Second part. Same which I have written on the same

In day I hear the noise of many waters
The wind is not an
Sigh as the sea-bird is when day
For the alone.
I hear the wind's cry & the water's
Dance to me.

In day winds the cold winds are blowing
Where I go;
I hear the noise of many waters
Far below,
In day, all right! I hear them blowing
To and fro.

FEIS CEOIL.

SINGING AND PIANOFORTE COMPETITIONS.

Yesterday, the annual competitions in connection with the Feis Ceoil opened in the Ancient Concert Rooms. There was a large attendance of the general public, and much interest was taken in the singing and pianoforte playing. It may be remarked that the entries this year show a slight falling off, but this did not take away from the general interest which the festival excites. The vocal competitions for soprano (solo), and tenor (solo), took place in the large hall, whilst the upper hall was set apart for the pianoforte competitors. In the first of these three classes there were 29 entries, in the second 22, and in the third no less than 40.

Soprano Solo.—The judge of solo singing was Signor Luigi Denza, Professor R.A.M. The test pieces were as follows:—(a) "Hear ye Israel," from Mendelssohn's "Lieder"; (b) an Irish Air—"Lullaby," arranged by Stanford; and (c) a sight reading test.

Signor Denza announced the result as follows:—1. Miss Margaret Moriarty, 92 Lower Leeson street; 2. Miss Kathleen W. Lee, 71 University avenue, Belfast; 3. Miss Moll Byrne, 6 Irishtown avenue, Sandycove; highly commended, Miss Fanny Vincent, Loreto Abbey, Rathgarbohan; Miss Frances Walsh, 15 The Square, Tralee, and 103 Upper Rathmines.

In making the announcement Signor Denza said it gave him great pleasure to be back adjudicating at the Feis. The competition had been a very close one, there being but one mark of difference between the winners of the first and second prizes.

Junior Pianoforte.—The test pieces were (a), Nocturne in G major (Field); (b), Study No. 4 (Scarlatti); (c), an easy piece at sight. Prize-winners:—1. Miss Annie Tracey, Charlotte street, Dublin, and Miss Elsie Kennedy, Monkstown avenue. Both candidates being equal, got a silver medal. 2nd, Miss Charlotte Graham, Athlbury road, Dublin, and Miss Gertrude E. Colbeck, Rathmines road. Each of these candidates was awarded equal marks, and therefore each gets a second. Commended, Miss Norah Ireland, Eglington avenue, Belfast.

Mr. Franklin Taylor, in announcing the result, said that the standard of merit of the performances had been so equal that a second trial was necessary. Even after the second test no point of difference was noticeable, and two of the youthful pianists were bracketed for equal honours in connection with the first prize. The same state of things prevailed in connection with the second prize, so that two seconds were awarded.

Tenor solo.—1. Joseph A. Walsh, 66 Dublin road, Belfast; 2. Whitson R. Gage, 2 Brighton terrace, Rathgar; 3. James J. Joyce, 7 St. Peter's terrace, Cabra.

The adjudicator said he awarded second place to Mr. William Rathbone, of 154 O'Conor road. He placed Mr. W. R. Gage second, and highly commended Mr. Joyce. Mr. Rathbone, however, was disqualified from winning the second prize, he having won it last year, and the awards were, therefore, made in the order given above.

The attendees at the Feis inaugural concert in the Great Hall of the Royal University Building last evening did not exactly take an over-flowing interest. The audience

THE TOWER,
SANDYCove

My dear, dear Nora

I suppose you have been very much upset since last night. I will not speak of myself for I feel as if I had acted very cruelly. In a way I have no right to expect that you should regard me as anything more than the rest of men - in fact in view of my own life I have no right at all to expect it. But yet I seemed to have expected it if only because I myself had never regarded anyone as I regarded you. There is something also a little devilish in me that makes me delight in breaking down people's ideas of me and proving to them that I am really selfish, proud, cunning and regardless of others. I am sorry that my attempt last night to act according to what I believed to be right should have given you so much pain but I do not see how I could have acted otherwise. I wrote you a long letter explaining as well as I could how I felt that night and it seemed to me that you were getting used what I said and
