编者的话

一进入备考阶段，高三年级考生们对优质习题的需求就格外迫切，需要在复习巩固的基础上进行考试前的模拟训练。专项训练根据英语测试中的不同题型特点，分门别类地开展有针对性的归纳与测试，因而是复习的重要环节，考生可针对重点或相对薄弱的项目进行强化训练。

《快捷英语名校特训活页卷》系列丛书由高考听力理解、高考语法与词汇、高考阅读理解、高考完形填空、高考书面表达、高考短文改错等分册组成，在编写时充分考虑各单独命题省市的实际情况，方便各地考生使用。

本丛书特色说明：

一、理念科学：本套丛书在编写过程中，特别融入了“特训”与“限时”的理念，习题的数量与质量完全符合特训要求，适合特定时间段内进行强化训练与重点突破。

二、高度仿真：试题难易比例与考点分布完全贴近高考命题要求，并注明限定时间，每一套练习均要求考生在高考规定时间内完成，全真模拟训练为日后迎战高考打下坚实的基础。

三、试题全新：精编试题，考点全面；创新试题具有预测功能与前瞻性，虽不是真题，但实为在近年来的真题题型中融入了名校名师对考试趋势的真知灼见。

四、语料丰富：测试题在内容上遵循以学生为中心的理念，注重其广泛性、真实性、新颖性和趣味性。特别是在完形填空、阅读理解、短文改错和书面表达的选材上，尽量选用贴近现实生活、反映时代特色和当今科技发展的最新材料，目的在于在做题的同时，了解更多英语国家的社会、人文、科技以及风土人情等方面的知识。

五、解析精当：在给出每道试题的答案后，还对所考查的重点、难点作了详细的解析，有利于帮助学生掌握正确的解题思路和答题技巧，举一反三，迅速提高。

六、名校名师：本丛书作者由省市教研员、高考命题研究专家及有多年指导备考经验的骨干教师组成，丛书为作者长年教学经验与智慧的结晶，是考生考前训练中梳理知识体系，把握应试策略与技巧的最佳材料。

七、方便实用：本套丛书采用活页试卷装帧形式，合理的体例安排既适合教师课堂进行统一训练，也便于学生课下自测，满足“每日一练”的需求。

本套丛书在编写过程中得到了清华附中、北大附中、人大附中、北京四中、湖南师大附中、四川绵阳中学、江苏靖江高级中学、江苏淮安高级中学、山东师大附中、河北唐山一中等重点名校的大力支持，在此一并表示感谢！

本丛书尽管从策划、编写、审核到出版都不遗余力地精心设计、用心操作，恐仍难免疏漏与舛误，诚望广大师生批评指正。

My father's grandfather Peder Hansen was an officer in Denmark. When the Nazi Germans 1 Denmark, Peder escaped in a fishing boat and 2 the British army. Peder trained to be in the Special Forces where he had to learn 3 to kill rapidly with all kinds of 4, and also with his hands.

Because he 5 seven languages, he became a spy when special force training was 6. It was his main job to 7 British pilots from Nazi German and Italian occupied countries. If the pilot was 8, Peder would be sent there by submarine (潜艇) or airplane 9 the English Channel and into Germany to help him escape across Germany through France 10 to England, usually by fishing boat.

11 Peder was training in England, he made friends with an English 12. Once the pilot was shot down over Germany. So Peder 13 to go in Germany to rescue him and found the pilot was 14 but in a German prison. That night, Peder 15 the jail, killed two of the guards, and released his friend. 16, as they ran from the jail, a guard shot the pilot in the arm. Peder managed to drag him off, and made some 17 help for the wound. But the wound was very large and severe. 18 the pilot's wound became very infected.

Just before his brave friend 19, he told Peder he had nothing to give him to remember him by except for his leather vest (马甲). Peder cherished it all his 20. Before he died, he passed it on to my father John, who still has it and wears it to this day.

Days became weeks, weeks became months, and gradually miracle happened! English 1 started forming words I could 2, words assembled into phrases, and—I was reading. It was a slow process, 3 by dictionaries and accompanied by tears, but it was 4.

As my English improved, the library began to open up for me. The staff was 5. There was no limit on how many 6 could be checked out. And nobody called me Jewish. Here I was just Russian.

7, I got promoted to the front desk—8 books in and out and answering simple questions.

