

CHINA

Beijing

北京

CHINA CITY GUIDE SERIES

Published by China Travel
& Tourism Press

K928/164

K928

164

Beijing

China Travel and Tourism Press
Beijing China

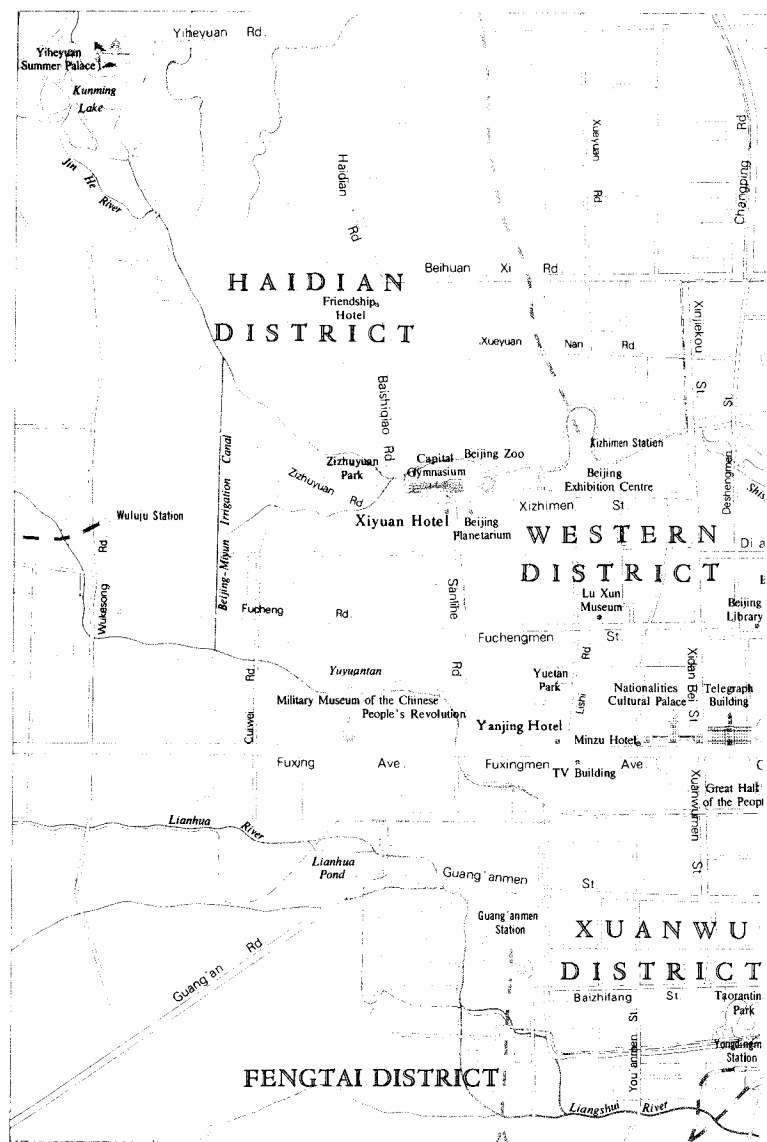

EDITOR'S NOTE

China, with her long history, vast territory, picturesque scenes and precious relics from a splendid cultural heritage, is rising in importance in the world's tourist industry and is attracting yearly an increasing number of foreign visitors. To help them understand this country as much as possible within their short stay, we are putting out this series of guide-books to the cities of China. The first batch to be published includes books on Beijing, Shanghai, Tianjin, Guangzhou, Xi'an, Guilin, Kunming, Hangzhou, Nanjing, Taiyuan, Fuzhou, Xiamen, Jinan and Mt. Taishan, with thirty titles envisaged for 1983 and more to follow later.

