Acknowledging that demand for its controversial stock sale was weaker than it thought, (8)
The popular Internet search engine e-mailed investors registered to bid on its shares that it priced the initial public offering at $85 a share. That was the low end of the new expected range, which was already reduced from $135.
Also, (9), and several big shareholders said they would not sell anything in the IPO.
The upshot: rather than raising $3.1 billion in what would have been the 13th biggest initial public offering, the sale would raise just $1.7 billion—(10)

A series of missteps by Google and renewed turmoil in tech stocks proved a powerful problem for what has been billed as the most anticipated IPO since the tech bubble burst. "Google has stumbled badly out of the gate, even before it was out of the gate," says David Garrity of research firm Caris & Co.

Late Wednesday, the Securities and Exchange Commission granted Google's request to certify the IPO, after delaying the offering 24 hours. Separately, Google said the SEC was investigating whether its co-founders had violated "quiet period" rules. Soon after the SEC decision, (12).

Despite the blemishes, the IPO is another big accomplishment for the company. Started less than six years ago, Google has thrived letting consumers search the Internet for free while it charges advertisers for putting links on its Web site.

- G. which would not even rank it in the top 25 IPOs
- H. Google decided to size down its number of employees

Part Three (Questions 13—18)

- Look at the following text and questions over the page.
- Each question has four suggested answers or ways of finishing the sentence, A, B, C and D.
- · Mark one letter A, B, C or D on your answer sheet, for the answer you choose.

Australian energy company Alinta Ltd. reported a 62.5 percent rise in first-half net profit on Thursday, driven by strong retail gas demand, and lifted its full-year earnings outlook by as much as 27 percent.

Investors applauded the result, driving Alinta shares up 5. 6 percent to about a 5-month high of A $ 6.81.

Alinta, whose $1.24 billion purchase of U.S.-based Duke Energy Corp's Asia-Pacific power assets in March transformed it from Western Australia's biggest gas retailer and distributor into a national player, said acquisitions would remain a key part of its growth strategy.

"We'll continue to pursue... anywhere from 20—100 percent ownership, but more importantly the operational rights and fees that go with that for operating these assets," Alinta Chief Executive Officer Bob Browning told a briefing.

Alinta said net profit for the 6 months ended June 30 was A $45. 6 million ($32. 8 million), up from A $28. 1 million. "The consensus for the full year was around A $62 million and they've more or less blown that out of the water with their guidance for the next half," said Patersons Securities analyst Rob Brierley.

When it bought the Duke operations, Alinta said calendar 2004 earnings per share would be 27. 6 cents a share and flagged a dividend of 38 cents a share.

On Thursday, it lifted that forecast.

"Given the strong first-half performance by Alinta, the full-year forecast has now been adjusted to 32—35 cents diluted EPS (earnings per share) for the full 2004 financial year." Alinta said, adding full-year dividends would be 40 to 42 cents a share. It said the target excludes a one-off gain on the sale of telecommunications group Uecomm.

Browning said Alinta was seeking a 20—25 percent stake in the Dampier-to-Bunbury pipeline in Western Australia state and would team up with Macquarie Bank Ltd. and Alcoa Inc. to lodge a bid by the Aug. 27 deadline.

"The majority of the ownership would be held by Macquarie and ultimately DUET," Browning told Reuters, referring to a A $565 million utility investment fund partly managed by Macquarie Bank.

Alinta and Alcoa are two of the biggest customers for the gas pipeline, which is controlled by U. S. -based Epic Energy but fell into receivership in April after creditors owed A $ 1.85 billion ended a debt standstill.

Epic is controlled by America's largest natural gas pipeline operator, El Paso Corp. and U. S. utility giant Dominion Resources Inc. .

Browning said Alinta had no immediate plans to sell any of the Duke assets—comprising 2,300 km (1,380 miles) of pipelines and 450 megawatts of thermal power generation—and was looking at ways to leverage them and grow profits.

