Acknowledgements

A considerable debt of gratitude is owed to many people for their support and assistance, without which this book would not have been possible.

Lorraine Wolhuter would like to make the following acknowledgements. First and foremost, I would like to express my wholehearted gratitude to Allah, the Almighty, without Whose love, help and guidance I would have been unable to write my section of the book and to edit and complete the manuscript. 'Praise be to Allah, who has guided us to this (felicity), never could we have found guidance, had it not been for the guidance of Allah' (Holy Qur'an, 7:43).

I am also particularly grateful to the Max Planck Institute for Foreign and International Criminal Law, Freiburg, Germany, for their generous financial support and access to their comprehensive resources, which contributed greatly to my research for the book. In this regard, I am deeply thankful to Professor Reinhardt Zimmerman for his assistance and support, and to Professor Ulrich Sieber for his help and encouragement. My thanks also go to Dr Adome Kouassi, for his kindness and friendship during my visit. In addition, I am very grateful to Brian Mitchell, Dean of the School of Legal Studies, University of Wolverhampton, for providing me with generous financial support to visit the Max Planck Institute as well as encouragement throughout the process of writing my contribution to the book. I would also like to thank my colleagues at the School of Legal Studies, University of Wolverhampton, for their support, and Josefin Karlsson and Anna Adelof for translating Swedish legislation.

David Denham would like to make the following acknowledgement. I would like, in particular, to thank Dr Andy Cooper, School of Humanities, Languages and Social Sciences, University of Wolverhampton, for his kindness in partially remitting my teaching in the summer of 2007, which assisted me greatly to complete my research for the book.

Finally, all the authors would like to thank Laurel Angus for her excellent editing of the book.

To my father, George: thank you for your love,
support and patience.

Lorraine

To Betty, Roy and Zoe: thank you for putting up with me.

Neil

To Ann: thank you for all your support.

David
