

Michael Gallagher Michael Laver Peter Mair

REPRESENTATIVE GOVERNMENT IN MODERN EUROPE

Fifth Edition

Fifth Edition

Representative Government in Modern Europe

Michael Gallagher
Michael Laver
Peter Mair

The McGraw-Hill Companies

London Boston Burr Ridge, IL Dubuque, IA Madison, WI New York San Francisco
St. Louis Bangkok Bogotá Caracas Kuala Lumpur Lisbon Madrid Mexico City
Milan Montreal New Delhi Santiago Seoul Singapore Sydney Taipei Toronto

Representative Government in Modern Europe
© Michael Gallagher, Michael Laver, Peter Mair
ISBN-13 978-0-07-712967-5
ISBN-10 0-07-712967-9

Mixed Sources

Product group from well-managed forests and other controlled sources
www.fsc.org Cert no. TT-COC-002769
© 1996 Forest Stewardship Council

McGraw-Hill Higher Education

Published by McGraw-Hill Education
Shoppenhangers Road
Maidenhead
Berkshire
SL6 2QL
Telephone: 44 (0) 1628 502 500
Fax: 44 (0) 1628 770 224
Website: www.mcgraw-hill.co.uk

British Library Cataloguing in Publication Data

A catalogue record for this book is available from the British Library

Library of Congress Cataloguing in Publication Data

The Library of Congress data for this book has been applied for from the Library of Congress

Acquisitions Editor: Mark Kavanagh
Development Editor: Jackie Curthoys
Marketing Manager: Vanessa Boddington
Production Editor: Alison Davis

Text Design by Hard Lines
Cover design by Adam Renvoize
Printed and bound in the UK by Bell and Bain Ltd, Glasgow
Page Layout: SR Nova Pvt Ltd., Bangalore, India

Published by McGraw-Hill Education (UK) Limited an imprint of The McGraw-Hill Companies, Inc., 1221 Avenue of the Americas, New York, NY 10020. Copyright © 2011 by McGraw-Hill Education (UK) Limited. All rights reserved. No part of this publication may be reproduced or distributed in any form or by any means, or stored in a database or retrieval system, without the prior written consent of The McGraw-Hill Companies, Inc., including, but not limited to, in any network or other electronic storage or transmission, or broadcast for distance learning.

ISBN-13 978-0-07-712967-5

ISBN-10 0-07-712967-9

© 2011. Exclusive rights by The McGraw-Hill Companies, Inc. for manufacture and export. This book cannot be re-exported from the country to which it is sold by McGraw-Hill.

Representative Government in Modern Europe

Fifth Edition

Preface

This is the fifth edition of Representative Government in Modern Europe. The very fact that there is a fifth edition is evidence of continuing demand for a book that deals in a comprehensive way with the politics of representation in an area of the world that contains a goodly proportion of the world's democracies. Especially since the transitions to democracy in central and eastern Europe, which had not even begun when we wrote the first edition, but which have now for the most part put down strong roots, modern Europe is a rich field of study for anyone who is interested in representative government. Set in the context of the full range of political arrangements we find distributed over the entire planet, there are important ways in which the representative democracies of modern Europe all look quite similar, sharing many common cultural, economic and historical traditions. At the same time, they also differ from each other in systematic and important ways.

As before, our discussions of representative government in modern Europe cover countries that have joined the European Union (EU) plus Iceland, Norway and Switzerland. The latter three are unquestionably part of modern Europe but, for reasons that mostly have to do with domestic politics, they remain outside the EU. Since the last edition, however, the EU has expanded to comprise 27 member states, with the accession of Bulgaria and Romania. These countries are now included in this book. Taking the 30 countries we now study there are, more than ever, big variations in the types of electoral and party system we encounter, in the ways the administration of the state is organized, and in many other matters besides. We learn a lot from analysing the political impact of these variations, while holding constant the broad 'European' context. Homing in on the effects of particular causal factors, while holding as much as we can constant, is the essence of the comparative method. This makes modern Europe an extraordinarily good laboratory for anyone with a serious interest in representative government, and this is true whether or not Europe is the region they most want to know about. This, in short, is a book both for readers who are interested in modern Europe and for readers who are interested in comparative politics more generally, and see Europe as an excellent laboratory for exercising their ideas.

