This year marks the 70th anniversary of the founding of the People's Republic of China. Seventy years are but an instant in the history of human development. Yet over the past seven decades, Chinese people, through hard work and self-reliance, have written a splendid chapter in which they have constructed a strong and prosperous country and strived for national rejuvenation. Over the past 70 years, by bidding farewell to poverty and backwardness and leaving behind grief and national humiliation, China has stepped confidently into a new era of socialism with Chinese characteristics. A China full of vigor and hope stands tall in the East and is moving ever closer to the center of the world stage.

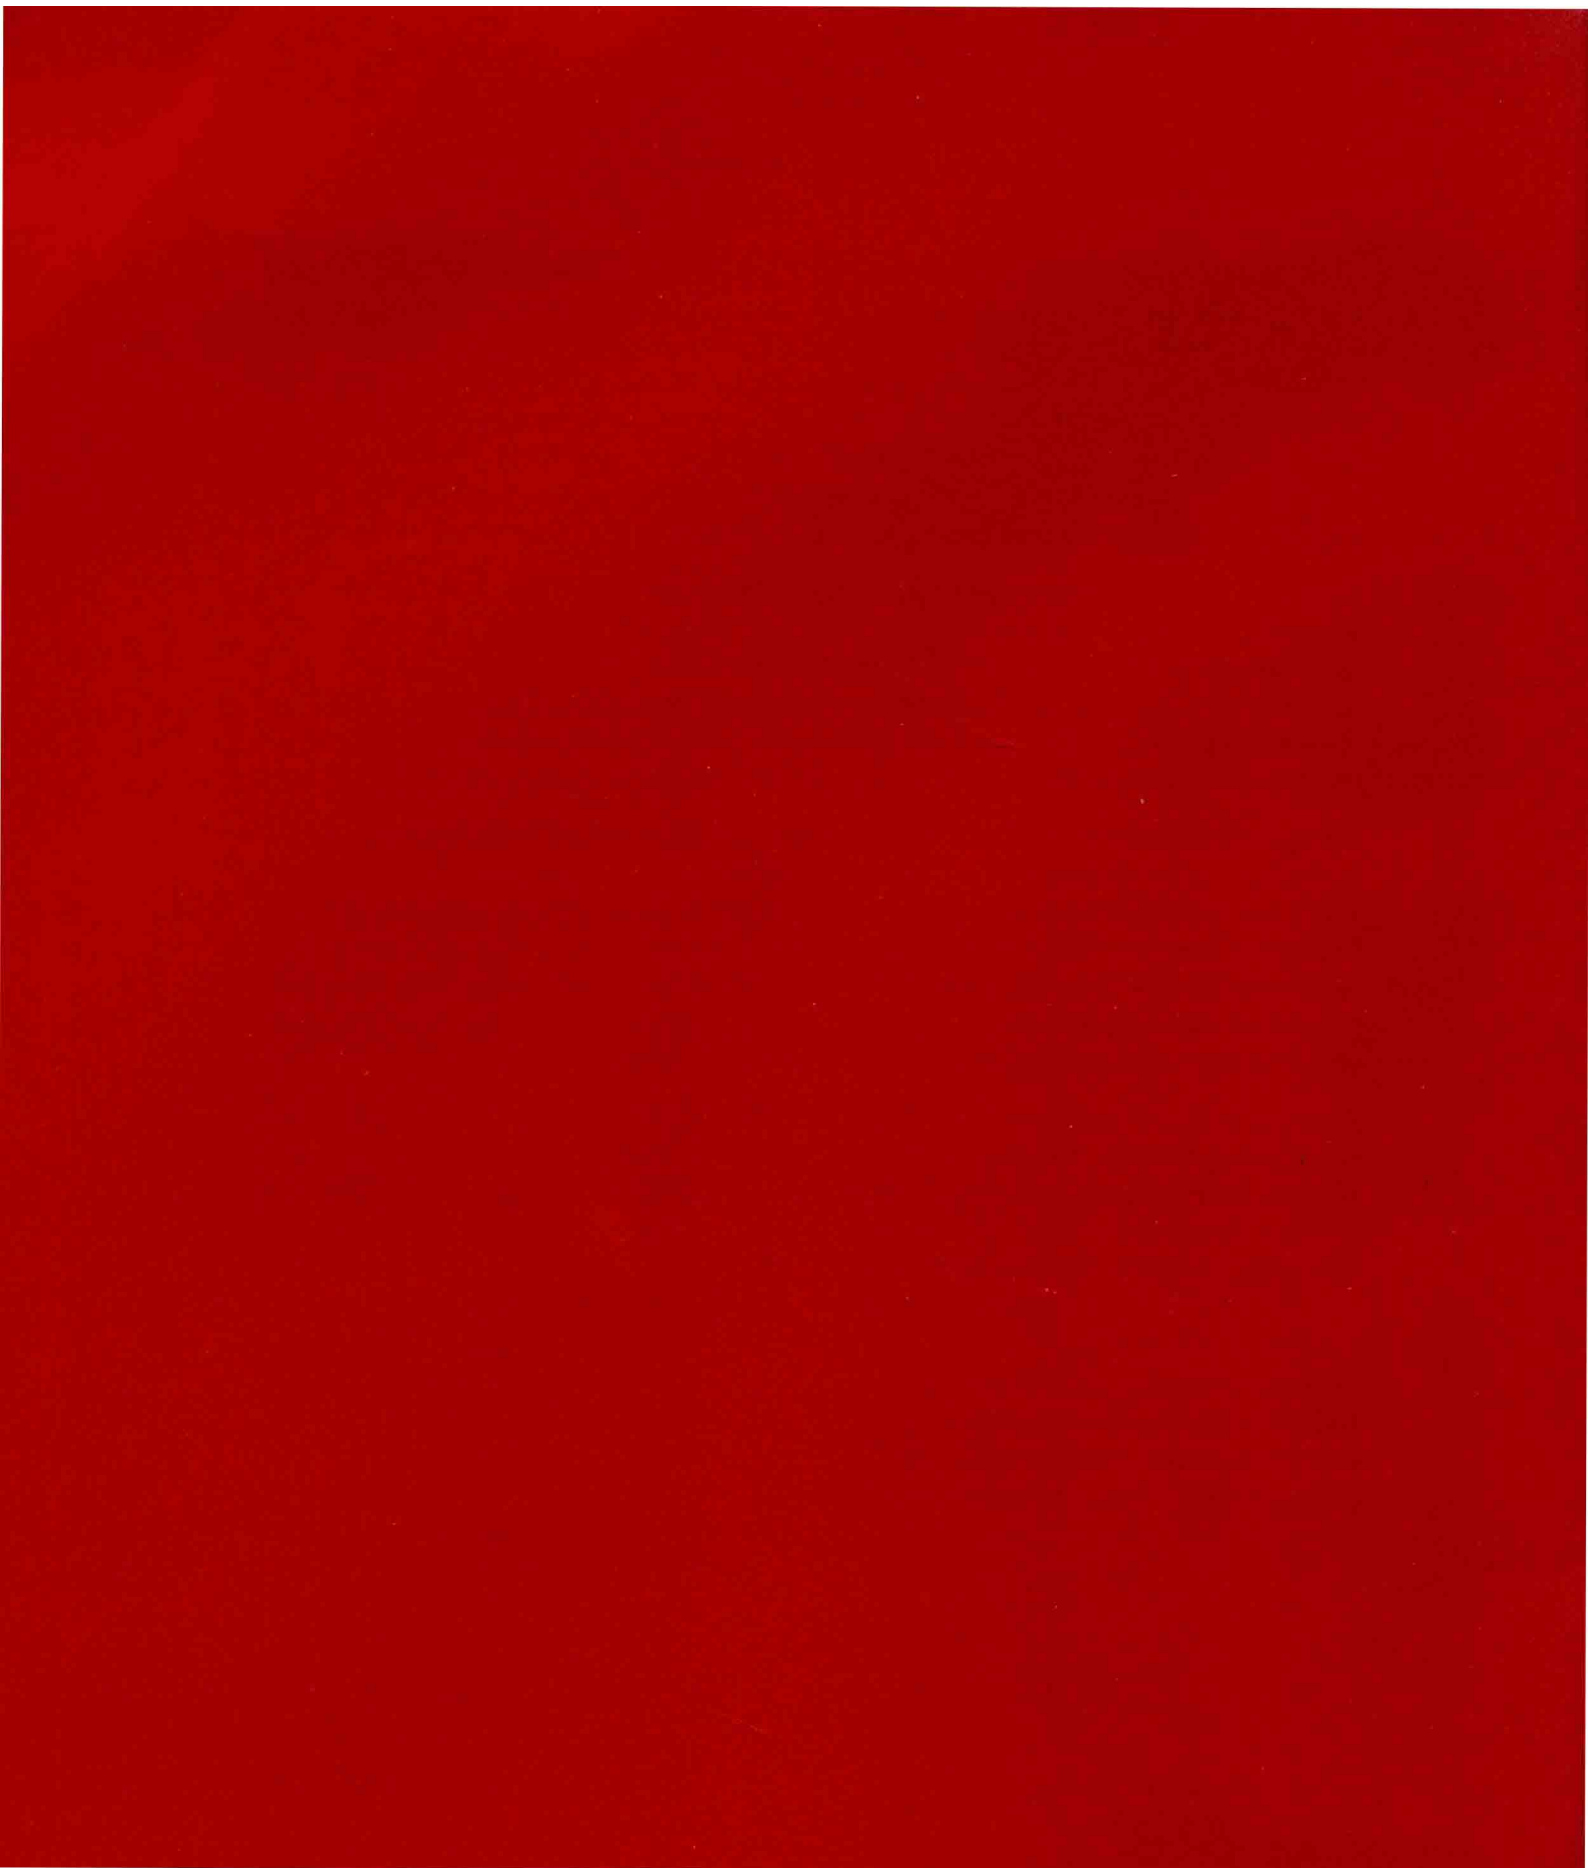

As one of the important measures China Daily has taken to celebrate the 70th anniversary of the founding of New China, we, along with other relevant institutions, have launched the activity 100 Photographers Focus on 70 Years of the People's Republic of China and published this photo book, displaying the great changes and achievements the country has made nationwide as viewed through the lenses of many well-known photographers.

