About the Author

Seán Lang, PhD is Senior Lecturer in History at Anglia Ruskin University. He studied history at Oxford and has been teaching it to school, college, and university students for the past twenty years. He has written textbooks and edited magazines on nineteenth and twentieth century history for school and college students and he lectures for Cambridge University's School of Continuing Education. He has acted as adviser on history teaching to two governments as well as to the Council of Europe, and he twice held the post of Honorary Secretary of the Historical Association. He broadcasts regularly on history for the BBC and for independent local radio.

Dedication

Thanks to Richard Dargie, Fr Feidhlimidh Magennis, and Jasmine Simeone for helping me to keep it genuinely British. To Jason Dunne, Daniel Mersey, and Steve Edwards at Wiley for encouraging (okay, chivvying) me to keep the chapters flowing in. And to all my students, past and present, at Hills Road and Long Road Sixth Form Colleges in Cambridge and at Anglia Ruskin University: You shaped this book more than you know.
