Lent to H.M. Consul at 10 a.m. April 14. Rescued missionaries from Siangtan and Iyang. At one time manned by bluejackets from H.M.S. Thistle. At present lent to me indefinitely to facilitate communication.

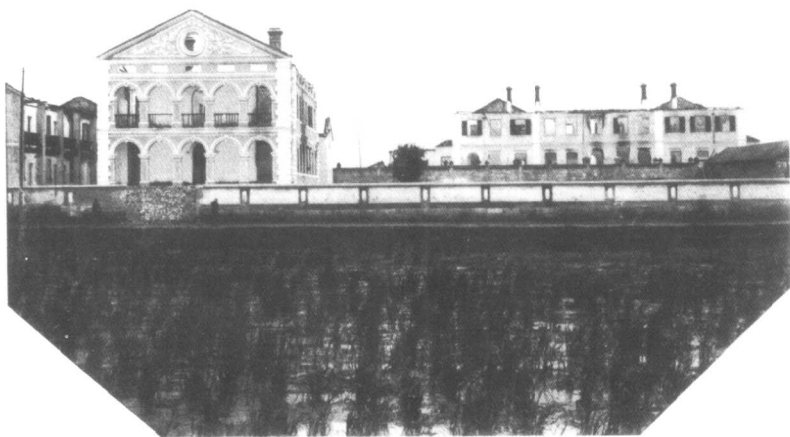

水军兵士 原注 Mr. Lo Ti-Ch'uan and men of the river guard boat attached to H.B.M. Consulate. From 3 a.m. April 14, these men assisted in the work of rescuing foreigners, saving archives and sending telegrams.

鳌山庙 原注 The temple at which the riot started at 7 p.m. April 13.

巡抚衙门 原注 左: Private temple attached to Yamen.
右: Main Entrance from outside.

This Mission and the kindergarten adjoin the residence of Mr. Yeh Te-hui, one of the gentry most deeply implicated.

These photographs give a very poor idea of the enormous damage done at this school. I should estimate that over 30 blocks similar to these shown in the photographs were destroyed.

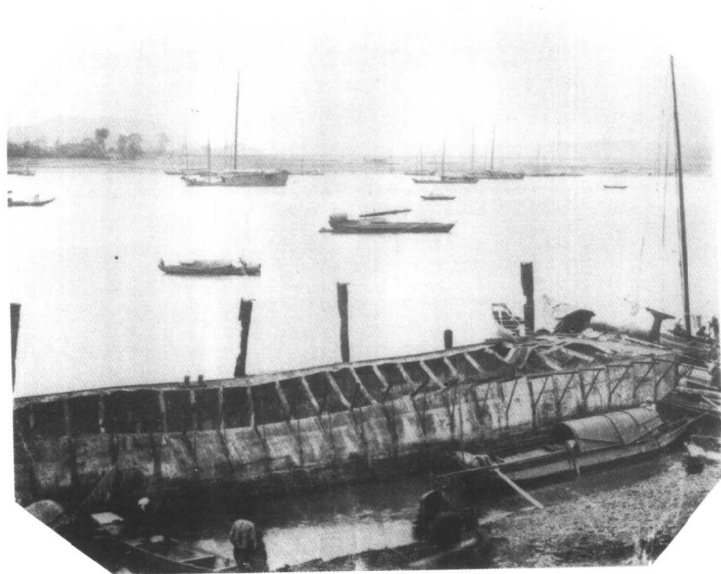

中路师范学堂 原注 Chinese.

长沙税关 原注 View from the rear.

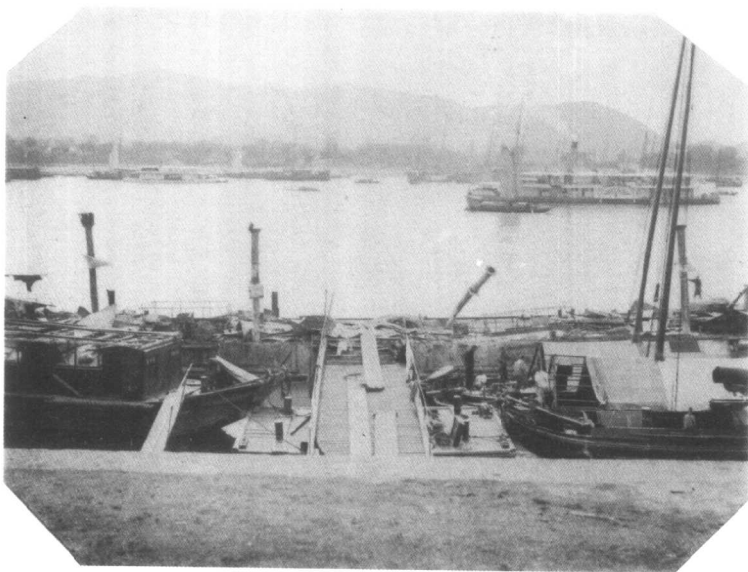

湘江和太古洋行棧房 原注 General View of Customs property and property of Messrs. of Butterfield and Swire.

伦敦教会 原注 British.

In the interior every bit of woodwork, stairs, verandahs, floors, ceilings, pulpit, benches, was completely destroyed. Fire could not have rendered the destruction more complete.

德国立朋聚尔教堂 原注 German.

Note the careful, deliberate destruction. Interior completely wrecked. The careful removing of the tiles suggests masons who knew their work.

怡和洋行栈房 原注 British.

美国圣公会 原注 American.

英商古诺德(Broad)的房屋(碧湘街)

贴在雅礼教堂的揭帖 原注 Placard affixed to Yale Mission by neighbours, which is said to have saved the Mission. It states, briefly, that Mission is rented property, that the foreigners have left and that subscriptions have been made for rice relief.

美国遵教会 原注 American.

The photographs give some idea of the time spent by the rioters in their work of destruction, and bring forcibly to mind the criminal responsibility of officials who never moved a finger to check the slow, deliberate destruction of property in the capital city of a province.
