social studies instruction can be nurtured and sustained.

Craft wisdom is that residual base of rich, informed, and practical knowledge that effective teachers have shared for centuries, often through oral rather than written histories. It embodies the lode of stories and case studies that experienced successful teachers have passed along about “things that worked well for me” and “the pitfalls I have learned to avoid.” Craft wisdom also includes the identification of instructional materials and resources that have been tested under real classroom conditions and found to be exemplary.

Such practitioner craft wisdom often is buttressed neither by theory nor research—much like aspects of folk medicine. Instead, it derives its credibility and permanency from the number of iterations of success that teachers have encountered in applying it. Teachers are not always sure why something worked or whether others will have similar success under different classroom conditions. What they can affirm are consistent positive results.

Research and theory, in turn, offer complementary insights into how teachers might most effectively teach social studies. These represent the accumulations of scholars’ tested conclusions under controlled conditions and in varied settings over time. They also include scholars’ hypotheses and reflective deductions undergirded by logic and evidence.

Properly focused, research and theory can yield practical applications and identify areas that require attention in our social studies classes. Researchers and theorists also can aid us in designing and selecting materials and texts that engage students and stimulate reflection. Additionally, they can provide us with models for analyzing our teaching behaviors and generating new instructional strategies.

Old friends comparing the first edition with the second will find its foundational themes intact and its point of view burnished. To wit, as a central thesis, I contend a well-balanced social studies program consists of matters of the head, the hand, and the heart. Following on this metaphor, I continue to hold that the fundamental purpose of the social studies should be the development of reflective, competent, and concerned citizens. I also reassert the importance of theory, research, and craft wisdom as beacons for effective social studies teaching. In this context, throughout the text, constructivist approaches that engage students in meaningful activities are emphasized.

Features of This Text

This book was designed to assist preservice and inservice elementary and middle grades teachers in becoming more effective teachers of social studies. The text is meant to be used in a variety of settings, such as group activities and workshops. Toward these ends, several steps have been taken to make it readable and understandable to audiences with different levels of experiences and needs.

Each chapter has a detailed outline on the opening page to serve as an advance organizer. Also, throughout the text, key terms appear in bold face in the text and in color in the margin to alert the reader to their importance. At the end of each chapter, two types of activities are suggested to apply and extend learning: those to be completed individually and others to be done in groups.

Numerous field-tested lessons and activities are sprinkled throughout the text. These are borrowed from a variety of sources and reflect a combination of craft wisdom, research, and theory. They cover the primary, intermediate, and middle grades. For easy reference, a list of these lessons and activities appears at the end of the Contents.

Organization

Chapter 1 offers an overview of the foundations of the social studies curriculum and advances a perspective on what exemplary social studies teaching entails. Chapters 2 and 3 explore the sources of the social studies curriculum, the relationship of the social sciences to the social studies, and alternative views concerning what the social studies curriculum should be.

Planning and instructional strategies constitute the core of the book and the focus of Chapters 4 through 8. In Chapter 9 I address the urgent and complex issue of how to prepare children to live in a global and culturally diverse world. Chapter 10 is devoted to strategies for aiding students in comprehending, communicating, and remembering social studies subject matter. Finally, Chapters 11 through 13 consider, respectively, ways to enrich classroom activities through technology, assist students with special needs, and assess the outcomes of social studies instruction.

New to This Edition

There are notable changes small and large in this revision. In order to more adequately address emerging issues concerning national curriculum standards and multicultural education, Chapters 3 and 9 have been modified. In Chapter 12, the focus on the reading–writing–listening–social studies connection and the integration of children’s literature into the social studies curriculum has been sharpened. Similarly, the discussions of portfolios and authentic assessments in Chapter 13 have undergone changes. Also, the discussion of learning styles in Chapter 12 has been updated to reflect the latest work of Howard Gardner and his associates.

The most dramatic change in this new edition deals with technology applications in the social studies—a fast-moving target. Chapter 11 has been extensively updated, but with the discomfiting awareness that the swiftness of new advances in computer-based technologies will outpace our capacity to keep the reader current.

To further heighten the technology strand in the book, two actions were taken. At relevant points throughout the text, examples of social studies software are cited. Also, in those sections of the text that call for the use of a computer to illustrate a point, an icon will appear in the margin as shown here.

Like its predecessor, this text ultimately must contend with a host of others in the marketplace of ideas, staking out its own claims to uniqueness, credibility, utility, and significance. In that arena, I believe the new book is well armed.

