Introduction

In 1937, Elixir of Sulfanilamide killed 107 people when the poisonous substance diethylene glycol was used as a solvent for the sulfa drug. The tragedy prompted the September 1938 passage of the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act, which required drug manufacturers to provide proof that products could be safely used before putting them on the market.

Since 1938, the United States Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has approved over 28,000 drugs. Many of the drugs approved in the early years have been withdrawn from the market, largely in response to 1962 laws requiring that drugs be proven effective as well as safe.

The NDA Book, Volumes 1 and 2, provides various indexes to all drugs approved from September 1938 through June 1989, including products that have been withdrawn from the market. Volume 1 indexes approved drugs by company (sponsor) name; Volume 2 offers access by generic name, trade name, and NDA number.

The NDA Book is supplemented by Drugs Under Patent, which provides additional indexing for products affected by the Drug Price Competition and Patent Term Restoration Act of 1984. For information on obtaining a copy of Drugs Under Patent, contact the publisher of this book.

Generic Name Index

The Generic Name Index presents a listing of drugs arranged alphabetically by generic name. For combination drug products the ingredients are listed in alphabetical order, and are therefore alphabetized by the first ingredient.

Each entry includes the drug generic name(s) and strength(s), sponsor name, trade name, NDA number and approval date. Indications of marketing status are included when appropriate; a "D" indicates that marketing of the drug has been discontinued; "W" indicates that U.S. Food and Drug Administration permission to market the product has been withdrawn. Dates are presented in the standard American format of month/day/year. A "00" in the date indicates that the exact date is unknown.

For additional information about a particular drug, look up the product by company name in Volume 1.