While expanding our country coverage we have been careful to retain the fundamental philosophy that has guided this book through its various editions and, to judge from the feedback we receive, is a major part of its appeal to readers. Our discussions are structured by what we see as the major substantive and intellectual themes in the study of representative government. We try as far as possible to discuss the full range of European countries, large and small, in the context of these themes, rather than organizing the book as a set of country studies. We have tried to keep the book as up to date as possible in its discussions of ongoing theoretical and empirical work on core features of representative government in modern Europe. Reviews of the book have stressed its value in introducing readers to current debates among those who analyse European politics, and this edition sets out to keep our discussion of these debates as up to the minute as possible. Naturally, we have also updated the data in most tables to make these as complete and current as possible.

The internet is increasingly the prime source of information for those looking to keep abreast of politics in Europe. In some chapters we have supplied a list of internet resources – sites that are particularly useful or, as specialist sites, possibly obscure – but in others we place our trust in the readers' own web navigation skills, not least because, in our experience, students are at least as likely to inform us about useful sites as we are to inform them.

We have been helped enormously while producing this fifth edition by advice and assistance from friends, colleagues and anonymous reviewers – far too many to list here. We are also grateful for the great help given to us in keeping things up to date by our researchers, many of whom also made significant intellectual contributions to the revised manuscript. These were: Fernando Casal Bertoa, Iulia Cioroianu, Drew Conway, Pablo Fernandez-Vazquez, Alex Herzog, Marko Klasnja, Didac Queralt Jimenez and David Willumsen.

What above all encouraged us to produce a fifth edition is that we remain every bit as intrigued by and enthused about the study of modern European politics as we were when we wrote the first edition over 20 years ago. Indeed, the events of recent decades have shown beyond all doubt why it is that developing a good understanding of political processes in general, and of representative government in particular, is such an important intellectual project.

Michael Gallagher
Michael Laver
Peter Mair

About the Authors

MICHAEL GALLAGHER is Professor of Comparative Politics in the Department of Political Science, Trinity College, University of Dublin. He has also been a visiting professor at New York University, the City University of Hong Kong, and the University of Lille. He is co-editor of Politics in the Republic of Ireland (5th edition, Routledge, 2010), The Politics of Electoral Systems (Oxford, 2008), How Ireland Voted 2007 (Palgrave Macmillan, 2008), The Referendum Experience in Europe (Palgrave Macmillan, 1996) and Candidate Selection in Comparative Perspective (Sage, 1988). His research interests include electoral systems and political parties.

MICHAEL LAVER is Professor of Politics at New York University. His current research interests are dynamic models of party competition, and methods for estimating the policy positions of important political actors. He is author of Multiparty Government (with Norman Schofield), Making and Breaking Governments (with Kenneth Shepsle), Party Policy in Modern Democracies (with Kenneth Benoit) and Party Competition: An Agent-Based Model (with Ernest Sergenti).

PETER MAIR is Professor of Comparative Politics at the European University Institute in Florence, Italy, and is co-editor of the journal West European Politics. He previously taught at the universities of Limerick, Strathclyde, Manchester and Leiden. He is a former winner of the Stein Rokkan Prize, and has recently co-edited Political Representation and European Governance (Routledge, 2010), Accountability and European Governance (Routledge, 2011) and Party Government and Party Patronage in Contemporary European Democracies (Oxford, 2011). He is co-director of the Observatory on Political Parties and Representation, based at the EUI in Florence, and is currently engaged in a wide-ranging study of political parties and contemporary democracy.