---

Acknowledgments

The second edition of this text has been greatly enriched by the array of insights that readers gleaned from the first edition and shared with me. The meanings they derived from interacting with my text and the life they breathed into the skeleton of ideas I presented were a delight to experience. I thank and salute them for their contributions. I also thank those who reviewed the first edition and offered suggestions for improvement in the second: Gloria Alter, Northern Illinois University; Thomas B. Goodkind, University of Connecticut; Edith Guyton, Georgia State University; Kathleen Naylor, University of Arizona; and Jesse Palmer, University of Southern Mississippi.

Brief Contents

Chapter 1	Learning and Teaching Social Studies	I
2	The Sources of Subject Matter and Instructional Resources for the Social Studies	19
3	Alternative Scope and Sequence Patterns in the Social Studies	47
4	Planning for Social Studies Instruction	81
5	Engaging Students in Learning Through Small Groups, Questions, Role-Playing, and Simulations	115
6	Aiding Children in Developing and Applying Concepts, Generalizations, and Hypotheses	152
7	Aiding Students in Developing Effective Citizenship Competencies	187
8	Aiding Students in Developing and Acting on Social Concern	225
9	Preparing Children to Live in a Global and Culturally Diverse World	253
10	Comprehending, Communicating, and Remembering Subject Matter	285
11	Harnessing Technology to the Social Studies Curriculum	315
12	Adapting Social Studies Instruction to Individual Needs	347
13	Evaluating and Assessing Student Learning	381

Contents

Chapter Learning and Teaching Social Studies I

The Origins and Evolution of the Social Studies	2
The 1916 Report of the Committee on the Social Studies •
The New Social Studies • Social Studies on the Edge of the 21st Century
Alternative Definitions of the Social Studies	6
A Working Definition of the Social Studies
Social Studies and Citizenship Education	7
The Context of Citizenship Education
Alternative Perspectives on Citizenship Education	8
Classifying Alternative Perspectives
The Enduring Goal of the Social Studies Curriculum: Reflective, Competent, and Concerned Citizens	9
The Nature of the Effective Citizen
The Exemplary Social Studies Teacher	12
Characteristics of Exemplary Social Studies Teachers
Group Activities • Individual Activities • References

Chapter 2

The Sources of Subject Matter and Instructional Resources for the Social Studies 19

- Knowledge Construction and Subject Matter 20
  - Schemata and Prior Knowledge in Social Studies Instruction •
  - Selecting Social Studies Subject Matter
- The Social Studies and the Social Sciences 21
  - Geography • History • Economics • Political Science •
  - Anthropology • Sociology • Psychology
- Other Sources of Subject Matter for the Social Studies 29
  - Interdisciplinary Studies
- The School and the Community as Sources of Social Data 30
  - Using Community Resource Persons Effectively • Fieldwork in the Community • Collecting Oral Histories • Conducting Surveys and Interviews • Community Service Projects
- Organizational Resources for Social Studies Instruction 41
  - Professional Journals • Professional Development Through the Internet
- Group Activities • Individual Activities • References*

Chapter 3

Alternative Scope and Sequence Patterns in the Social Studies 47

- Existing Social Studies Scope and Sequence Patterns 48
  - The Curriculum Pattern in the Elementary Grades • The Curriculum Pattern in the Middle and Secondary Grades • The Dominance of Traditional Scope and Sequence Patterns
- Basal Textbooks and the Social Studies Curriculum 50
  - Use of Basal Texts in the Social Studies • Selection and Adoption of Basal Textbooks • Criticisms of Basal Textbooks •
  - Implications of State Adoption Policies

Alternative Social Studies Scope and Sequence Patterns 58

- The California Model • The National Council for Geographic Education/Association of American Geographers Model • The National Council for the Social Studies Scope and Sequence Initiatives

Selecting a Scope and Sequence Pattern 66

- National Standards

Group Activities • Individual Activities • References

Chapter 4

Planning for Social Studies Instruction 81

Basic Issues in Planning Social Studies Instruction 83

- Identifying a Purpose for Citizenship Education

Social Studies Goals for Instruction 84

- Identifying and Stating Goals

Social Studies Objectives for Instruction 85

- Identifying and Stating Objectives

Organizing Subject Matter into Units 87

- Unit Planning • Computer-Based and Traditional Sources of Units • Resource Units and Teaching Units • Creating Units • Formats for Unit Planning

Organizing Subject Matter into Lessons 95

- Lesson Plans • Computer-Based and Traditional Sources of Lesson Plans • Formats and Procedures for Lesson Planning • Balance in Instructional Planning • Developmental Considerations in Instructional Planning • Variety in Instructional Planning • Allocation of Time in Planning • Scheduling Social Studies Instruction

Guidelines for Social Studies Program Development 110

Group Activities • Individual Activities • References

Chapter 5

Engaging Students in Learning Through Small Groups, Questions, Role-Playing, and Simulations 115

