What to Look For in Definitions and Explanations 103

Gloria Naylor, “Mommy, What Does ‘Nigger’ Mean?” 105

“[T]he word ‘nigger’ was used in my presence, but it was set within contexts and inflections that caused it to register in my mind as something else.”

Isaac Asimov, “What Is Intelligence, Anyway?” 113

“In a world where I could not use my academic training and my verbal talents but had to do something intricate or hard, working with my hands, I would do poorly.”

Wayson Choy, “I’m a Banana and Proud of It” 119

“I don’t mind being called a ‘banana,’ yellow on the outside and white inside.”

Barbara Ehrenreich, “Cultural Baggage” 126

“Motherhood put the screws on me, ethnicity-wise.”

Kerri Mauger (student), “Nothing to Be Scared Of” 134

“Hallucinations can include all of the senses, and my mother had both seen and heard things that weren’t there.”

The Principles of Classification and Division 137

Give a Purpose to Your Classification 137

Establish a Clear Basis for Your Classification 138

Make Your Groups Parallel and Equal 138

The Pitfalls of Classification and Division 138

What to Look For in a Classification 140

Judith Viorst, “Friends, Good Friends—and Such Good Friends” 142

“The best of friends, I still believe, totally love and support and trust each other, and bare to each other the secrets of their souls, and run—no questions asked—to help each other, and tell harsh truths to each other when they must be told.”

Paul Chance, “I’m OK; You’re a Bit Odd” 150

“A sadist and a masochist may work out a mutually rewarding relationship, but does that make them healthy?”

David Elkind, “Types of Stress for Young People” 158

“The major task of psychological stress management is to find ways to balance and coordinate the demands that come from within with those that come from without.”

Louis Menand, “Love Stories” 165

“What all the world really loves is not a lover. It’s a love story. People can’t get enough of love stories.”

Megan Quick (student), “Stats on ER” 172

“Some people are so obsessive about not missing one episode that all other activities cease while ER is on.”

STRATEGIES FOR EXAMINING TWO SUBJECTS:
COMPARISON AND CONTRAST*175

The Point of Comparison and Contrast 175

Using Comparisons to Explain 175

Using Comparisons to Persuade 176

Using Contrast to Decide	176
The Principles of Comparison and Contrast	176
Using the Block Plan	176
Using the Point-by-Point Plan	177
The Pitfalls of Comparison and Contrast	178
Avoid Using Too Many Transitional Words	178
Avoid Repetition in Concluding	179
What to Look For in Comparison and Contrast	179
Mark Twain , "Two Views of the Mississippi"	181
"All the grace, the beauty, the poetry had gone out of the majestic river!"
Suzanne Britt , "Neat People vs. Sloppy People"	188
"I've finally figured out the difference between neat people and sloppy people. The distinction is, as always, moral."
Scott Russell Sanders , "Women and Men"	196
"So I was baffled when the women at college accused me and my sex of having cornered the world's pleasures."
Kathy Seal , "The Trouble with Talent: Are We Born Smart or Do We Get Smart?"	202
"Our national mania for positive self-esteem too often leads us to puff up kids' confidence, and we may forget to tell them that genius is 98 percent perspiration."
Dana Webb (student), "Shopping Online"	211
"With only a computer and a credit card, you can shop online from your very own home."

8

STRATEGIES FOR EXPLAINING HOW THINGS WORK: PROCESS AND DIRECTIONS 214

The Point of Writing about Process and Directions	214
The Principles of Process and Directions	215
The Pitfalls of Process and Directions	215
Reviewing Your Process	216
Addressing Your Audience	216
What to Look For in Process and Directions	216
Daniel Golden , "How to Make Your Dendrites Grow and Grow"	219
"Date provocative people. Better yet, marry one of them."

- Garrison Keillor*, “How to Write a Personal Letter” 225
 “Probably your friend will put your letter away, and it’ll be read again a few years from now—and it will improve with age.”
- James Surowiecki*, “The Box That Launched a Thousand Ships” 232
 “Container ships make a six-thousand-mile, just-in-time supply chain possible.”
- Dave Barry*, “There Are Rules, You Know” 238
 “The game is divided into four 15-minute quarters, each of which lasts a little over three hours.”
- Ann Moroney* (student), “A Graceful Stride” 245
 “At every one of my races, I sat in my blocks looking at the line of hurdles in front of me with fear in my heart.”

