Real policemen hardly recognize any resemblance between their lives and what they see on TV—if they ever get home in time. There are similarities, of course, but the cops don't think much of them.

The first difference is that a policeman's real life involves the law. Most of his training is in criminal law. He has to know exactly what actions are crimes and what evidence can be used to prove them in court. He has to know nearly as much law as a professional lawyer and what is more, he has to apply it on his feet, in dark and rain, running down an alley after someone he wants to talk to.

Little of his time is spent in chatting to scantily-clad ladies or in dramatic confrontations with desperate criminals. He will spend most of his working life typing millions of words on thousands of forms about hundreds of sad, unimportant people who are guilty—or not—of stupid, petty crimes.

Most television crime drama is about finding the criminal: as soon as he's arrested, the story is over. In real life, finding criminals is seldom much of a problem. Except in very serious cases like murders and terrorist attacks—where failure to produce results reflects on the standing of the police—little is spent on searching.

Having made an arrest, a detective really starts to work. He has to prove his case in court and gather a lot of different evidence. So, as well as being overworked, a detective has to be out at all hours of the day and night interviewing his witnesses and persuading them, usually against their own best interests, to help him.

员 It is essential for a policeman to be trained in criminal law _____.

- A) so that he can catch criminals in the streets
- B) so that he can justify his arrest in court
- C) because many of the criminals he has to catch are dangerous
- D) because he has to know nearly as much as a professional lawyer

圆 The everyday life of a policeman or detective is _____.

- A) exciting and glamorous
- B) full of danger
- C) devoted mostly to routine matters
- D) wasted on unimportant things

猿 When murders and terrorist attacks occur, the policemen _____.

- A) prefer to wait for the criminal to give himself away
- B) make a lot of efforts of trying to track down their man
- C) try to make a quick arrest in order to keep up their reputation
- D) usually fail to produce results

源 Which of the following is true according to the passage?

- A) Generally the detective's work is over once the arrest has been made.

D)Policemen feel that the image of their lives shown on TV is not accurate.

D)Drama and Reality

B) Nations that win the football World Cup are regarded as the best in all aspects.

C Nations that win in international games prove the best on the sports field at least.

D Nations that give much attention to international competitions are world-famous in many ways.

Mary Cochran went out of the rooms where she lived with her father, Doctor Lester Cochran, at seven o'clock on a Sunday evening. It was June of the year 员圆愿 and Mary was eighteen years old. She walked along TREMONT to Main Street and across the railroad tracks to Upper Main, lined with small shops and shabby houses, a rather quiet cheerless place on Sundays where there were few people about. She had told her father she was going to church, but did not intend anything of the kind. She did not know what she wanted to do. "I'll get off by myself and think," she told herself as she walked slowly along. The night, she thought, promised to be too fine to be spent sitting in a church and hearing a man talk of things that had apparently nothing to do with her own problem. Her own affairs were approaching a crisis, and it was time for her to begin thinking seriously of her future.

The thoughtful serious state of mind in which Mary found herself had been induced in her by a conversation she had with her father on the evening before. Without any preliminary talk and quite suddenly and abruptly, he had told her that he was a victim of heart disease and might die at any moment. He had made the announcement as they stood together in his office, behind which were the rooms in which the father and daughter lived.

员圆 What did she intend to do that night?

- A She decided to go to church.
- B She decided not to think about the problem.
- C She decided to talk over the problem with her father.
- D She had no intention of going to church.

员圆 What was the cause of Mary's serious state of mind?

- A Concern about her future.
- B Her talk with her father.
- C Worry about her sudden heart attack.
- D Going to church.

员圆 Where did Mary live?

- A In the same building as her father's office.
- B Near the church.
- C In a shabby house near her father's office.
- D She lived in a small shop.

员圆 What was Dr. Cochran's condition?

- A He had a serious heartbreak.
- B He had light heart trouble.
- C He had a fatal disease.
- D He had a bad cold.

员圆 With how many people did Mary live?

- A Mary lived alone with her father.
- B Mary lived together with her parents.
- C There were four of them together.
- D Mary lived with many people.

Jose de San Martin was born in Argentina, on February 员圆. He was educated in Madrid and prepared for a military career. In 1808, he offered his services to his country in its war of independence. Two years later he was placed in command of the revolutionary army operating against the Spaniards in upper Peru. Shortly, however, he resigned his command, realizing that permanent success depended upon the expulsion of the Spaniards from Chile. With the assistance of Chileans' leader Bernardo O'Higgins, he raised and trained an army of Chileans and Argentineans for the invasion of Chile, which took place in 1818. With success in the north of Chile, he turned the government over to O'Higgins and concentrated his attention on the south of the country. Here he was also able to rout the enemy. Thus, just one year after the rebel invasion, the complete independence of Chile was established.

But the job was only half done. Next came the attack on Peru. San Martin reorganized the army and, with the aid of British naval commander Thomas Cochrane, constructed a fleet to work simultaneously with the land forces. In July 1820, the Spaniards were forced to evacuate Lima and retire to the mountains. San Martin entered the city and proclaimed the independence of Peru. For a year he took over the reins of the government, but in 1822, after consulting with Simon Bolivar in Guayaquil, resigned as protector and returned to the land of his birth. Two years later he went to Europe to live. He died there in comparative poverty in 1830.

1. San Martin became chief of the revolutionary army in _____.

- A) 1808 B) 1818 C) 1820 D) 1822

2. For the invasion of Chile the rebel leader was helped by _____.

- A) O'Higgins B) San Martin C) Cochrane D) Bolivar

3. Chile won her independence in _____.

- A) 1808 B) 1820 C) 1818 D) 1822

4. Thomas Cochrane assisted the attack on Peru _____.

- A) by reorganized the army B) with ships

员 Differences between peoples do exist and, one hopes, will always continue to exist.

The world will be a dull place indeed when all the different nationalities behave exactly alike, and some people might say that we are rapidly approaching this state of affairs. With almost the whole of Western Europe belonging to the European Economic Community (EEC) and the increasing standardization this brings about, plus the much greater rapidity and ease of travel, there might seem some truth in this—at least as far as Europe is concerned. At least the greater ease of travel today has revealed to more people than ever before.

圆 Every country tends to accept its own way of life as being a normal one and to praise or criticize others as they are similar to or different from it. And unfortunately, picture of the people and the way of life of other countries is often a distorted one. Here is a great argument in favor of traveling abroad and learning foreign languages. It is only by traveling or living in a country and getting to know its inhabitants and their language that one can find out what a country and its people are like. And how different the knowledge one gains in this way frequently turns out to be from the second-hand information gathered from other sources! How often we find that the foreigners whom we thought to be such different people from ourselves are not very different after all!
