Part A

Directions: You are planning a weekend outdoor trip to the outskirts to celebrate the National Day. Write a letter to your friends inviting them to join you. Your letter should include:

- 1) the activities you are planning
- 2) the departure and return times for the trip
- 3) how much it may cost each one present

You should write about 100 words on ANSWER SHEET 2. Do not sign your own name at the end of the letter. Use "Li Ming" instead. You do not need to write the address.

典型范文

Dear Friends,

The seven-day long National Day is drawing near. As we have all been working very hard, we deserve to relax and have a good time together. How about having a picnic at the suburb? We'll be able to breathe the fresh air, have a picnic, play games, and camp out under the stars. If you'd like to participate, we'll be leaving on a bus from West Gate at 9 a. m. on October 2, and returning late October 4 evening.

There are expenses involved with the trip, so I'd appreciate if you would all contribute 100 RMB to help cover the cost of renting the bus.

Hope to see you on October 2.

Yours devotedly,
Li Ming

Directions: Study the following pictures carefully and write an essay to

- 1) describe the picture
- 2) deduce the purpose of the drawer of the picture
- 3) make comments

You should write about 200 words neatly on ANSWER SHEET 2.

Write a composition according to the following picture in 160~200 words.

典型范文

A poster is pasted on the bulletin board. But not until the paste becomes dry, a new one covers up the former one. They both say something to the effect that if you want to take graduate school entrance examinations, do come and attend our guidance courses, because ours are, if not the best, better than the others. In bookstores, numerous guidance books all claim to be authorities. Around you, there must be someone who is, or you yourself are also, considering taking the exams. In a sense, the draw-bridge leading to the castle of the graduate school is more and more narrow year by year, for more people enter their names for graduate school entrance examinations each year, though the planned enrollment figure grows rather slowly.

However, in spite of the tough competition, people prepare hard for the exams out of different motivations. Some college graduates, having realized that postgraduates have superiority over then in job-hunting, turn to graduate schools instead of the job market to get themselves further prepared for their future career. Some who have a job, often an unsatisfactory one, hope to be able to find a new one after graduate studies. Apart from these two kinds, many people, graduating, or having a job, find it helpful to continue their study in graduate schools. Their objective is to learn more about their subject. In a word, people rush into graduate schools out of both pragmatic and academic reasons.

Whatever reasons they have, we are pleased to find that so many people want to pursue graduate studies. The trend shows that people value education more and more. This will inevitably further raise the level of our national education and, as a result, speed up the economic development of our country. Conversely, the high speed of our economic development also requires that people be better-educated. In other words, education and economic development interact with and stimulate each other. Therefore, we cheer for, so to speak, “graduate school rush”, which, to some extent, betokens grander prospects for China’s economic development.

- 1) Show you understanding about the issue
- 2) State your opinions and use facts to support your statement

You should write about 200 words neatly on ANSWER SHEET 2. (20 points)

Noise Pollution

Noise is harmful to people. Today as the population grows, we experience an increasing use of all kinds of machines, such as automobiles, televisions or stereos. These things and many others that seem to benefit people a lot may turn out to be a source of noise pollution. Nowadays noise pollution is getting so serious that people all over the world are paying greater attention to it and seeking ways to handle this noise pollution.

Noise does harm to people physically. Studies have proved that long exposure to noise intensity will lead to the loss of hearing. It also does great harm to people who suffer from heart trouble. So there is a wide-spread concern over the noise pollution.

Moreover, noise also disturbs people's mind. Some of the work sites make a lot of noise at night, leaving people in a sleepless state. Noise from a stereo and television or things like that annoys people spiritually, which may possibly drive people "mad" and hurt people mentally.

Now more people realize that silence is a natural resource and must be protected by law. It appears that we all find company in sound, but in the meanwhile we all demand a little silence from time to time.

Part B

Directions: Study the following set of drawings carefully and write an essay in which you should

1) describe the set of drawings, interpret its meaning

2) point out its implications in our life

You should write about 160~200 words neatly on ANSWER SHEET 2.

