I'll alert the media.

I have to make a good impression.
Then stay home.

Been a while, hasn't it, Jonny boy?

She's rather swim in piranga-infested waters dressed as a meat loaf.
I'll bet you were a close second.

I have a date
tonight, Garfield.

She's attracted to men with talent.
Better hurry, it's almost 8:00.

I'm taking my bongos!
See you at 8:30.

Watch me turn
on the charm, Garfield.

Shaddup.

She acknowledged
my existence.
You can turn it off
now.

Belinda Gizzard!!
loved her in school.

But, I got the impression she didn't like me.

She made me eat my crayons.
Aah yes... Boy meets girl, girl makes boy
eat art supplies.

I'm calling Belinda,
and boy, am I nervous!

Hello, Belinda?
This is Jon Arbuckle...

Whew, I'm glad that's over.
See, that wasn't so bad.

See ya, pal. I'm off
to sweep my date off
her feet with my charm and worldly ways.

Thump!Thump!
Thump!Thump!
Thump!

We should get a light for those basement stairs.

I'm really going to impress my date tonight, Garfield.

We're going to a fancy restaurant.

There's one way to get noticed, Garfield.

Just accentuate your best feature.

Excuse me, I have healthy gums!
I'm leaving.

My date is very sophisticated,
Garfield.

And she likes witty
men.

This fake faucet should crack her up.
subtle, yet disgusting.

Your cat is in good health, Mr. Arbuckle. Dandy. Now let's talk about us.

Let's do.
Really?

You own me forty dollars.
I just adore love patter.

I'd like to make another appointment, Liz Sure, when?

How about friday
night for dinner?

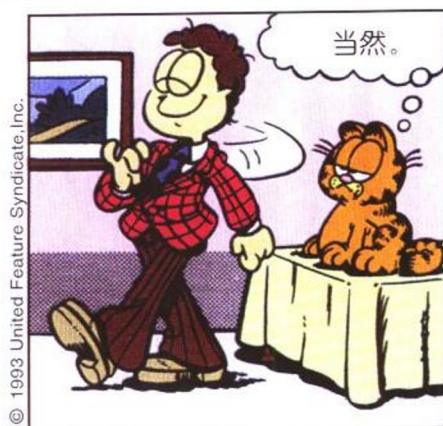

No!
Subtle but firm.

Garfield, do you think I have too much charm?

Absolutely.

Assuming "charm" is the name of the cologne you're wearing.

So, how'd the date go?

After dinner, we can come back to
my place, my dear.

Then we can put on grass skirts and carve monkey heads in coconuts.

Hello?
Hence the moniker
“Mr.dial tone”.