"Today, I'll get fired," I thought to myself every morning. My vocabulary was still 9, my comprehension limited, and my strong Russian 10 amused my Midwestern patrons (老主顾). Yet, many of them 11 me, and I smiled back, openly, and sincerely.

"You should 14 a library degree," my supervisor (主管) suggested.

A degree? In Moscow, people as my age didn't go back to school. Still, later that year, I 15 an application for the library science program at the local 16. The next four years of my life were 17 in two libraries—the public library where I worked and the university's library, where I 18 after work.

It's been 17 years since I arrived in America. My English has greatly improved. And I am 19 with the same library. Every day I meet dozens of people—looking for a book to 20, using computers, or doing their homework.

Then I smile and say—just as a librarian said to me a long time ago—"Can I help you?"

About a week ago, my 4-year-old cousin and I were playing basketball at our local park. The 1 was warm, and many other children were outside 2. As we played, I noticed a small group of boys 3 a smaller, skinnier, and possibly younger boy. They were calling him names and 4 pushed him to the ground and 5 dirt in his face. When I saw that, I grabbed my 6 by the hand and walked over to the 7.

I stepped 8 them and the younger boy, and asked them 9 what this boy had done to deserve 10 they were doing to him. They all 11 silently for a moment, and then the most amazing thing 12: One of the boys who hadn't said anything since I 13 stepped around me and helped the small boy off the 14 and then apologized. He offered to let him play with them, 15 the boy quietly said "thank you" and refused, then left there.

As I looked around, I 16 that there were dozens of other people at the park—some of them were 17 with children of their own—but no one else had stopped to help this boy. I felt 18 that the one of the boys was brave enough to stand up against his friends to help someone 19, but I felt sad that no one else had even taken a second 20. I couldn't help but think that those other parents at the park would want someone to help their child in that situation, and yet they did nothing but stand by.

I was on my way to two job interviews. Not surprisingly, I was 1, so before I got off my train, I 2 my phone out to check the directions to the first one. A short 3 later, I reached the subway, but when I went into my purse for my 4 to buy a MetroCard, I found that my wallet and new glasses were 5.

I ran 6 to the information counter to ask if anyone had 7 my wallet and glass case. The woman in the booth told me the train was 8 in the station. I hurried there immediately to 9 my things. Long story short, no luck.

Heartbroken, I 10 to the information desk. Not only would I miss both my appointments, but I was stranded (束手无策) with no 11. I burst into tears as I explained the 12 to the woman in the booth. But to my amazement, she reached into her purse and 13 me $7! "It's all I have right now," she said, "Please use it to get to your 14."

I went to my two interviews. 15 I came back to thank her, she was 16, but she had described me to the man on the 17 shift who handed me a courtesy (免费的) ticket home.

I was deeply moved by the woman's kindness. And just when the day couldn't get any better, I 18 a call. A conductor had found my wallet and glasses and would 19 me on the train the next day.

I just want to share that 20 with others now. From this, I feel strongly that kind people in the world still exist.

It happened again last week. Someone I had 1 met said to me, "You work in oncology (肿瘤科)? Isn't that 2?" I have heard that remark countless of 3 during my sixteen-year career as an oncology 4 and my response is always the 5, "No. I love it!" And then I smile.

I 6 at North Shore University Hospital in Manhasset. We get to know our 7 very well. We learn about their likes and dislikes and what their 8 TV programs are. We get to meet their families and they look at pictures of ours. They 9 us about a favorite vacation they once 10 and they wish us a good time 11 we are leaving for one. They say enjoy every moment of the day because you never know when 12 is going to change.

I am 13 a recent experience we had with our patient Jim, a thirty-six-year-old man 14 four children under the age of six. He was diagnosed a serious 15 a year ago and was facing the very real 16 that he did not have long to live. Jim decided to try for some very experimental 17. Jim got a miracle and now he is home with his family.

The thing about working in oncology and an important 18 why I stay in it is that sometimes, not usually, not even very often, miracles do 19. And when they do, I am filled with gratitude and 20. As a nurse, I can be a part of that miraculous process.

Now you know why I smile when people ask me if I find oncology nursing to be depressing.

A few years ago when my daughter was about two years old, I went through a difficult time. My marriage was 1, I was pregnant (怀孕的) and not particularly well and I didn't 2 much money. Looking back I think I was also a bit 3 but I had to get on with taking care of my 4 the best I could.