Publisher's Acknowledgements

Our thanks go to the following reviewers for their comments at various stages in the text's development.

Deniz Aksoy	Penn State University, US
Gerard Alexander	University of Virginia, US
Kai Arzheimer	University of Mainz, Germany
Michael Bruter	London School of Economics, UK
Clay Clemens	The College of William & Mary, US
Astrid Hedin	Uppsala University, Sweden
Derek Hutcheson	University College, Dublin, Ireland
Seth Jolly	Syracuse, US
Monique Leyenaar	Radboud University, The Netherlands
Ecaterina McDonagh	Dublin City University, Ireland
Peter Neidergaard	Copenhagen University, Denmark
Aneta Spendzharova	University of Maastricht, The Netherlands
Liam Weeks	University College, Cork, Ireland

Every effort has been made to trace and acknowledge ownership of copyright and to clear permission for material reproduced in this book. The publishers will be pleased to make suitable arrangements to clear permission with any copyright holders whom it has not been possible to contact

Custom Publishing Solutions: Let us help make our content your solution

At McGraw-Hill Education our aim is to help lecturers to find the most suitable content for their needs delivered to their students in the most appropriate way. Our custom publishing solutions offer the ideal combination of content delivered in the way which best suits lecturer and students.

Our custom publishing programme offers lecturers the opportunity to select just the chapters or sections of material they wish to deliver to their students from a database called CREATE™ at www.mcgrawhillcreate.com

CREATE™ contains over two million pages of content from:

- textbooks
- professional books
- case books - Harvard Articles, Insead, Ivey, Darden, Thunderbird and BusinessWeek
- Taking Sides - debate materials

across the following imprints:

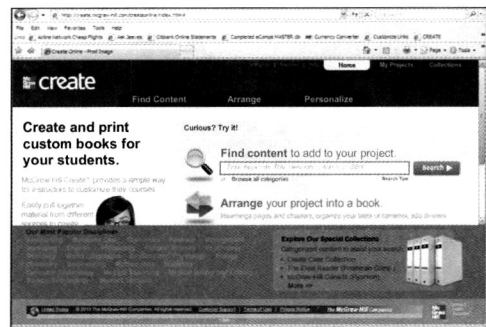

- McGraw-Hill Education
- Open University Press
- Harvard Business Publishing
- US and European material

There is also the option to include additional material authored by lecturers in the custom product – this does not necessarily have to be in English.

We will take care of everything from start to finish in the process of developing and delivering a custom product to ensure that lecturers and students receive exactly the material needed in the most suitable way.

With a Custom Publishing Solution, students enjoy the best selection of material deemed to be the most suitable for learning everything they need for their courses – something of real value to support their learning. Teachers are able to use exactly the material they want, in the way they want, to support their teaching on the course.

Please contact your local McGraw-Hill representative with any questions or alternatively contact Warren Eels e: warren_eels@mcgraw-hill.com.

Make the grade

Improve your grades!

20% off any
Study Skills
book!

Our Study Skills books are packed with practical advice and tips that are easy to put into practice and will really improve the way you study.

Our books will help you:

- ✓ Improve your grades
- ✓ Avoid plagiarism
- ✓ Save time
- ✓ Develop new skills
- ✓ Write confidently
- ✓ Undertake research projects
- ✓ Sail through exams
- ✓ Find the perfect job

Special offer!