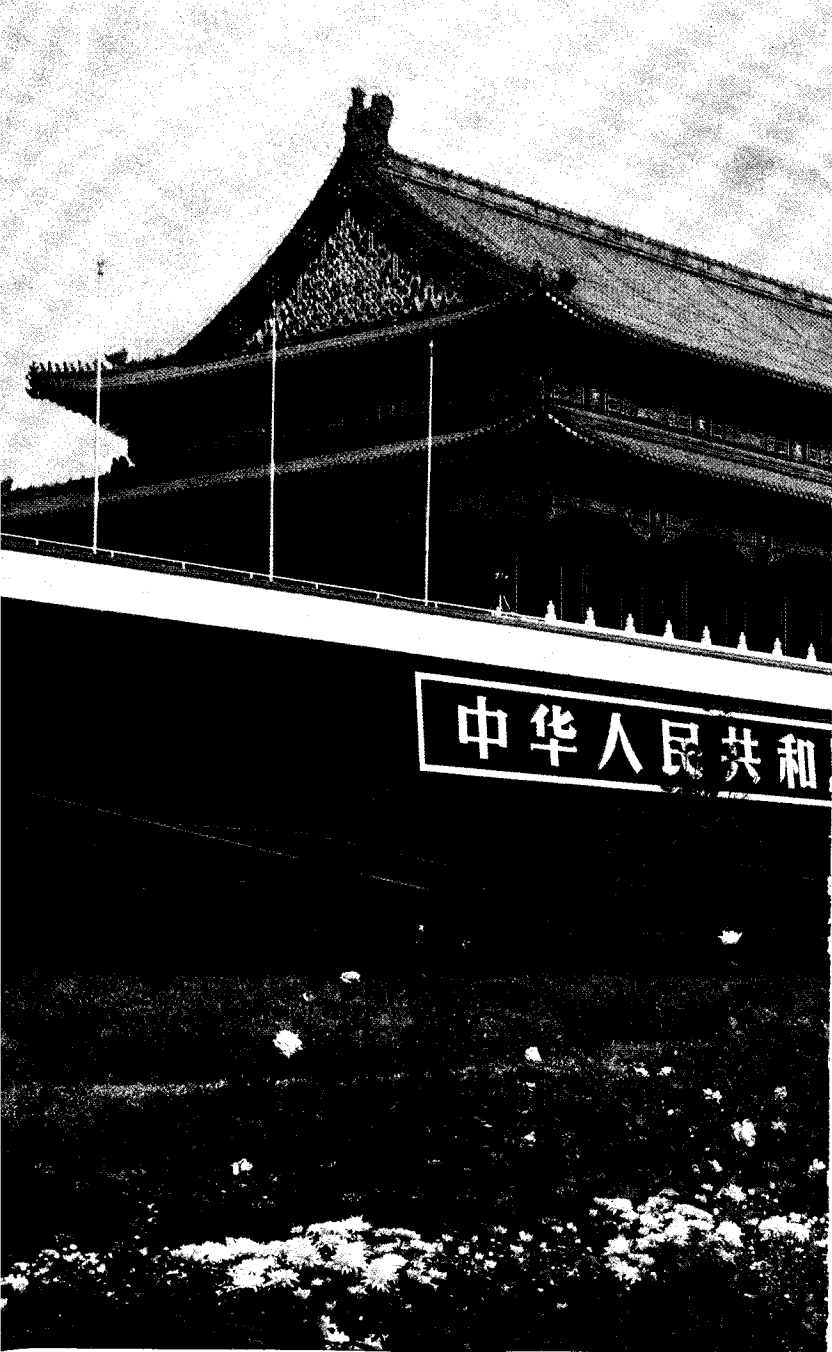

This is our first attempt to present China's tourist cities and scenic spots in a systematic and comprehensive manner. We heartily welcome comments and suggestions from our readers.

This book is written and compiled by Gu Weizhou, Luo Dequan and Zheng Qisu of China International Travel Service, Beijing Branch.

MAP OF URBAN BEIJING

Tiananmen (Gate of Heavenly Peace)