Transcript

Part One

Message one

- A: What can I help you with? My name is Snow.
- B; My name is Miller. I would like to go on a business trip to New York.
- A: To New York? When are you planning on traveling?
- B: At the end of next month, on October 25.
- A: On October 25... and what kind of ticket do you prefer?
- B: Book me one open return, please. By the way, I want to go economy.
- A: If you will excuse me for a second, I will check for you and see what's available. Um... October 25, an open return, ... yes, I can book you on Pan-Am Flight 125, is that all right?
- B: Yes, ... but I'd prefer a flight on CAAC if it is possible.
- A: Let me check one moment, um... CAAC... I'm sorry they're all booked up for Flight 140.
- B: In that case I'll take the Pan-Am Flight 125, and could you please tell me more about the flight?

Message two

- A: Carlton Hotel.
- B: I'd like to reserve a double room. I'll be arriving next Monday, the 15th. My name is Smith.
- A: A double room for the 15th? The name is Smith?
- B. Yes, that's right.
- A: How long will you be staying?
- B: Three or four days—perhaps longer.
- A: Very good, sir. We'll be expecting you next Monday, the 15th.

Message three

- A: Help yourself to some more fish.
- B: No. Thank you for a good dinner, George. I really enjoyed it.
- A: Oh, it's nothing special. Just a plain, ordinary dinner.
- B: It tasted good to me. I had a very good time this evening.
- A: Check, please.
- C: Yes, sir. Here's your bill. How did you find the food?
- A: Everything was wonderful.
- C: So glad you liked it. Hope you'll come again.
- A: Yes, we will.

Part Two

- 13. My back is still hurting from the fall I had from my bike last week. I wondered if I should visit a doctor. Well, my husband told me that it could be due to internal injuries. Therefore, to play it safe, I come to see you.
- 14. Help yourself to some cake. Oh, the coffee is wonderful. It was brought from Italy by my husband. Care for another cup? There's plenty in the pot.
- 15. Will you be able to finish the budget projections for next year by tomorrow, or do you need a hand with it? Well, I know, the estimation part is the tedious one. But I am convinced that you will be able to pull everything together.
- 16. Thanks for reminding me. Otherwise, I may forget to check with the employment agency to see if they have any leads for jobs this summer. They might assume I'm not interested if I don't get back to them fast enough. You know, more and more people are competing for fewer and fewer jobs.
- 17. The book has been selling like hot cakes in our bookstore since it was launched three weeks ago. I am going to place another order for the book. I understand they'll be running a second print soon.
- 18. Mr. Wang, Jack came to talk to me, and I understand you have an attitude problem, and that you do things without following directions. Now I see where the attitude problem comes from. Sometimes, employees may not know the inner workings of a company, so you should do things according to his directions. Jack is your supervisor, and, regardless of how you feel about it, our company should have a can-do attitude. Now, you should think about the philosophy of this company. You need to follow it, if you agree with it. Do you understand? If you don't comply with requests one more time, we may have to relieve you of your duties here, but we don't want to do that.
- 19. When you get here in the morning, let the machine warm up for 3 to 5 minutes, because it needs to be hot to work well. When you operate the machine, please wear the gloves provided. That way you avoid any injury to your fingers. When you remove the wrapped packs from the machine, use these tongs because they are too hot. When you use the restroom, notify the supervisor. That way someone can take your place and you won't hold the line up. Be careful of the hot liquid used in production. Remember to wear your protective gloves. Now, don't forget! There are harmful vapors present. Make sure to wear a respirator in the area at all times. Watch out for! Objects may falling from above. Always wear your helmet!
- 20. Oh, look at that! This is the elevator outside of the building. You can have a good bird's eye view of all the city from here. What you're going to see as you come out is what you're looking at now. This is what you're seeing at the end of the back yard. So it's a good perspective showing you know. I've got the design printed out, and I just want to pass it on to Kathy to get her opinion. When will you have the design completed? I think, the sooner the better. You see, there are many responsibilities and details involved.