Through the historical moments that are captured one after another in these photos, readers may gain a good understanding of China's remarkable transformation over the past 70 years and the miracles it has achieved in economic development, political progress, improving people's livelihoods, cultural prosperity and ecological conservation. They can also appreciate how the Communist Party of China has never forgotten its original aspirations and kept in mind its historical mission and, as a result, has led the Chinese people to draw such a splendid and beautiful scroll of their endeavors.

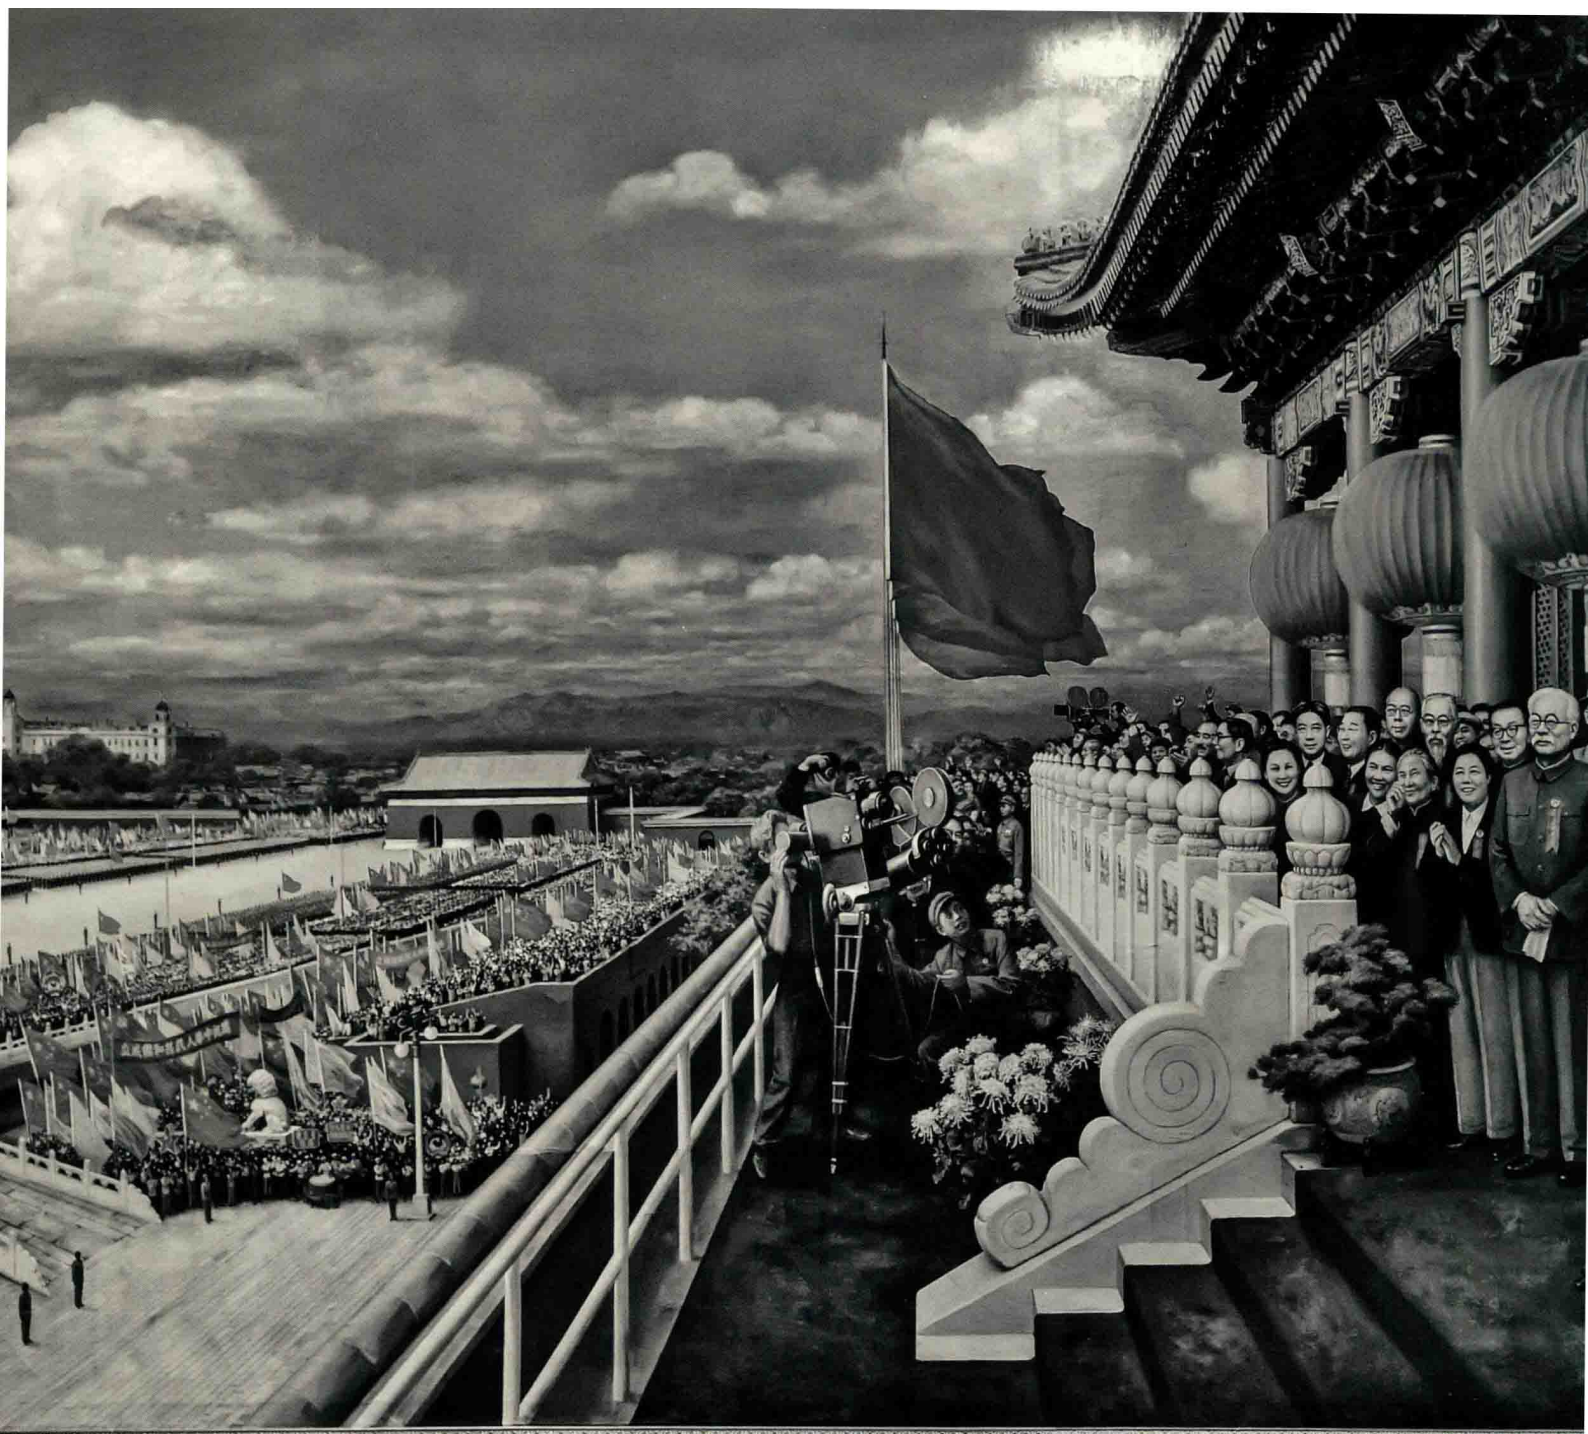

Standing at a new starting point, China cherishes new hope for a new journey with a new guiding thought. We will stick to our original intentions, while continuing to move forward, joining hands with people from all walks of life to tell a good story of China, having China's voice heard all over the world and making even greater contributions to increasing the soft power of China's national culture.