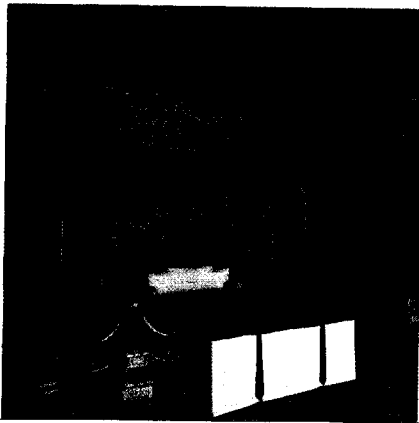

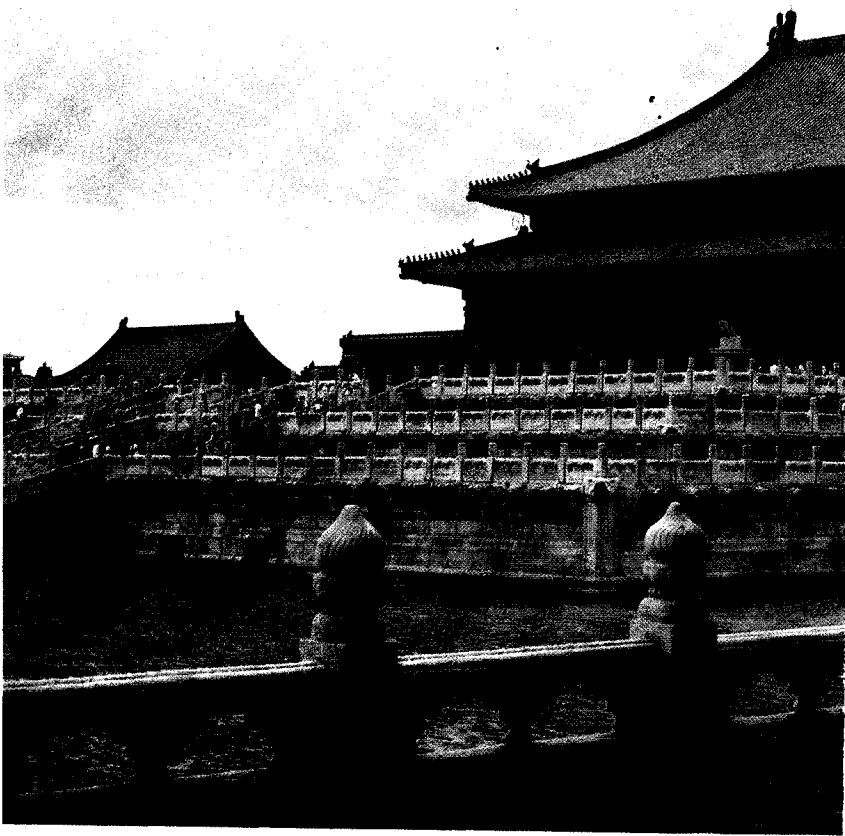

Jingshan Park

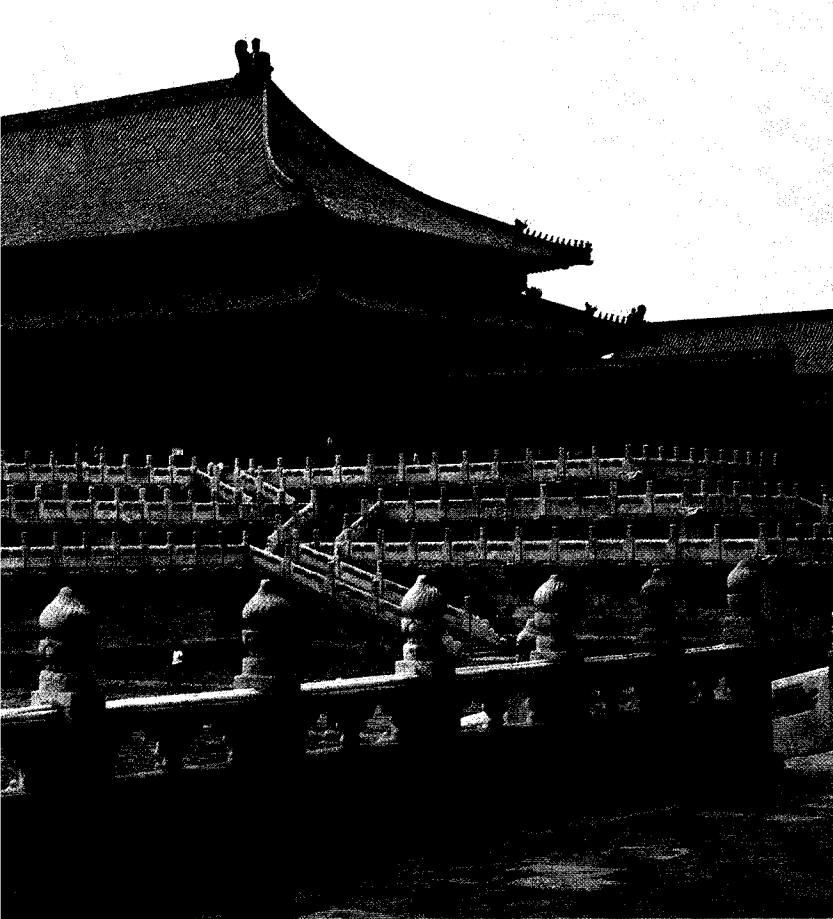

Fragrant Hills

The Octagonal Tower of Buddhist Incense in the Summer Palace

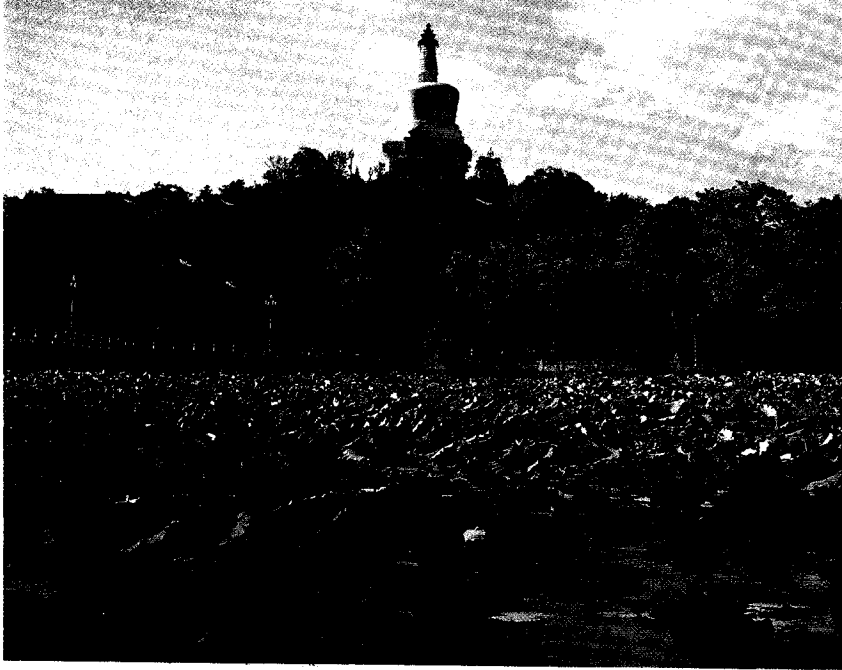

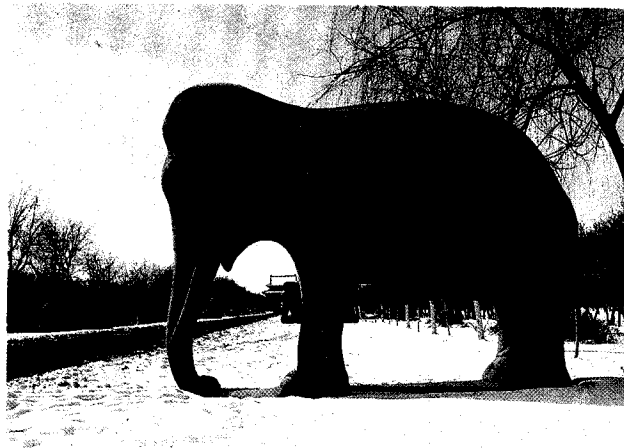

