APB embarked on the second phase of its regionalisation in 2003 and since then, has reinforced its position in China and invested in new markets like Sri Lanka, India, Mongolia and Laos. As both strategic acquisitions and organic growth have been the cornerstones of its growth strategy, APB has concentrated on expanding its network of breweries as well as bolstering its overseas business units for a greater share of the beer markets.

Today, not only does it own the licenses of more than 40 beer brands, its flagship Tiger boasts a global presence that spans more than 60 countries. With more than 70 years in the brewing industry, APB has been consistently ranked by the Far Eastern Economic Review as one of the top companies in Asia. NPMG also rated APB as among the top ten value creators in Singapore, for having consistently added value for its customers, consumers and shareholders. In 2006, APB was ranked amongst the top 10 Singapore companies in Asia's 200 Most Admired Company survey by The Wall Street Journal Asia and concurrently took second place in the list of Singapore companies recognised for their dedication to quality.

Indeed, even as it continues to extend its boundaries and grow its share of the market, APB is confident of sustaining organic growth momentum and delivering greater value to its shareholders.

Strategic Foresight