As a valued customer, buy online and receive 20% off any of our Study Skills books by entering the promo code BRILLIANT!

www.openup.co.uk/studyskills

Brief Table of Contents

1	Introduction	1
2	The Executive	23
3	Parliaments	47
4	Constitutions, Judges and Politics	84
5	The European Union and Representative Government	116
6	Central, Regional and Local Governance	164
7	Patterns in Party Politics and Party Systems	195
8	Party Families	238
9	Cleavage Structures and Electoral Change	278
10	Inside European Political Parties	326
11	Elections, Electoral Systems and Referendums	366
12	Making and Breaking Governments	412
13	Politics outside Parliaments	458
14	Does Representative Government make a Difference?	479

Detailed Table of Contents

List of figures	x	3.5	Parliamentarians and constituency representation	68
List of tables	xi	3.6	European parliaments: one chamber or two?	71
Preface	xiii	3.7	The significance of parliaments: an assessment	76
About the authors	xv		Internet resources	78
Publisher's acknowledgements	xvi		References	78
Custom Publishing Solutions	xviii
Make the grade	xix
1 Introduction	1	4	Constitutions, Judges and Politics	84
1.1 Modern Europe	3	4.1	Introduction	84
1.2 Plan of campaign	4	4.2	European constitutions	86
1.3 A brief century of European history	6	4.2.1	The origins of constitutions	86
1.4 The vital statistics	12	4.2.2	Constitutional traditions	88
		4.2.3	Amending a constitution	89
2 The Executive	23		Box 4.1: Constitutions	90
2.1 Introduction	23	4.3	The appointment of judges	92
2.2 Separation or fusion of powers?	24	4.3.1	Constitutional courts	92
2.2.1 Separation-of-powers regimes	25	4.3.2	The court system	93
2.2.2 Fusion-of-powers regimes	26	4.4	Judicial review	95
2.2.3 Splitting the difference? 'Semi-presidentialism'	27	4.4.1	Strong judicial review	97
2.3 Parliamentary government in modern Europe	28	4.4.2	Weak judicial review	103
2.4 The prime minister: chief executive	30	4.4.3	Judicial review and representative government	105
2.5 The cabinet	33		Box 4.2: The courts and politics	106
Box 2.1: Executives and heads of state	34	4.5	Conclusions	110
2.6 Junior ministers	38		Internet resources	111
2.7 The head of state	39		References	112
2.7.1 Monarchs	42	5	The European Union and Representative Government	116
2.8 Putting it all together	44	5.1	Introduction	116
References	44	5.2	The development of European unity	117
3 Parliaments	47	5.3	How the European Union works	121
3.1 Introduction	47	5.3.1	The Commission	121
3.2 Parliaments and governments	48	5.3.2	The European Parliament	125
3.3 The roles of parliaments	52	5.3.3	The Council of Ministers	132
3.3.1 Appointing and dismissing governments	52	5.3.4	The European Council	135
3.3.2 Parliaments and law-making	53	5.3.5	The Court of Justice	136
3.3.3 Parliaments and oversight of government	58	5.4	What does the European Union do?	139
Box 3.1: The role of parliament	60	5.4.1	Single market and single currency	139
3.4 Parliaments and parties	63	5.4.2	A people's Europe	140
3.4.1 Voters vote for parties	65	5.4.3	Agriculture	143
3.4.2 Parliamentarians and party discipline	67		Box 5.1: The European Union	144

