ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

First of all, I would like to thank my supervisor, Professor Baris Soyer, who guided me and enlightened me through my work with patience and intentness. Without doubt, his valuable suggestions and comments increased the quality of this piece of work dramatically. His moral support was brilliant and he was there whenever I needed him.

Thanks are also due to Professor D. Rhidian Thomas, who was the first to stimulate my enthusiasm to undertake this study and encourage me to pull off through to the finalization of my work. I also have to mention the support and help I received from Dr. Bebhinn Donnelly who spent a lot of her precious time on the grammar checking and proof reading for this piece of work.

I am indebted to the School of Law of Swansea University for the part time admission/teaching opportunity and financial support given during my Phd research in the UK. These not only gave me an experience in the academic environment, but also enabled me to overcome most of the financial difficulties which hindered my progress.

Finally, I have to thank to my most affectionate parents who have provided me the most unselfish financial support on my overseas study and who have been great and supportive throughout the whole period of my research. Without them, this work would not have been possible.

Dr. JINLEI ZHANG
