序

时间法则下的集体肖像

■ 朱大可（上海同济大学教授）

继《上海人家》和《上海弄堂》之后，摄影师胡杨这次再度推出了《上海青年》，由此完成了“上海影像三部曲”的全部计划。在这组影像人类学的区域性文献里，胡杨把焦点对准青年一代，采访并拍摄了三百位生活在上海并出生于1970年至1989年的青年。他们是一些意态生动的活体标本，向我们展览着这座超级城市的年轻风貌。

胡杨是上海生态的重要观察者，早在上世纪八十年代，他就已开始了地方影像志的艰难采集，把焦点长期对准平民大众和城市贫民。每天清晨和黄昏，他守望着那些忙碌的人群，并且要被迫面对里弄小脚侦缉队的盘查。而那些在八十年代出生于街巷市井的婴儿们，终于在《上海青年》里长成了最年轻的成人。这是一种戏剧性的变化，时间悄悄地改变了中国历史，令它散发出“进化论”的炽热气息。

在这部主题画册里，青年一代被作了进一步细分，也即按习惯的出生年代，分为七十年代和八十年代两个品种。鉴于时间并非分类学的最佳尺度，这种归类，似乎出于某种习惯或无奈，但它却在中国语境下变得意义重大起来，因为中国就是典型的“时间民族”。

对时间的敏感和关切，乃是时间焦虑的一种表达。越过黑格尔所描述的“静止的时间”，从晚期中华帝国直至发展中国家，在二十世纪变得性情躁动起来，开始依赖于新的时间算法。发展、进步、高速、大跃进、日新月异等等，这些节奏急促的政治语词，充填着我们日常生活的耳朵，而这也许是时代留给我们的“精神遗产”。半个多世纪以来，我们被时间这条龙撵得到处乱跑，成了它狼狈不堪的囚徒。

那些时间的匆匆过客，就此登上了历史的舞台。他们在镜头前摆弄姿势，展示自己的身体语言，提醒观看者留意其殷实、调皮、戏谑、装嫩、秀美、摩登、随意、潇洒、迷惘、困顿、

慵懒、游戏和无聊等各种侧面。个性的差异超越了代际的差异。一旦把那些照片分类打乱，你甚至无法分辨他们的文化归属。

尽管如此，他们仍然保留着一个共同特征，那就是时间法则。时间的刀锋，在他们身上留下了阴险的刻痕。八十年代的更为自我和时尚，对新潮的感受性更为强烈，而七十年代人偷偷步入了中年，他们被竞争、家庭和岁月弄得疲惫不堪，脸上留下了深浅不一的印迹。那些跟时间相关的“语词”，镶嵌在平面的影像上，成为人的形态的隐秘说明，甚至成为代际身份辨认的核心记号。

越过胡杨的镜头我们可以看到，无论出自哪个年代，每个被摄者都在仔细地计算时间，表达时间，并说出自己与时间的暧昧关系。在某种意义上，时间是解读胡杨影像的基本语法。不仅如此，浮现在那些相框里的，正是时间本身的面容。这些现在进行时的影像，正在迅速成为过去，而照相机是一种时间魔具，它可以把生命的姿态冻结在一个瞬间，据此向人类提供回忆和阐释的视觉文本。这完全符合影像人类学的本质：从岁月之河中抓住流水，或者用咒语让河流停止。我们藉此抓住了正在从指缝间流走的历史。

尽管人们可以历数照相术的诸多优势，但它的弱点是不言而喻的。它拒绝言说与书写，仅仅出示暧昧和充满歧义的姿影，我们甚至无法了解被摄者的生活资讯以及对外部世界的立场。为了弥补这个缺陷，摄影师同时展开问卷调查，列出二十五个问题，由被摄者作答，并把这些问卷随附在图像之后，令其成为视觉文献的一种话语支架。在我看来，这部“上海青年列传”已不再是“影集”或“画册”，而应当被称为“图语”。这种资讯的扩展，标志着摄影师正在超越“摄影”或“摄影艺术”的边际，向着更为广阔的影像人类学领域迈进。这不仅是摄影师本人的一次跨界行动，也是中国摄影的一次自我进化。在一个信息多元化的时代，摄影正在摆脱传统的自闭状态，跃入多媒体以及公共言说的广阔领域。