The Interior View of Yangxin
Dian (Hall of Mental Cultivation) ,
Palace Museum

Taihe Dian (Hall of Supreme Harmony), Palace Museum

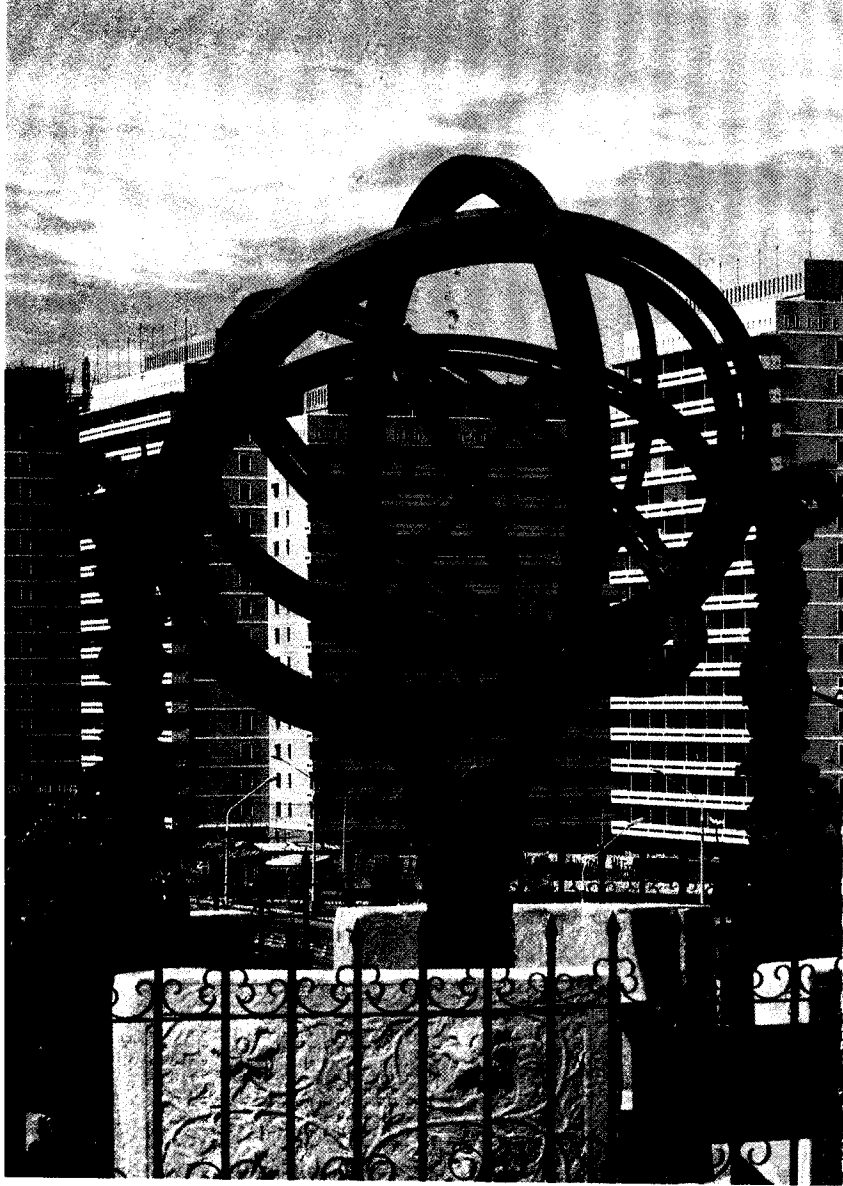

Beihai Park

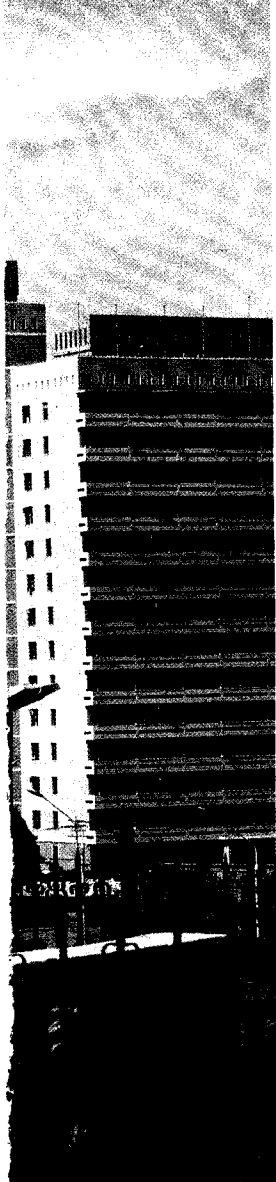

Stone Elephant on the Way to Ming Tombs