典型范文

It is well known that self-confidence is of vital importance to everyone. It is the most essential quality than anyone who wants to achieve success should possess. A confident person can face and overcome any difficulties and drawbacks. And without confidence, a person will easily give up halfway. As is described in the pictures, the confident young man got the desired job; however, the other young man lost what he could have got due to his lack of confidence.

However, there are a lot of people who are not confident enough. They often think that they can never succeed. So, lack of confidence makes them miss a lot of opportunities and they lose a lot. Also, without confidence, some difficulties that originally can be overcome will still stand in one's way. Furthermore, if one has no confidence, he will not be able to do anything. In one word, a person without confidence will achieve nothing.

From what has been discussed above, we can see that the establishment of self-confidence is quite important. First, we should tell ourselves that we are as good as or better than anyone else. Second, we should be aware that anyone may have problems in his or her life. So we should believe that we can settle all the problems. Moreover, we should keep learning from others and keep up with the time. With our knowledge, skill, and experience, we will be able to deal with any situations in our life.

Dear Miss Star,

Maybe you don't remember me, but I am the monitor of your Tuesday English class. Although we have met only once, my classmates and I already know we are going to enjoy your class and learn a lot from you. In fact, we are looking forward to your next class now.

Directions: Study the following drawing carefully and write an essay in which you should

- 1) describe the drawing
- 2) interpret its meaning
- 3) support your view with examples

You should write about 160~200 words neatly on ANSWER SHEET 2.

典型范文

Here is a vivid picture in which a disabled young man succeeded in climbing up a high mountain. He may have failed many times, but with his great perseverance, he conquered the mountain in the end. The picture shows that perseverance contributes a lot to one's success. Whatever one does, he should not give up easily.

Perseverance refers to the steady efforts made to fulfill certain aims. Although “All roads lead to Rome”, none of them is completely smooth. Our life is filled with obstacles which may make us feel so hopeless that we may choose to give up. At this crucial moment, perseverance helps a lot. Instead of giving up, we keep on making great efforts to overcome the obstacles. And as a result, we can achieve final success. Helen Keller can be a good example to us. She was born blind and deaf. However, throughout all her life, she never lost her heart. Instead, she kept on learning to read and write and later became a very famous writer.

Perseverance is of equal importance in our everyday life. Whenever we meet with some difficulties, we need perseverance to encourage ourselves to keep on going. Then things may change completely. And when we solve all the problems successfully, we can obtain a sense of achievement.

To sum up, perseverance helps to achieve our goals.

- 2) making an overall evaluation of her working ability and social ability

You should write about 100 words on ANSWER SHEET 2. Do not sign your own name at the end of the letter. Use "Li Ming" instead. You do not need to write the address.

It is my pleasure to recommend Miss Anderson, one of my former clerks, to fill the post of your advertisement.

Miss Anderson graduated from the University of California-Berkeley with a Bachelor's degree in management in 1997 and has worked for us for two years. She started as a secretary and within one year was promoted to office manager.

She is leaving our firm of her own volition in order to seek advancement and we are sorry to lose her.

So I would be pleased if her application for the post in the advertisement would be put into your kind consideration. And certainly there is no doubt that she will live up to your expectations once employed.

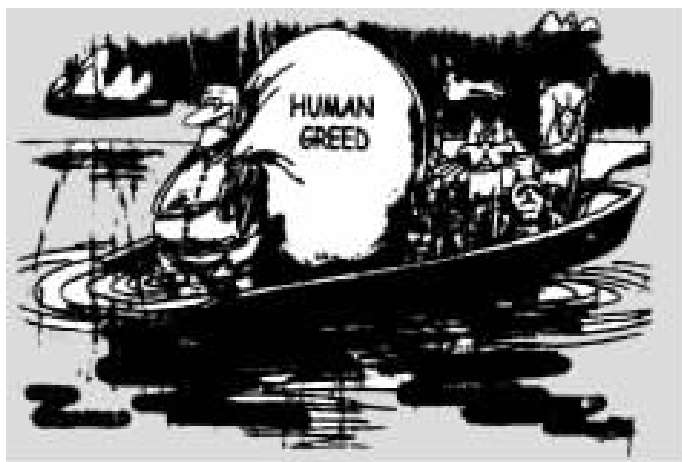

Sincerely yours,

Part B

Directions: The conflict between excessive human needs and the environment has become more and more serious in most of the countries around the world. Learn the picture and write your opinion on the environmental problem that has been aroused by human need. The passage should include the following points:

- 1) Describe the picture
- 2) State your opinions on the problem
- 3) The importance of protecting the environment

典型范文

It is commonly known that with the rapid development of economy, human beings demand more and more from the environment. In the picture, the boat that has accommodated both the human beings and all kinds of animals is forced to sink with the heavy load of human greed. That is to say, human greed will destroy mankind one day if not controlled.

First of all, the imbalance of nature caused by human greed has imposed a great threat on the lives of other species on the earth. Since both the human beings and other living species rely on the natural resources the earth has provided, over-exploitation of the environment means destroying the living space of the habitants on the earth. Secondly, tempted by the great profits from hunting wild animals, human beings sometimes kill many precious animals for material rewards. Thousands of animals go extinct every year due to the cruel slaughter by human beings, which worsens the present situation. Thirdly, human beings are actually committing suicide while they endlessly misuse natural resources. The more consumed, the less left.

In the worldwide process of commercialization, we should keep the balance between nature and economic growth and avoid excessive exploration. The significance of maintaining an environment where human beings and animals can live harmoniously together lies in the benefits of ourselves.

Directions: You bought a washing machine from a company. It's new one but breaks down from time to time. This bothers your normal life a lot. You simply won't endure the situation anymore and hope your problem solved. Writing a letter to a producer of electric appliances:

- 1) telling them the trouble their product has brought you

- 2) complaining about the inconvenience you feel
- 3) threaten to return the purchase if problems not solved soon

You should write about 100 words on ANSWER SHEET 2. Do not sign your own name at the end of the letter. Use “Li Ming” instead. You do not to write the address.

典型范文

Dear Sir,

I bought a washing machine from you last month. Then I found the machine can't dry clothes automatically. I asked your company to replaced one for me, and you did. But now the replaced one begins to entangle clothes.

When I turned on the machine last week, it entangles the clothes. Then the machine started to shake so wildly that it stopped itself. I had to loosen the entangled clothes by hand before the machine could resume its work. Sometimes it was very frustrating when I came back home from work only to find that clothes in the machine remain half-washed. Is this you call “entirely automatic”?

I'm really disappointed at seeing that the machine has to be changed for a second time within one-month time. But I'm afraid there's no alternative. I hope the problem be solved within two days. If the new one still can't work well, I'll ask for my money back.

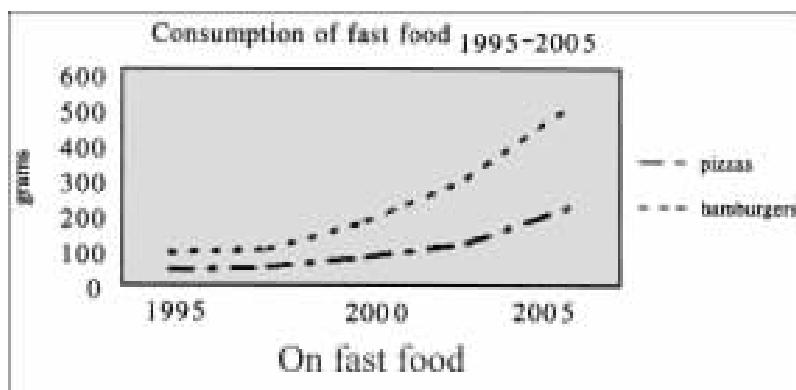

Yours sincerely,
Li Ming

Directions: The graph indicates the consumption of fast food from 1995 to 2005 in a Chinese city. Write a report to your university magazine and base the report on the information of the graph.

- 1) Describe the graph
- 2) State the reasons for the popularity of fast food
- 3) Present your view on fast food consumption

Consumption of fast food 1995-2005

典型范文

In recent years, there has been an increase in the consumption of fast food all around the World. The graph shows that the consumption of hamburgers in 2005 was five times that of 1995 and the consumption of pizzas doubled over the ten years in the Chinese city alone.