5.5	The European Union: intergovernmental or supranational organization?	147	7.2.1	Party politics in the United Kingdom	197
5.6	The future of the European Union	151	7.2.2	Party politics in Denmark	202
5.6.1	EU enlargement	151	7.2.3	Party politics in Germany	204
5.6.2	EU integration	152	7.2.4	Party politics in the Netherlands	208
5.7	Representative government and the democratic deficit	155	7.2.5	Party politics in Italy	212
5.8	Conclusions	157	7.2.6	Party politics in France	216
Internet resources		158	7.2.7	Party politics in Spain	220
References		159	7.2.8	Party politics in Poland	223
6 Central, Regional and Local Governance		164	7.3	The diversity of modern European party politics	228
6.1	Introduction	164	7.3.1	Left and right	229
6.2	Politicians and the civil service	165	7.3.2	The new bipolar competition	231
6.2.1	Civil service cultures	167	7.3.3	Post-communist party systems	233
6.2.2	Politicization of senior bureaucrats	169	7.4	Conclusions	234
6.2.3	Conclusion: increasing accountability of public servants?	172	Internet resources		235
6.3	Levels of governance	172	References		235
6.4	Federal government in modern Europe	173	8 Party Families		238
6.4.1	Federal government in Switzerland	173	8.1	Introduction	238
6.4.2	Federal government in Germany	175	8.2	Families of the left	240
6.4.3	Decisions against federalism in central and eastern Europe	177	8.2.1	The social democrats	240
6.5	The growing importance of regional government	178	8.2.2	The communists	244
6.5.1	Regional government in Spain	178	Box 8.1: The left		246
6.5.2	Devolution of power in the United Kingdom	179	8.2.3	The new left	249
6.6	Local government	181	8.2.4	Green parties	250
6.6.1	Structures of local government	182	8.3	Families of the centre and right	253
6.6.2	Functions, finances and autonomy of local government	184	8.3.1	The Christian democrats	253
Box 6.1: Regional and local government		188	8.3.2	The conservatives	256
6.6.3	Popular participation in local decisions	190	Box 8.2: The centre and right		258
6.7	Conclusions	191	8.3.3	The liberals	261
References		192	8.3.4	The agrarian or centre parties	264
7 Patterns in Party Politics and Party Systems		195	8.3.5	The far right	265
7.1	Introduction	195	8.4	Other parties	268
7.2	Eight European party systems	197	8.5	The post-communist party families	270
			8.6	Conclusions	274
			References		275
			9 Cleavage Structures and Electoral Change		278
			9.1	Introduction	278
			9.2	The meaning of cleavage	280
			9.3	Traditional cleavage structures	281
			9.3.1	The centre–periphery cleavage	281
			9.3.2	The church–state cleavage	282
			9.3.3	The rural–urban cleavage	283
			9.3.4	The class cleavage	284
			9.3.5	The interaction of different cleavages	285
			Box 9.1: Traditional cleavage structures		286

9.4	The persistence of cleavages and the freezing of party systems	288	11.3	Types of electoral system	369
9.5	From persistence to change	290	11.4	Plurality and majority systems	372
9.6	Change in European cleavage structures and electoral behaviour	292	11.5	Proportional representation	376
9.6.1	Changing social structure	293	11.5.1	List systems	376
9.6.2	Changing voting behaviour	294	11.5.2	Mixed systems	380
9.7	Change towards what?	298	11.5.3	Thresholds	381
9.7.1	Towards realignment?	298		Box 11.1: Electoral systems	382
9.7.2	A new cleavage?	302	11.5.4	Which candidates get the list seats?	385
9.7.3	Towards dealignment?	304	11.5.5	The single transferable vote	387
	Box 9.2: Trends in electoral volatility	312	11.6	Why electoral systems matter	389
9.8	Evaluating change and stability	314	11.6.1	Proportionality	391
9.9	Parties and voters in post-communist Europe	316	11.6.2	The number of parties	391
9.10	East versus west, or east and west?	320	11.6.3	Coalition or single-party government?	393
9.11	Conclusions	321	11.6.4	Policy outputs	395
References		321		Box 11.2: The impact of electoral systems	396
10	Inside European Political Parties	326	11.6.5	The backgrounds of parliamentarians	398
10.1	Introduction	326	11.7	Referendums	400
10.2	What do parties do?	327		Box 11.3: The referendum	402
10.3	Basic party organization	328	11.8	Conclusions	406
10.4	Party membership	329	Internet resources		407
10.4.1	Who becomes a party member?	329	References		407
10.4.2	The activities of party members	335	12	Making and Breaking Governments	412
	Box 10.1: Membership of political parties	336	12.1	Introduction	412
10.5	Power within parties	338	12.2	Making and breaking governments: the rules of the game	414
10.5.1	The party manifesto and programme	339	12.2.1	Parliamentary votes of confidence and no confidence	414
10.5.2	Election of the party leader	340	12.2.2	Investiture requirements	416
10.5.3	Selection of the parliamentary candidates	341	12.2.3	Formateurs : the role of the head of state	416
	Box 10.2: Selection of parliamentary candidates	346	12.2.4	The status quo and 'caretaker' governments	417
10.5.4	Sources of party finance	349	12.2.5	Agreeing a joint programme of government	418
10.6	The changing shape of European parties	352	12.2.6	Choosing a set of cabinet ministers	419
10.7	The future of European parties	356	12.3	Government formation	420
Internet resources		358	12.3.1	Office-seeking politicians?	422
References		359	12.3.2	Policy-oriented politicians?	422
11	Elections, Electoral Systems and Referendums	366	12.3.3	Office-seeking politicians and 'minimal winning' governments	423
11.1	Introduction	366	12.3.4	Policy-oriented politicians and ideologically compact governments	424
11.2	Elections in Europe	367	12.3.5	Minority governments	425
11.2.1	Who votes?	367	12.3.6	Surplus majority governments	426
11.2.2	When do people vote?	368