胡杨提供的最新文献向我们证实，沉默了一百多年的中国无声摄影，正在渐次发出自己最初的声音。这声音不仅来自“上海青年”，也来自摄影师本人。尽管他躲藏在影像的背面，但我们已经感知到一个探询者的身影。从伟大的光学原理出发，他描述了二十一世纪初叶中国社会青年一代的集体肖像。

Preface

Collective Portraits under the Time Law

■ By / Zhu Dake (Professor of Tongji University)

Following the Shanghai Living and Shanghai Longtang, photographer Hu Yang re-launched his new work, the Shanghai Youth, which completed the whole plan of 'Trilogy of Shanghai Image'. In the regional documents of visual anthropology, Hu Yang focused on the young generation. He interviewed and photographed three hundreds of young people born from 1970 to 1989 and living in Shanghai. They are some vivid living attestation to the the young generation of China.

Hu Yang is an important observer of Shanghai society. As early as the 1980s, he has begun local image-acquisition, focusing in a long-term on the civilians and the urban poor. Every morning and evening, he kept observing the busy crowd, and was forced to answer questions from curious aunties who were responsible for the safety nearby. Those babies born in the 1980s become the youngest grow ups in the Shanghai Youth in the end, which is a dramatic change with some traces of evolutionary theory.

In the themed album, the young generation was made a further breakdown, into the 1970s and 1980s the two varieties according to the year of birth. In view of the time taxonomy is not the best yardstick, this classification seems to be out of habit or chosen because of no alternative. However it is significant in Chinese context for China is a typical 'time nation'.

The sensitive and concerned to time is an expression of anxiety. From Late Imperial China to a developing republic country, Chinese people become restless and begin to rely on new algorithm for time. Development, progress, high-speed, the Great Leap Forward, change with each passing day, and so on, this political words with a pressing rhythm, fill our daily life, which is perhaps the 'spiritual legacy' that times left to us. In more than half a century, we are driven about by time and become its confounded prisoner.

Thus, those hastily passing traveler of time appear on the stage of history. Their positions before the camera reflect their body language and call the viewers' attention of their well-off, mischievous, bantering, acting younger, beautiful, modern, free, smart, loss, perplexed, lazy, playful, boring, and other expressions. Personality differences exceed the generational differences. Once those photos Categories are disrupted, you can not even tell their cultural attribution.

Nevertheless, the time law still retains a common feature among them. The blade of time leaves sinister notches in their body. People born in the 1980s are more self-ego and more sensitive to the trendy, while people born in the 1970s entered the middle-age unconsciously. Exhausted by competition, the family burden and years, their once smooth faces are wrinkled. Those time-related 'words' setting on human's body become a secretly note for people, even a core identification mark for a generation.

Through Hu Yang's camera, we can find out that no matter in which era, each photographed people is calculating time carefully, expressing time, and talk their ambiguous relationships with time. In a sense, time is a basic grammar to understand images of Hu Yang. What's more, it is time that showing to us in the picture frames. Those present continuous images become the past fast. However, the camera which likes a miraculous tool freezes live positions into static ones, thus providing visual texts for human to recollect or explain, which is fully consistent with the nature of visual anthropology: to seize time from the river of time, or use spell to stop the time. In this way we catch hold of the outflow of history.

Although there are many advantages for photography, its weak points are also self-evident. People cannot understand the photographed ones' life or their stand to outside world because what photos show us are only ambiguous positions without talks and letters. In order to remedy this defect, the photographer conducted a survey with 25 questions for the photographed to answer at the same time and appended these questionnaires beside photos as a kind of language complementarities to visual documents. In my view, the Shanghai Youth is no longer a photo or painting album but a visual language. The expansion of information indicates the photographer is transcending the limit of photography or photographic art to a more expansive area of visual anthropology. It is not only a cross-border operation for the photographer himself, but also a self-evolution of Chinese photography. In this diversified information era, photography is gradually getting rid of the traditional autistic state, entering a spacious area of multi-media and public statement.

The latest documents of Hu Yang prove that Chinese silent photography is gradually giving its own voice after more than 100 years' silence. The voice is not only from the Shanghai youth, but also from the photographer itself. Although he hides behind those images, we still sense the existence of him acting as an explorer. With the great principle of optics, Hu Yang depicted the collective portraits of Chinese young generation in the early 21st century.
