Handwritten text in a vertical column, likely representing the 'Six Ancestors' (六祖史) of the Yi people. The characters are in a traditional script, possibly the Yi script (Yiwen), and are arranged in a single column from top to bottom. The text is somewhat faded and difficult to read due to the quality of the scan.

Handwritten text in a vertical column, likely a form of traditional Chinese script or a related ethnic script. The characters are densely packed and appear to be a historical record or genealogy. The text is written on a textured, possibly aged paper or parchment. The characters are arranged in a single column, reading from top to bottom. The script is highly stylized and difficult to decipher without specialized knowledge of the specific dialect or script.

Handwritten text in a vertical column, likely a historical record or genealogy. The characters are highly stylized and difficult to decipher, but appear to be a form of traditional Chinese or minority script. The text is arranged in approximately 12 vertical columns, reading from right to left. The paper is aged and shows signs of wear, including some staining and discoloration.
