When you look at the 66 of a watch, you may see the English words "Made in China". Look at something else, for example, a 67. 68, you may find the English words "Made in China", or "Made in Japan", or 69 "Made in Germany".

Why? English is the 70 language in none of these countries. So why are the English words "Made in ....." "written on 71 things. It is because in the 72 world, English is very widely used for business between different countries. So when a German buys something from a Japanese, or an Indian sells something to a Frenchman, they may all use English. Most business letters 73 the world are written in English. Half the world's telephone 74 are made in English. Three quarters of the world's books and newspapers are written in English. English is the 75 widely used in the world.
