Mrs Rich Goes to the Arctic

By Naomi Styles

Poppy's mum is a driver. She can drive many kinds of transport! She works for Mrs Rich. Mrs Rich is rich! And she likes to travel. When Mrs Rich travels, Poppy's mum drives. And when Poppy's mum drives, Poppy goes too!

"I would like to go to the Arctic," says Mrs Rich.

"Sure," says Poppy's mum. "How shall we get around?"

"Let's travel by dog sled!" says Mrs Rich.

Luckily, Poppy's mum can drive a dog sled. She ties the sled to a tree. She ties six dogs to the sled. Mrs Rich and Poppy sit on the sled. Poppy's mum unties the knot. Then she jumps onto the back of the sled. They are off!

Mrs Rich Goes to the Arctic

Soon, they are racing through the snow. They see forests, mountains and frozen lakes.

Poppy's mum builds an igloo. They will sleep in that tonight! They have lots of warm fur rugs. That night, they see the Northern Lights.

"How beautiful!" says Mrs Rich.

Chips or Crisps?

By Debbie Aldred

Did you know potato chips were invented in Belgium? Then, they became popular in France. They were called French Fries. In the 1860s, people in England started to put fish with chips.

Suddenly, fast food had been invented. Fish and chips are probably one of the most famous dishes in the world. Fish and chips sold from shops were wrapped in newspaper. Nowadays, they are wrapped in white paper or put in a plastic box.

Chips or Crisps?

Crisps are very thin fried slices of potato. Did you know they were invented as a joke? Mr Crum was a chef in America in 1853. Mr Crum was angry because a diner complained that the chips were too thick. So he made thin slices of potato and fried them hard. Then, he put lots of salt on them. He thought the diner would hate them. To his surprise, the diner loved them. So the potato crisp was born.

Did you know?

- ▶ Crisps are one of the most popular snacks in the world.
- ▶ Americans call crisps potato chips. So both British and Americans get confused when they talk to each other about chips and crisps!
- ▶ Taking a chip off a friend's plate makes them angry.
- ▶ You can make crisps in the microwave.
- ▶ People in Belgium eat fish and chips with mayonnaise.