There are several reasons for the increase of popularity of fast food during the period. Firstly, the price of fast food is now low enough for nearly every person to afford. Compared with the price of a meal in an authentic foreign restaurant, the prices of hamburgers and pizzas in McDonald's and Pizza Hut are very attractive to an ordinary customer. This is because fast food restaurants can produce hamburgers and pizzas at a reasonable cost with the process of mass production and standardization. Secondly, fast food offers people great convenience and eating fast food always saves time. In contrast to the great amount of time spent in cooking, people can save a lot of trouble and energy by buying and eating fast food in a few minutes.

In spite of the advantages that have been mentioned, fast food has a lot of problems. For example, the nutrients contained in fast food are low and some possible health problems accompany it. So a balanced diet should still be advocated and especially children should not eat too much fast food in order to grow up healthily.

Keep Square Clean, Tidy

On Sunday, still on display on Tiananmen Square were dozens of floats that were paraded along Chang'an Avenue during the National Day celebrations. Thousands of people strolled on the narrow lanes between the floats that fragmented the square, busily taking photos. Not far from the noisy crowds, yellow leaves fell nonchalantly from locust trees along the driveway, sending out the first signals of the coming autumn. But even if all the leaves fall, they still cannot cover the brown and black spots on the whitish stones in the huge square.

Such stains of chewing gum, stale oil or some worse blemish have remained a constant pain for city cleaners since the square was reopened a few months ago after renovations to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the founding of the People's Republic of China.

Few renovation project planners likely foresee this discouraging outcome. Originally, they merely intended to give the city a face-lift. The square was indeed impeccable when new: The white terrazzo surface not only looks clean but it was made with materials that help prevent it from becoming slippery.

However, as time goes by, the virtue becomes the vice: the surface attracts and accentuates dirt. As a result, China's most high-profile site has to suffer the indignity of being paraded daily before the public in a humiliating state.

While the tourists who litter should bear the bulk of the blame, the renovation designers should also have learned something: including the square's sanitary maintenance issue into their consideration.

Dear Sir,

I am very glad to hear that the library is improving its facilities, so I am writing this letter to offer my proposals.

Libraries are essential for students and researchers. They also play a role in education and entertainment. Our library should do its best to purchase new publications as well as maintain a full set of classical works. Internet access is also very important in today's world. Furthermore, all major libraries utilize computers to streamline cataloguing and administrative tasks.

Libraries should strive to keep up with the times. I will be very grateful if you consider my proposals.

Composition three Lighten the Burden of Students

As is shown by the cartoon, the student was seriously obsessed by the excessively heavy burden caused by the pressure of entering a higher school. Fortunately, officials in Education Department have decided to relieve the burden of the students in primary and secondary schools by forcing the schools into closing on weekends. But just as they did this, the parents employed family tutors for their children at home.

If you were afraid that your child might not enter a higher school and hesitated to let him free on weekends, he would become duller and even go insane. Instead, you made sure that your child made the best use of his time at school, leaving the two-day-weekend to his own arrangement. Similarly, when at school, teachers should also make the best use of the class time while leaving the students more free time to go in for what they like—sports, music, computers and so on. Actually, China's Education Department has taken many measures to restrict the various forms of tutor services. In a word, relieving the burden of students is more beneficial than harmful.

In this age of impersonal, uncaring attitudes by so many, I was delighted to discover that the staff at Tall Oaks Hospital was exceptionally cordial and helpful during my stay two weeks ago.

Since complaints usually go to the top, I thought a note of appreciation should, too. Thanks a lot for your patient and careful treatment.

典型范文

If we want to complete our work effectively and efficiently in this busy, modern world, we must all learn to cooperate with others. As the cartoon shows, if we lose our partner, then we will fail as well.

This lesson in cooperation may seem rather simple, as most people are taught that they should cooperate when they are children in school. However, many people still make the mistake by the men in the picture: they believe others must fail for their own success. Supposing that a company leader