STRATEGIES FOR ANALYZING WHY THINGS HAPPEN: CAUSE AND EFFECT 248

- The Point of Cause-and-Effect Writing 248
- The Principles of Cause-and-Effect Writing 249
 Types of Causes and Effects 249
 Patterns of Cause and Effect 249
- The Pitfalls of Cause-and-Effect Writing 250
- What to Look For in Cause-and-Effect Writing 251
- Eric Marcus*, “Ignorance Is Not Bliss” 253
 “The actual telling was far less terrifying than all the anticipation. While my grandmother cried plenty, my family was wrong, because the truth didn’t kill her.”
- Stephen King*, “Why We Crave Horror Movies” 260
 “The mythic horror movie, like the sick joke, has a dirty job to do. It deliberately appeals to all that is worst in us.”
- Jade Snow Wong*, “Fifth Chinese Daughter” 267
 “Did a daughter have any right to expect more than a fate of obedience, according to the old Chinese standard?”
- Steve Lopez*, “Working: Nobody Talks about the Common Person’s Life” 275
 “No one is talking about how to educate, train, and employ those who have fallen behind or never even got started.”
- Tricia Rooney* (student), “Why We Watch Daytime Talk Shows” 282
 “Talk shows give us other people’s problems and predicaments to make us feel very normal and well off.”

STRATEGIES FOR INFLUENCING OTHERS: ARGUMENT AND PERSUASION

284

The Point of Argument and Persuasion 284

The Principles of Argument and Persuasion 285

The Elements of Good Argument 285

Claims 286

Evidence 286

Refutation 287

A Sample Annotated Argument: Joshua Wolf Shenk, “Ignoring the Solution” 288

“[T]here’s another message leaders should heed—that no one has to die needlessly.”

The Pitfalls of Argument and Persuasion 290

Taking on Too Much 290

Mistaking the Audience 290

Logical Fallacies 291

What to Look For in Argument and Persuasion 292

Arthur Ashe, “Send Your Children to the Libraries” 294

“I strongly believe the black culture expends too much time, energy and effort raising, praising and teasing our black children as to the dubious glories of professional sports.”

Bill Bryson, “The War on Drugs” 301

“The saddest part of this zealous vindictiveness is that it simply does not work.”

Barbara Huttman, “A Crime of Compassion” 308

“[E]very night I prayed that Mac would die, that his agonized eyes would never again plead with me to let him die.”

Debate: Examining the Death Penalty 315

David Leibowitz, “Death Penalty Showdown” 315

“Execution represents a proportional, measured response to mankind’s most barbarous act.”

Ken Shulman, “We, On Death Row” 319

“It is in our nature to be killers. And we are never far from that most primal region of our nature.”

Debate: The Right to Same-Sex Marriage 327

Charles Krauthammer, “When John and Jim Say, ‘I Do’” 327

“Gay marriage is coming. Should it?”

- Alex Tresniowski*, "Same-Sex Marriage, For Better or Worse?: Readers' Forum" 330
"It seems hypocritical to be against gay marriages and at the same time in favor of family values."
- David Mixner*, "No One Has to Send a Gift" 331
"Gay and lesbian Americans should be accorded the same rights as other Americans—no more, but certainly no less."
- Steve Dare* (student), "Education Interrupted" 337
"You and the other students stand in the dorm parking lot, shivering in the early morning air, as the fire department arrives and casually runs through its seemingly routine motions."

11

FURTHER READINGS

340

- Langston Hughes*, "Salvation" 341
"So I decided that maybe to save further trouble, I'd better lie, too, and say that Jesus had come, and get up and be saved."
- Sheryl Flatow*, "I Know What I Can Do" 343
"I never let my deafness hold me back. I never feel sorry for myself. Never."
- Jack Hitt*, "Navajo Code Talkers: The Century's Best Kept Secret" 347
"The language of the Code Talkers, their mission, and every detail of their messaging apparatus was a secret they were all ordered to keep, even from their own families."
- Richard Selzer*, "The Discus Thrower" 349
"Every morning he orders scrambled eggs for breakfast, and, instead of eating them, he picks up the plate and throws it against the wall."
- Roy Grace*, "Volkswagen's Campaign in America" 352
"For the first time, advertising talked to people and not at them."
- Robert MacNeil*, "Wordstruck" 355
"[O]ur language is not the special private property of the language police, or grammarians, or teachers, or even great writers."