- Grouping Students for Learning 116
  - Planning for Small-Group Work • Multipurpose Small-Group Techniques
    - Cooperative Learning Group Techniques • Cooperative Learning and Student Achievement
- Using Structured Questions to Aid Learning 129
  - Patterns of Effective Questioning • Effective Use of Time • Selection of Questions • Effective Sequencing of Questions • The Tabu Questioning Strategies
- Engaging Students in Role-Playing and Simulations 136
  - The Nature of Role-Playing • Role-Playing and Puppetry • The Nature of Simulations • Guidelines for Developing and Conducting Simulations
- Group Activities • Individual Activities • References*

Chapter 6

Aiding Children in Developing and Applying Concepts, Generalizations, and Hypotheses 152

- Concepts in the Social Studies Curriculum 154
  - Personal and Public Dimensions of Concepts • Misconceptions and Stereotypes • Concepts in Social Studies Texts and Materials • The Process of Learning a New Concept • Sources of Difficulty in Concept Learning
- Instructional Strategies for Concept Learning 159
  - Concept Analyses • Assessing Concept Learning • Instructional Model for Teaching Concepts • Discovery and Expository Approaches in Teaching Concepts • Concept Hierarchies • Concept Teaching Materials and Activities

Facts, Generalizations, and Hypotheses in the Social Studies Curriculum	168
The Nature of Facts • The Nature of Generalizations • The Nature of Hypotheses
Instructional Strategies for Developing Generalizations	172
Expository and Discovery Approaches for Teaching Generalizations • Using Data Retrieval Charts
The Reflective Citizen and Problem Solving	175
Uses of the Term Problem in Instruction • Instructional Strategies for Problem Solving • Problem Springboards
Answer Key: Concept Learning Exercise
Group Activities • Individual Activities • References

Chapter 7

Aiding Students in Developing Effective Citizenship Competencies 187

The Nature of Citizenship Skills	188
Skills Lists for the Social Studies Curriculum, K–12
Social Skills	188
Socially Competent Children • Conflict Resolution Skills
Research and Analysis Skills	195
Identifying and Using Reference Sources • Interpreting and Comparing Data • Processing Information From Pictures
Chronology Skills	206
Activities Using Time Lines • Other Chronology Activities
Spatial Skills	210
The Impact of Spatial Perspectives • Maps and Globes as Spatial Tools • Integrating Maps and Globes Into All Social Studies Instruction • Introducing Maps and Globes • Key Spatial Concepts • Using Travel Maps
Group Activities • Individual Activities • References

Chapter 8

Aiding Students in Developing and Acting on Social Concern 225

Social Concern and Citizenship Education 226

The Morally Mature Citizen

The Dimensions of Social Concern 227

The Nature of Beliefs • The Nature of Attitudes • The Nature of Values • The Nature of Value Judgments

Instructional Strategies for Examining Beliefs, Attitudes, and Values 231

Strategies for Analyzing Attitudes • Strategies for Analyzing Values

Instructional Strategies for Promoting Ethical Growth 238

Moral Dilemmas • The Moral Development Theories of Jean Piaget and Lawrence Kohlberg • Alternative Strategies for Moral Education in Public Schools

Social Issues as a Curricular Focus 245

Social Issues and Controversy • Guidelines for Handling Discussions of Controversial Issues • Academic Freedom in the Classroom

Group Activities • Individual Activities • References

Chapter 9

Preparing Children to Live in a Global and Culturally Diverse World 253

Balancing National and Global Concerns 254

Global Education in an Interconnected World

Multicultural Education 258

Emerging Issues in Multicultural Education • Multicultural Perspectives in Instruction • Designing Strategies for Multicultural Education • Guidelines for Selecting Appropriate Curriculum Materials for Multicultural Education • Resources for Multicultural Education

Gender Issues and Sex-Role Stereotypes 270

Women's Perspectives in History

Social Consciousness and Social Action 271

Social Service Projects

Current Affairs 275

Introducing Young Children to Current Affairs • Strategies for Analyzing Current Affairs • Using Newspapers and Print Materials • Using Technology in Teaching Current Affairs • Guidelines for Developing Current Affairs Activities

Group Activities • Individual Activities • References

Chapter 10*Comprehending, Communicating, and Remembering Subject Matter 285*Comprehending Social Studies Subject Matter 286

Building on Existing Knowledge in Reading • Strategies for Improving Reading Comprehension • The Reading–Social Studies Connection

Reading and Social Studies Text Materials 292

Reading Children's Literature • Reading Newspapers and Periodicals • Integrated Curriculum • Visual Literacy • Metaphors and Other Figures of Speech

Communicating Social Studies Subject Matter 305

Listening and Speaking • Integrating Writing Into the Social Studies Curriculum • Word Processing Tools in Writing

