FOREWORD

TRADE CASES reports the official texts of federal and state court decisions, consent decrees entered in federal antitrust suits, and state attorney general opinions, involving Federal Trade Commission orders, federal or state antitrust laws, fair trade pricing, and other trade regulation problems dealt with in the publishers' TRADE REGULATION REPORTS.

The Sherman and Clayton Antitrust Acts, the Robinson-Patman Price Discrimination Act, and the Federal Trade Commission Act are the principal federal laws interpreted and applied by these decisions. The state fair trade acts (involving resale price maintenance), unfair practices acts (involving sales below cost), and price discrimination and basic antitrust laws are the state laws concerned.

The contents of this volume, cited "1963 TRADE CASES," consist of the decisions reported in TRADE REGULATION REPORTS during the period from January 8, 1963, to January 3, 1964. This volume of TRADE CASES is one of a series which presents in permanent, bound form reproductions of the decisions reported currently from week to week.

Since TRADE REGULATION REPORTS is an original and complete reporter of official opinions and decisions as handed down by the courts, it follows as a matter of course that these bound volumes are authoritative and comprehensive. Decisions appear in the chronological order of publication and are designated by paragraph numbers in numerical order. The paragraph numbers are the same as those used and referred to in the TRADE REGULATION REPORTS case tables and indexes, thus facilitating reference to or from either source.

Each decision is preceded by:

- The full name of the case.
- The name of the court, the docket number, and the date of the decision.
- Headnotes—accurate, succinct, and informative, with emphasis on the main issues.
- Names of attorneys representing the litigants, whenever available.

In antitrust cases instituted by the Government, the case number by which the case is identified in the Antitrust Division of the Department of Justice is also included.

In cases involving a Federal Trade Commission complaint or order, the FTC Docket number is given.

Effective indexing is provided to afford quick and convenient contact with any case by reference to its paragraph number. The indexing system includes:

(a) Table of Cases. Alphabetical, with complete listings under plaintiffs' names and cross references under defendants' names. The official and national reporter citations are included when available.

(b) Indexes. Complete and detailed. In addition to the General Topical Index, covering all of the decisions in the volume, special indexes are provided for:

(i) Antitrust Consent Decrees

(ii) Federal Trade Commission Cases

(iii) Robinson-Patman Act Cases

(iv) State Fair Trade Act Cases

This thorough indexing affords instant contact with any case either by case name, or by subject matter.

The publishers' TRADE REGULATION REPORTS are thoroughly coordinated with TRADE CASES for effective use together. In researching a specific problem, subscribers to the REPORTS will want to consult the Topical Index, which gives immediate access to the compilations of law, regulations, editorial comment and annotations. The digests of court decisions and attorney generals' opinions in these compilations feature TRADE CASES citations. Thus, topical reference to the full texts of these cases and opinions in the entire TRADE CASES series is simplified. The "Table of Cases" in TRADE REGULATION REPORTS also includes TRADE CASES citations. In approaching a known case, therefore, subscribers will ordinarily use that Table of Cases to locate the TRADE CASES citation.

In planning and producing TRADE CASES, the aim of the publishers throughout is to make this volume of the utmost utility in the important and extensive field of trade regulation. The user's time is saved by concentration on the subject of trade regulation, no time being lost in leafing through irrelevant cases; by use of a single reporting medium for courts of all jurisdictions; and by the explanatory headnotes—clearly stated captions written by specialists in trade regulation law. Space saving is effected by the presentation of the decisions and opinions in continuity, making for compactness in the hand and on the shelf. Price saving is made possible by the publishers through sound use of their experience gained in the course of more than fifty years of reporting, plus the exceptional advantages that accrue to them by the combination of their own editing and printing facilities.