The Great Wall

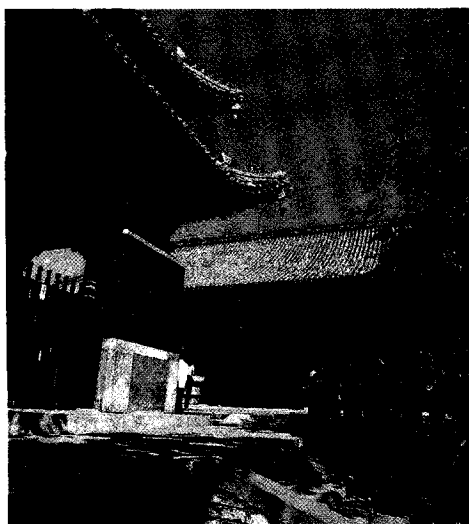

Beijing Ancient Observatory

Yonghe Gong (The Lama Temple)

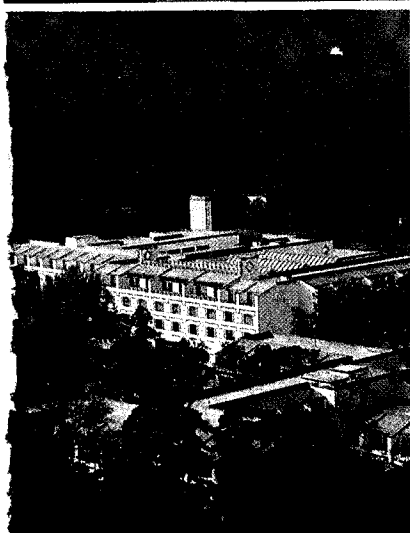

The Interior of Beijing Hotel

The Dining Hall of Huadu Hotel

The Great Wall Hotel

Xiangshan Hotel (Fragrant Hill Hotel)

Xiyuan Hotel