12.3.7	A minimal winning cabinet in Germany	428	13.4	Policy networks	469
12.3.8	Minority cabinets in Norway	430		Box 13.1: Economic policymaking	470
12.3.9	Surplus majority cabinets in Italy	432	13.4.1	Policy networks in action: doctors	472
12.4	Types of government in modern Europe	433	13.4.2	Policy networks in action: farmers	472
12.5	The allocation of cabinet portfolios	435	13.5	New social movements	473
	Box 12.1: Cabinet types	436	13.6	New social networks	474
12.5.1	Proportional cabinet pay-offs in France	440	13.7	Conclusions	475
12.5.2	Qualitative portfolio allocation in Germany	441	References		476
12.5.3	Cabinet portfolios and government policy	443	14 Does Representative Government make a Difference?		479
12.6	The stability of European governments	445	14.1	Introduction	479
12.6.1	Cabinet attributes and cabinet stability	446	14.2	Clear-cut cases of policy impact	482
12.6.2	System attributes and cabinet duration	448	14.2.1	Privatization of state assets in Britain and eastern Europe	482
12.6.3	Government stability and political events	449	14.2.2	Withdrawal of Spanish troops from Iraq	484
	Box 12.2: Government stability	452	14.3	Party preferences and government policy	485
12.7	Conclusions	454	14.3.1	Party manifestos and government policy programmes	485
References		455	14.3.2	Redeeming campaign pledges	486
13 Politics outside Parliaments		458	14.4	Government policy and changes in public policy outcomes	488
13.1	Introduction	458	14.4.1	Differences in public spending between and within countries	489
13.2	Corporatism	459	14.4.2	Differences in welfare state effort	491
13.2.1	The corporatist model	459	14.4.3	Beyond public spending	492
13.2.2	Corporatism in Austria	462	14.5	Conditional partisan effects on public policy	494
13.2.3	Tripartism and social partners	463	14.6	Public opinion or partisanship?	494
13.2.4	Tripartism in eastern Europe	463	14.7	So, does politics make a difference?	495
13.2.5	The decline of corporatism?	464	References		496
13.3	Pluralism	465	Index		498
13.3.1	Pluralism in Britain	466
13.3.2	Pluralism in action: the women's movement	467
13.3.3	Pluralism in action: the environmental movement	468

List of Figures

2.1	Dynamics of parliamentary democracy	28
12.1	Coalition possibilities in Germany, 2009	428
12.2	Coalition possibilities in Norway, 1997	431
12.3	Shares of portfolios and legislative seats in western European coalition cabinets, 1945–2002	440
12.4	Portfolio allocation in Germany, 2009	442
12.5	The impact of cabinet ministers in Italy, 1996–1998	444
12.6	Possibilities for strategic election timing in Britain	454