One day I thought I would take my daughter for a nice day 5 at our park as she liked it there, and I thought it was a nice, positive thing to do. I 6 to walk because the bus was 7, so it took us a long time to get there. When we 8 got there, immediately my daughter began to cry. She was cold, she was 9, and she wanted to go home. 10, I hadn't been thinking straight as I had not prepared 11. I didn't even have any money to buy a drink or to 12 the bus back home. I was so frustrated that my dream of a nice time had 13.

I started 14 back home, and my daughter would not 15 crying. I felt so miserable and cross with myself and my 16 that I started crying too.

At that point a car pulled up and a gentleman 17 us a lift. He took us home, and seemed really 18—he even offered me all his change! The 19 of this stranger to a stranger like me really made me feel a lot better. I 20 saw him again and I don't know who he is but he really helped me out that day, so I'm just grateful to him.

Five and a half years ago my father was suddenly rushed to the hospital for open heart surgery. At the time, we had no 1 that he was seriously ill. The surgery did not go 2 and he remained unconscious. Due to the 3 of our state, we were forced to 4 him on a ventilator (呼吸器) for 72 hours against his living will wishes.

I was 5 in the waiting room and was watching others 6 their fathers around who had had 7 surgeries. Typically, I am very happy for others that are 8, but this evening I guess I was a little 9 because I finally realized I would 10 be able to hold my father's hand and walk down the hall again.

I had to jump up and 11 the hall to get away from everyone. This is not in my nature 12 I just had to be alone. After running for what seemed like eternity (无穷), I 13 a restroom and went in. I leaned 14 the wall and cried for at least five minutes.

When I came out of the restroom there was a 15 by the sink. I went to turn on the water to wash my 16 a little and she just grabbed me and hugged me. She held onto me 17 I finally stopped crying. Then she grabbed a paper towel and handed it to me. She looked at me, 18 and then left. She never spoke one word but she touched my 19 forever.

She taught me that you do not need to be an excellent conversationalist to help heal the 20 in others. You can make a difference in someone's life without ever uttering one word.

I have recently moved across the country to the West Coast. I started feeling a little 1 and missing my friends and family.

I'm an extrovert (外向型人) and I love to 2, that's why I enjoy going to school so much because it gives me the 3 to meet new and different people. I love talking with and 4 people from different walks of life, 5 religions, and age groups. The elderly and 6 are the most interesting to me. The elderly can tell you all about it 7 children look at everything with 8 full of wonder.

Recently, while riding the bus I struck up a(n) 9 with an elderly woman who had been born and 10 in the Pacific North West. She had so many stories about the area and how it had once been. I 11 had a wonderful time talking to her. A few days later, I got 12 the bus and there she was again. She smiled when she saw me and patted the 13 next to her. I sat with her and we picked up the conversation where we had 14. Over the next few days whenever I got on the bus she was 15 there and we would talk.

I have returned to work and have been 16 an earlier bus and haven't seen much of 17 "new old friend". Then I ran into her at the transit (运输) 18 and she cheered up. This really 19 my heart.

Finally my "new old friend" asked me if she may have my number so that we could 20 when she doesn't have the pleasure to see me on the bus.

When I was a little girl, my mom liked to make breakfast food for dinner every now and then. And I remember one night 1 when she had made breakfast after a long hard 2 at work. She placed a plate of eggs, sausage (香肠) and 3 burnt toast in front of us. Yet all my dad did was 4 his toast, smile at my mom and ask me 5 my day was at school. I don't remember what I 6 him that night, but I do remember 7 him smear (涂抹) butter and jelly on that 8 and eat every bite!

When I got up from the table that evening, I 9 hearing my mom apologize to my dad, for 10 the toast. And I'll never forget what he said, "Dear, I love burnt toast." 11 that night, I went to kiss daddy goodnight and I asked him if he 12 liked his burnt toast. He wrapped me up in his 13 and said, "Debbie, your momma put in a hard day at work today and she's really 14. And besides, a little burnt toast 15 hurt anyone!" In bed that night, I thought about the scene at dinner and the 16 my daddy showed to my mom.

To this day, it's a cherished (珍贵的) 17 from my childhood that I'll never forget. What I've learned over the years is that learning to 18 each other's faults and choosing to celebrate each other's differences is one of the most important 19 to creating a healthy, growing and lasting marriage 20. We could extend this to any relationship in fact as understanding is the base of any relationship, a husband-wife relationship or parent-child or friendship.