Remembering Social Studies Subject Matter 309

First-Letter Technique • Keyword Technique • Imagery Technique

Group Activities • Individual Activities • References

Chapter 11*Harnessing Technology to the Social Studies Curriculum 315*Infusing Microcomputer Applications Into the Social Studies Curriculum 317*Telecommunications and Emerging Technologies 318

The Internet • The World Wide Web and Web Search Agents • Online Databases • Resources for Social Studies Teachers and

Students Available Over the Internet • Electronic Mail and Newsgroups • Two-Way Videoconferencing Over the Internet
Identifying and Evaluating Appropriate Social Studies Software	329
Simulation Software • Database and Spreadsheet Software • Using Groups with Computer-Based Instruction
Interactive Multimedia in Social Studies Instruction	332
CD-ROM Software
Distance Learning	337
Using Videotape and Television in Social Studies Instruction	338
Cable Programming • Teacher- and Student-Made Video Materials
Using Traditional Media Effectively	340
Technologies in the 21st Century: The Challenge of the Future	341
Group Activities • Individual Activities • References

Chapter 12

Adapting Social Studies Instruction to Individual Needs 347

Matching Social Studies Instruction to Students' Developing Capabilities	349
The Nature of Concrete Social Studies Activities • Symbolic, Iconic, and Enactive Social Studies Activities • Constructivist Perspectives on Social and Cognitive Growth
Individualized Instruction and Individual Differences	351
Individual Differences Among Students
Organizing the Classroom for Individualized Social Studies Instruction	352
Computers • Multilevel Reading Materials • Learning Contracts • Learning Centers • Using Jackdaws and Teacher-Made Materials for Individualizing Instruction
Individual Styles of Thinking and Learning	360
Matching Thinking Styles to Instruction • Measures of Thinking Style • Matching Learning Styles to Instruction • Measures of Learning Styles
Individualization and Cultural Diversity	366
Equity for Those With Disabilities	367
Public Law 94-142 • Mainstreaming and Inclusion • Strategies for Mainstreaming Students for Social Studies Instruction

Equity for the Gifted 373

Societal Perspectives on the Gifted • Identifying the Gifted • Approaches to Gifted Education • Gifted Students in Social Studies Classes

Group Activities • Individual Activities • References

Chapter 13

Evaluating and Assessing Student Learning 381

The Dimensions of Evaluation 383

Grades, Assessments, and Standards

The Use and Misuse of Tests 384

Norm-Referenced Tests • Criterion-Referenced Tests • The National Assessment of Educational Progress • National Standards and National Testing

Performance Assessments 387

Social Studies Performance Assessments and Portfolios

Teacher-Made Paper-and-Pencil Tests 391

Posttests and Pretests • Constructing Essay Test Items •
Constructing Objective Test Items • Test Software

Evaluating Reflection, Competence, and Concern 395

Assessing Reflection • Assessing Competence • Assessing Concern

A Framework for Evaluating the Outcomes of Social Studies Instruction 402

Matching Evaluation and Instructional Goals and Objectives

Group Activities • Individual Activities • References

Index 408

Lessons and Activities

Primary Grades

Native American cultures	31
Clothes tell stories	97
Puppet activity: Name calling	141
Teaching the concept "globe"	163
Creating a concept bulletin board dealing with "transportation"	166
Creating a data retrieval chart related to changing lifestyles	175
Conflict-resolution strategy	194
Ordering events in chronological sequence	207
Making a body map	215
Self-concepts: Self statements	232
Attitudes toward school	233
Navajo cultural perspective	265
Assessment item: Sorting events in chronological order	390

Intermediate Grades

Comparing the city, suburb, and country	102
Constructing a sociogram	118
Group decision making: Reducing crime	120
Composite reports and data-retrieval charts: Status of women	122
Jigsaw II cooperative learning: Branches of the government	126
Simulation dealing with refugee issues	144
Simulation dealing with environmental issues	146
Teaching generalizations related to the environment	172
Creating a personal time-line	209
Introducing grid systems	218
Expressing beliefs and attitudes	235
Role-play enactment: Refugees fleeing	238
Moral dilemma involving issue of fairness	244
Using a graphic organizer to study Japan	291
Using webbing in studying biographies: Martin Luther King, Jr.	297
Creating and analyzing a computer database	321
Contract for the "Save the Environment" learning center	354
Assessment item: Historical diary entry	389

Middle Grades

Women of the American Revolution	90
Geography of petroleum	96
Supply and demand	103
Group decision making: How local government can help reduce crime	121
Problem-solving activity dealing with Abraham Lincoln	179
Using reference skills to identify an unknown country	198